Principal Chief Fife reflects on 1994 accomplishments

by Principal Chief Bill Fife

As we enter the new year, we can be thankful for a successful 1994 and look forward to new accomplishments. Muscogee Nation has made strides in achieving goals and strengthening the foundation for growth for our citizens.

The annual State of the Nation address will be Jan. 28 and I will give you a more complete review. However, a few highlights of 1994 are listed below:

- completion of the center for human development, which will house education, elderly nutrition, and wellness;
- the health administration is completing a comprehensive health center in Okmulgee, which includes a dental, general and pediatric clinic;
- completion of the strategic plan;
- the opening of Muscogee (Creek) Nation Manufacturing Enterprises with a contract from Zebco. It now employs 20 Creek citizens;
- funding from home improvement program to rehabilitate an estimated 20 Indian-owned homes;
- upgrading the telephone system which allows easier access to services and allows for easier expansion and upgrading at a more economically feasible rate;
- received funding for four community centers to be built in Tulsa, Sapulpa, Twin Hills, and Weleetka;
- partial renovation of Eufaula Boarding School;
- employment and training administration provided assistance and information to 1,180 clients;
- 109 students participated in the general education equivalent-adult basic education classes — 28 received their GEDs; and
- informal learning and cultural classes (basket making, beading, Creek language) were held in different communities.

Allie Reynolds dies

OKLAHOMA CITY — Muscogee citizen Allie Reynolds died Dec. 27 after a battle with cancer. Reynolds, also known as the "Super Chief," was pitcher for the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees major league baseball teams. He was also a member of the first tribal gaming operations authority board. His obituary appears on page 7.

New center for human development opens

by Dannette Geren

OKMULGEE — Muscogee citizens will soon be able to access education and training services in one location — the new Muscogee (Creek) Nation Center for Human Development.

Opening in January, it will also be the site for the elderly nutrition and wellness programs. The 16,000-square-foot building houses four main areas: education services, wellness education, dining, and multi-purpose.

This new facility is a result of grant funding from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and appropriations from bingo revenues by the National Council. This initiative, under Chief Bill Fife's administration, is a cooperative joint effort of the legislative and executive branches of government.

To date, education programs — Johnson O'Malley, vocational, higher education, etc., — have been located in different areas. With education services under one roof, accessibility will be easier for Muscogee (Creek) Nation citizens.

"This building is designed to make our services easier and more accessible to our clients," said Valeria Littlecreek, tribal director of education. "Now, instead of running all over, clients can come to one building for their education and training needs. We will also have a central area for our intake process and client assessment."

The education area has a classroom for skill development, a conference room with audio-visual capabilities, and a counseling and assessment area to determine clients' capabilities. Testing, which previously has been done at Oklahoma State University-Okmulgee, will now be done in-house.

With centralized areas of service, secretarial pools will be cross-trained — which will improve efficiency for clients and will better assist each department. Computers will be updated with the latest programs and skills will be upgraded which will benefit employees and make a more productive area. The application process for services will be more simplified.

"The move will definitely help our clients," said Curtis Hicks, manager of employment and training programs. "This structure will make our intake process and assessment easier for our clients"

In addition, Hicks believes the working area will be beneficial for more employees.

Second Chief Crow offers best in New Year

by Shelly Crow, second chief

As we reflect on 1994 and hope for a better 1995, many of us may be at our wit's end as we keep working to accomplish the many tasks that we are required to do.

Many health scholars have been published concerning man and his health and illnesses. As health providers look at the diagnosis of man, the word disease itself has many interesting definitions. Disease means lack of ease or peace in one's life. Our Indian ways have always been to look at the holistic approach to man — mind, body, and spirit.

If we become stressed due to not liking our life situations, our bodies' immune systems become very sensitive to these situations. Stress is known to reduce the immune system. Therefore, a healthy mind will produce a healthy body.

When people discuss how tired they are with no physical symptoms to back them up, they may then be diagnosed with "chronic fatigue syndrome" — which simply means continuously tired for no known reason.

But, in reality there is a reason. A physician many not be able to put his finger on the exact cause or find in the medical books, a reason for this syndrome. The affected individual may be unhappy with their present state of life and have no coping skills to reduce this unhappiness.

"Self-Reliance," an essay by Ralph Waldo Emerson, was given to me recently and it has helped me to realize the Creator is ever present and has given us the ability for both independence and survival for the challenges we must overcome — challenges we had not planned to endure. An excerpt:

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better or worse as his portion;

that though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till.

The power which resides in him is new in nature, and none but he knows what that is which he can do, nor does he know until he has tried.

Not for nothing one face, one character, one fact, makes much impression on him and another none.

This sculpture on the memory is not without pre-established harmony.

The eye was placed where one ray should fall, that it might testify of that particular ray.

We but half express ourselves, and are ashamed of that divine idea which each of us represents.

It may be safely trusted as proportionate and of good issues, so it be faithfully imparted, but God will not have his work made manifest by cowards.

A man is relieved when he puts his heart into this work and done his best.

May all elected officials, employees, and citizens look forward to serving our people by removing barriers that can lessen our stress to obtaining services, leading us all to self-reliance.

Happy New Year.

Citizen urges unity at grounds

Editor:

At one time in Creek territory there were 44 established tribal ceremonial grounds. Today there are probably 13 remaining [active]. For some reason or another, these ceremonial grounds are disappearing.

In some cases it has been our own people to dissolve our grounds because we lack the unity among our people. Unity is destroyed because there is no love for one another. People no longer try to work with one another. There are too many people that want to be the leader.

Some people do not wish to abide by the rules of [their] ground which were set by past mekkos. It takes every member of the ground — whether it be man, woman, or child — to fulfill their obligation to their mekko and to their ceremonial ground. When we destroy one of the most valuable traditions that were brought over by many of our people that suffered. It is a great sadness that [this] can be destroyed by a few.

At a stomp dance this past summer, one member overheard an adult say they could not dance because there were too many children. The member said, "I'd rather see these young people here than out somewhere getting into trouble."

Where else can we take our children where they can become involved in their tradition, learn the ways, respect their elders and one another as it was taught long ago?

Where will our children get the support they need as young leaders and shell shakers if there are bad examples set for them?

When I was very young Creeks was just a name. As I got older, I got to know the Creeks had a chief. I just didn't see much of anything the various chiefs did — except Chief Roley Canard gave me my first doll at Christmastime.

I was about four years old then. Times were hard. Not much was going for the Creeks. I did see Chief (Dode) McIntosh once and the only thing I remember of him was the big Indian ring on his finger.

They had a big write-up of him in the paper one time, honoring him for some good he must have done for the Creeks. I don't know where — certainly [nothing was done] where I live.

Time went on. One Creek chief after another. Finally, the Creator saw there were many faithful Creeks needing help. [I believe] he guided Claude Cox to do

If elected to this position, I will always do my best to represent the people of my counties and listen to their concerns.

Yuchis petition for federal recognition

Associated Press

TULSA — Members of a small Oklahoma Indian tribe describe themselves as stepchildren, lost in a family where no one speaks their language or practices their customs.

For the Yuchi tribe, then, a recent decision by federal officials to review the tribe's petition for federal recognition comes as a huge breakthrough in a lengthy push for sovereignty.

"It's been a lifelong dream... and now it's closer than it has ever been before," said Melvin George, 50, a Yuchi who helped organize the petition drive.

The Yuchi, also spelled Euchee, were placed under the authority of the Creek (Muscogee) Nation after their removal by federal forces from the southeastern United States to what is now Oklahoma.

But the tribes speak different languages and unlike the Creeks, the Yuchis do not receive federal funds that would help the tribe maintain its own culture and provide tribal services, members said.

Since the 1950s, the Yuchi have made several attempts to win their sovereignty, George said. The latest attempt was filed about two years ago. The BIA has begun early reviews of the petition in preparation for a formal evaluation, said BIA historian John Dibbern.

The tribe has to meet several requirements for approval, including an ability to define their history, show genealogical descent and existence as a community.

If the petition is approved, Dibbern said, "it would be a recognition of their sovereignty, of having a government-to-government relationship with the United States."

In Oklahoma, about 300 Indians have registered as being of Yuchi descent, George said. An estimated 1,500 Yuchis are scattered throughout the United States, he said.

Council breezes through agenda

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) National Council addressed its agenda in less than 45 minutes at its December regular session.

Absent from the meeting were: Leah Jack, Creek Dist.; Clyde Johnson, Okfuskee Dist.; and Larry Bible and Edwin Moore, Tulsa Dist. McIntosh District Seat A remains vacant.

The 36-member tribal legislature acted on the following:

- approved unanimously (30-0) a resolution of the Council recognizing husbands, wives, and family of elected representatives and employees;
- approved unanimously (30-0) a tribal resolution supporting the re-authorization of the child care and development block grant regulatory amendments;
- approved (28-2) a bill (NCA 94-60) amending the Hospiatl and Clinics Act of 1994. Voting against the bill were: Tim Fife, Hughes-Seminole Dist. and Bruce Smith, Okfuskee Dist.;
- approved unanimously (30-0) the appointment of Wilbert Lowe of Weleetka, to the farm authority board; and
- approved (27-0) the appointment of Susan Shoney to the health board. Voting against the appointment was: Charlie Coker, Muskogee Dist.; Charlie Litsey and David Nichols, Okmulgee Dist.

In a Dec. 26 extraordinary session, the Council approved an extension of the fiscal year 1995 comprehensive budget. The bill authorizes 100 percent funding for budget line items with the exception of personnel, including fringe, and client services which was funded at 75 percent. Exclusions to the bill are: Creek Nation Housing Authority; industrial development board; farm authority board; transit, and Creek Nation Foundation.

Voting against the measure were: Judy Roberts, Okfuskee Dist.; and Litsey, Okmulgee Dist.

Tribe awarded for financial reporting

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) Nation has been awarded the certificate of achievement for excellence in financial reporting for its comprehensive annual financial report by the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA).

This certificate is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment by a government and its management.

An award of financial reporting achievement is awarded to the individual designated as primarily responsible for preparing the award-winning CAFR — Principal Chief Bill Fife.

The CAFR has been judged by an impartial panel to meet the high standards of the program including demonstrating a constructive spirit of full disclosure to communicate clearly its financial story and motivate potential users and user groups to read the CAFR.

The GFOA is a nonprofit professional association serving 12,625 government financial professionals with offices in Chicago, Illinois, and Washington D.C.

Tribe hosts royalties conference

OKMULGEE — Approximately 80 royalty owners attended a one-day oil and gas conference at Muscogee (Creek) Nation sponsored by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Minerals Management Service, and Bureau of Land Management Dec. 14.

"This is [the result] of a request to have the conference in Okmulgee by Principal Chief Bill Fife at last year's conference which was held in Muskogee, said Floyd Waters, BIA Realty Specialist. "It is also an outreach effort by these federal agencies to educate and provide information to clients about their leases."

The conference also invited Seminole Nation royalty owners and oil and gas industry representatives.

Originally, there were approximately 3 million acres of allotted land in Creek Nation. Currently there are approximately 42,000 acres of leases. The BIA administers over 250 federal leases for the Muscogee Nation that generates over $1 million annually.

Fife said he wanted to make sure tribal citizens have an understanding of the options available, a good understanding of the management of leases, and the pros and cons of direct payments of royalty checks or administration by BLM.

Representatives attending the conference included: Charles Robertson, BIA Supervisory Realty Specialist; Phil Sykora, National Indian Minerals Steering Committee; Paul Tyler, Office of Indian Royalty Assistance, MMS; Jim Mason, BLM; Jack Chaney, BIA trust officer; Rodney Durosette, Muscogee Nation Realty Officer; and Keith Francis, field solicitor.

Tribal program receives grant

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee Nation Division of Children and Family and Family Services has received a $200,000 adoption opportunities grant award. The award will assist families in the adoption of American Indian children.

The focus of the grant is three-fold. The first component will focus on increasing the number of tribally-approved adoptive homes that can provide a safe, stable, and nurturing environment to place 50 of 1,977 adoptive children.

The second component will be the establishment of an adoptive placement network in collaboration with the Five Civilized Tribes of Oklahoma. This component will increase service delivery and the availability of prospective adoptive placements.

The five tribes social service programs are currently working in collaboration with the family preservation and support project.

The third component will be the creation of an adoptive placement database for minority children awaiting placement with prospective adoptive families. This will also incorporate the five tribes network.

"The Muscogee Nation is taking the lead in providing an array of services to the Native American population," said Scott Johnson, children and family services manager. "The adoption opportunities grant and the resulting collaboration with the Five Civilized Tribes is just one more example of this effort."

"The time has come for tribes and states to work in unison to achieve the common goal of providing quality services to the children and families of the Muscogee Nation and abroad."

Creek Nation Housing Authority changes hours

OKMULGEE — The Creek Nation Housing Authority offices are now open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Tribe contracts CDIB services

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) Nation has contracted the certificate degree of Indian blood (CDIB) operation from the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The tribal citizenship board has assumed the responsibility for CDIBs. Presently the citizenship board processes Muscogee Nation citizenship cards. The CDIBs, however, will not be issued unless an individual has a specific need which a tribal enrollment card will not fulfill.

Indians who are not tribal citizens residing within Muscogee Nation jurisdiction will still be able to receive a CDIB in some instances.

Tribal enrollment cards will be used by Indian Health Service and programs as verification of Indian blood and program eligibility.

Replacement costs for cards are $5 which will cover minimum expenses — cost of paper, lamination, equipment, supplies, and labor associated with each card. For more information, contact the citizenship board at (918) 756-8700.

Tribe adds public relations specialist

OKMULGEE — Muscogee citizen Dannette Russell Geren has been named public relations specialist for the Muscogee (Creek) Nation.

Geren will serve as media liaison for the tribe, including all public relations, and coordinate media activity for the tribe. She has been in the public relations and marketing field for more than 10 years — including a stint with the Indian Health Care Resource Center in Tulsa. Most recently, Geren was part-owner in a marketing and public relations firm.

She has been an advocate for minority and female businesses and served as co-chair of the City of Tulsa Certification Committee and a member of the city's Minority-Female Business Committee for the Human Rights Department.

Geren also serves as a board member of the American Indian Chamber of Commerce, Tulsa, Tulsa Area Indian Affairs Commission, and the American Red Cross.

Through the Red Cross, Geren is a member of the American Indian Decision to Survive (AIDS) committee which is developing an HIV-AIDS educational training manual for American Indian communities.

1995 Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo seeks volunteers

OKMULGEE — Plans are underway for the 1995 Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo, June 16, 17, and 18. Anyone interested in serving on a Festival subcommittee or becoming a Festival volunteer is urged to contact the Muscogee Nation Office of the Principal Chief at (918) 756-8700 or write P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Tribal manufacturing enterprise successful

by Dannette Geren

OKMULGEE — Only 9 months old, the tribe's newest economic development project — Muscogee Nation Manufacturing Enterprise (MCNE) is off to a good start. The manufacturing facility began in March of 1994 with joint funding and cooperation from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Administration for Native Americans, the tribe's Job Training Partnership Act program, and five employees.

Presently MCNE is doing contract assembly and packaging work for one of the nation's largest fishing rod manufacturer's — Zebco. To date, they have assembled over 250,000 reels; 100,000 rods; 4,000 pumps; and over 240,000 DeLiars (fish weight scale). In the last two months they've put together 45,000 units of their newest job — Zebco's 40th anniversary product, the 3340 Combo Pack — and, they now employ 22 Muscogee citizens.

Plant manager Grover Wind said they are responsible for eight Zebco projects, some which are turn-key, meaning assembly, welding, soldering, and packaging. Products are then ready for shipment directly to retail distributors, including Wal-Mart and K-Mart.

Manufacturing employees have a reason to be proud of their accomplishments, Wind said. "By the time the product is ready for shipment, it's been checked by 4 or 5 employees. Our quality control with Zebco states there are zero rejects. They have absolute pride in their work."

Currently, MCNE is quoting 20 new jobs for Zebco. Although, Zebco has been the major source of contracts, they also perform work for Max Buchanan, a manufacturer of health products, including massagers, and muscle therapy equipment. Discussions are also underway with Braden Winch, one of the nation's largest winch manufacturers.

With over 90 jobs on his desk to quote on, Wind said "We have a great challenge, which any small business would like — more work than we have room or employees to handle. When we can afford additional space, we can easily double or even triple the workforce. We are being contacted by major companies wanting us to do work for them." The facility, including warehouse, staging and assembly is only 3,500 square feet.

The manufacturing provides an opportunity for Muscogee citizens to increase skill levels. By learning the assembly and manufacturing trade, those skills are marketable in any community. Wind said Creek citizens are especially proud of their work. The company promotes from within and believes that this practice helps with the pride the employees show in their work. An employee-of-the-month program has also been implemented. "Our goal is to grow and be able to hire and train more Creek citizens," Wind said, who has received over 900 applications for employment from Creek citizens.

Woody Anderson, director of natural and physical resources said, "We are at a starting point for diversification and expansion. Based on our ability to increase other capabilities, we can expand in a methodical manner, increasing our manufacturing level and

Head Start, health officials develop new program

OKMULGEE — Creek Nation Head Start Director Sherryl Gonseth and Head Start Health-Disabilities Coordinator Robert Satterfield met with Second Chief Shelly Crow and Children's Medical Center representative Phyllis McGilbray to discuss a wide range of medical services.

"There are at least 10 percent of Head Start children enrolled with disabilities ranging from speech-language developmental, emotional, attention deficit disorders, hearing, vision, and physical disorders," Gonseth said.

Crow said a support group for parents and guardians of those children with attention deficit disorder (ADD) has been formed.

"The problems have been identified and the parents of these children are in desperate need of our help and cannot wait any longer for assistance with this problem."

Crow said the support group is culturally-sensitive and will begin making presentations at the community level.

"It is my hope [that] we would educate our employees on this so we could all be giving out the same information on the problem as well as how to access [tribal] services," Crow said.

Gonseth said the need to organize and treat is critical.

"As is true for any high-risk child and-or family, collaboration among our agency and other professional services is critical to providing comprehensive health care to children and families," Gonseth said. "With these services available, Head Start children will no longer have to be put on long waiting lists to obtain these kinds of services."

Family focus is still the key to early intervention. Acknowledging the central role of the family in the child's assessment and giving parents an array of services to choose from only increases the parents' knowledge and understanding of their child's unique strength and needs.

"Head Start's goal has always been to empower the parents to meet the needs of our children," Gonseth said.

Family services program wins grant award

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee Nation Division of Children and Family Services has received the Title IV-B Children Services Grant Award.

The grant is provided through Title IV of the Social Security Act. The grant will assist the children and family services division to provide comprehensive services to the children and families of the Muscogee Nation.

Prevention services are provided to children and families that are at risk. These services include: temporary out of home placements; child care; counseling; financial assistance; resource and referral; and child protection. The procedures for reporting child abuse will be streamlined and will also provide for interagency coordination, child advocacy, and courtesy home studies.

The comprehensive child placement program (foster care) has been established and will be enhanced through the grant program. This program entails an intensive recruitment effort for potential foster care providers, comprehensive home studies, and coordination with state agencies to provide placement services. A staff training component has been incorporated to provide the legislative and operational aspects of the program.

A family reunification and adoption services will be utilized to reunite families that have been victimized by domestic violence or child abuse. An adoption assistance component will also be available to provide safe, nurturing family environments for those children available for adoption.

Multicultural education institute to meet in March

EDMOND — The University of Central Oklahoma and Langston University will present the 12th Annual Multicultural Education Institute March 3 and 4 at the UCO campus. The institute theme for this year is "Multicultural Education: Together We Learn," and will highlight nationally-known keynote speakers and local presenters in several concurrent sessions. Sessions will be held from 5:30 to 10 p.m., March 3; sign-in registration from will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Activities are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., March 4. Youth raises funds for health charities

TULSA — Muscogee citizen Tiffany Williams recently participated in the March of Dimes Walk raising $60 for charity in the 3-mile walk in the Mohawk Park Area. She earned a tee shirt depicting an Indian family and a medal. Williams also raised money for the American Heart Association by jumping rope for a span of two hours. She earned a medal, a cup, and jump rope for her involvement in this project. She is the daughter of Jean Waller Rhodes and the granddaughter of the late Elaine Anderson.

"With everyone under one roof, we'll be able to provide our services more efficiently and we'll be working as a team. All of these changes will make us more efficient for clients, and make us an even stronger team," Littlecreek said.

The center is also the new home for the senior citizen nutrition program and wellness area.

"This helps us be more [interactive] with our seniors," said Lou Jean Tilley, acting program director. "We have a wellness area where we will screen blood pressure and sugar levels."

Since education is a focus of the tribe, one of her key responsibilities will be educating senior citizens and their families, on nutrition and dietary concerns.

The facility will also house a comprehensive wellness and fitness center and is the first of its kind in a tribal setting. The center will be targeted to improve employee, as well as community, wellness and fitness. The program will consist of an exercise equipment room which will house various equipment designed for a variety of exercises.

Classrooms are wired for computer technology and for audio-visual equipment. Restrooms have a shower and an area for mothers to nurse or to change their infants. Room numbers are in braille, and to stress the language, many signs are in Mvskoke. And it is intended for the cultural library to serve as a source for research and informational material about the tribe.

"With one of the tribe's major emphases being on education and families, we're excited about the new center for human development," Littlecreek said. "This is an initial thrust in making our services more accessible and easier for our citizens and creating a better work environment for employees."

After Cox won, I remember visiting him in his little office at the [Oakdale] school house sitting behind a great big desk. He talked of things he had in mind for the Creeks.

He wanted to put the Creek Nation on the map. He did. He had a shine in his eye as he talked of big plans. The complex says it all. Through his leadership, I and many others are being helped to this day, with things like new homes, repairs, education, community health representatives, hospital, clinics, and so forth.

Yet, we still complain.

Cox faced many obstacles. At every turn there were his enemies, but his faith in the Creator kept him going. He has earned his rest.

Also, when I read The Muscogee Nation News — if things are not going so well the present chief tends to say "past administration." I think it would be nice of him to say "it's just not going as great as I thought it would be."

The next chief will probably say the same thing about his problems: "past administration."

As I write, I'm thinking of the time I went to the emergency room at Okemah two years ago. The Creek Nation paid for my pacemaker and hospital bill at St. Francis. I'm really thankful that the Creator chose Claude Cox as an instrument to bring help to his people.

There are many more things I would like to say, but the issue here is: let's stop our complaining and bickering and be thankful and be supportive of the present chief and his staff.

Thank you so much, Bro. Claude Cox.

Okmulgee representative notes action

Editor:

Through a bill passed by the National Council, I had $2,000 returned to the Okmulgee Indian Community. The bill, NCA 94-75, was authored by me and the money was given back to the rightful owners and back to the [community's] smokeshop.

Charlie Litsey, Okmulgee

Editor's note: Okmulgee District representative Litsey sponsored a bill that authorized restitution procedures for loss from injury or property. The money had been paid to the tribal court as a condition of sentencing resulting from an embezzlement conviction of a former community member.

A message from Principal Chief Bill Fife

It has been a busy month with staff from education and cultural preservation moving into the new center for human development. This is a year of growth for the Creek Nation with the new building, the new clinic in Okmulgee, and the many renovations around the complex. And as our nation grows, we are continually looking at ways to improve services and the economic level of our citizens.

Muscogee Nation has always had a good record of hiring Indian people in a variety of jobs — professional, maintenance, health care, secretarial, to name a few. However, until the start of Muscogee Nation Enterprise, we have not had a place for our skilled Creek people to work or a place to train Creek people in those skills.

Since that initial contract from Zebco and its five employees, 20 Creek citizens are now employed and the manufacturing facility has outgrown its space. However, I am pleased to announce that we have recently received a grant for $78,000 from the Bureau of Indian Affairs to be used for our manufacturing enterprise. Among the identified needs are equipment, working capital, and expanded facilities.

This expansion will then give us the opportunity to provide more training and jobs for Creek citizens — citizens who might already be skilled in manufacturing, or want to learn a skilled trade.

With an expansion of the manufacturing potential, there are an unlimited number of contracts we can go after. We have the labor force to draw from, our Muscogee citizens and we now will have the facility to handle any size of contract.

An example of the potential in an expanded facility was shown in a recent tour taken by five Council members, the MNE manager, and myself. We visited a company in Broken Arrow which is interested in contracting with our manufacturing facility. Without expansion, we could not hope to enlarge our cooperation but with funding we can get more contracts which means more jobs for Muscogee citizens.

This is just part of the strategic plan which Council members, staff, and citizens helped put together to guide us into the future — one which has a solid economic base for our citizens.

Please feel free to call or come by my office if you would like to talk about many projects which are now in process.

Kansas governor signs resolution honoring Opothle Yahola

TOPEKA, Kan. — Kansas Governor Bill Graves signed a state house concurrent resolution honoring the "greatness of Opothle Yahola and [acknowledging] the tragedy" during the Muscogee flight into Kansas during the U.S. Civil War.

The Woodson County Preservation Society, Inc., and National Council Second Speaker Thomas Yahola have been lobbying to have the Big Sandy River Valley area in southeastern Kansas redesignated in honor of the Muscogee leader.

Opothle Yahola led a contingent of Muscogees through the Verdigris and Fall River valleys toward Fort Row in present Wilson County, Kan. Opothle Yahola was fleeing the disturbances caused by the U.S. Civil War.

Kansas state representative Rochelle Chronister of Neodesha, sponsored the resolution in committee, where it was approved.

In a letter regarding the event, Graves wrote,

21st Annual Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo set June 16, 17, and 18

OKMULGEE — Plans are nearing completion for the 21st Annual Creek Nation All-Indian Rodeo held in conjunction with the Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo, June 16 and 17 at the tribal rodeo arena.

Event coordinator this year is Muscogee citizen Bob Arrington, one of the original committee members that organized the first rodeo that was the forerunner of today's festival.

Arrington, himself is known through Indian country for his years of rodeo participation. He has served as past president of the All Indian Rodeo Association of Oklahoma and serves as a commissioner for the Indian National Finals Rodeo, Inc.

"We plan to make this year's rodeo one of the best," Arrington said. "We pay top money and will be bringing in international competition."

Events include: saddle bronc riding; bareback bronc riding; bull riding; barrel racing; calf roping; steer wrestling; team roping; ladies breakaway, old-timers roping; junior steer riding; and junior barrel racing. A calf scramble will also be held both nights.

For more information, contact Arrington at (918) 756-8700, ext. 348.

The 21st Annual Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo is June 16, 17, and 18. The annual tribal holiday event provides an array of competition and activities for everyone.

Planned activities include: men and women fastpitch softball tournaments; three-on-three basketball; golf tournament; five-kilometer run; senior citizens' activities; children's olympics; and the all-Indian rodeo.

Arts and crafts as well as food vendors will also be available.

The festival committee is also seeking volunteers.

For additional information or to volunteer, call (918) 756-8700, ext. 204 or write the committee at P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Second Chief Crow discusses leadership traits

by Shelly Crow, Second Chief

Many times I have been asked what qualities must a good leader possess to be able to accomplish their goals for others?

One of the most insightful books on leadership that I have read is "Leadership Secrets of Atilla the Hun."

Atilla the Hun has been characterized as an entrepreneur, diplomat, social reformer, statesman, brilliant field general, and a great party host. He is an example of the type of leader who is never satisfied and would rather take the initiative instead of doing nothing or reacting.

With that and from my personal experience, the following are qualities I believe a good leader should have to be effective. I also believe that any special method for accelerating the acquisition of leadership skills, attitudes, and attributes has yet to be discovered. With that, here are the qualities:

- leadership is a privilege. It is a privilege to have responsibility for direct actions and accountability for both successful and failed endeavors;
- a leader who surrounds himself or herself with those who always agree with him will receive mediocre advice;
- a wise leader never kills the messenger of bad news. Instead the one who failed to deliver the bad news is eliminated;
- a wise leader never asks a question for which he doesn't want to hear the answer and if the wrong question is asked, wrong answers will always be given;
- good leaders are seldom conceited or self-centered;
- strong leaders surround themselves with strong people. Weak leaders surround themselves with weak people;
- a leader can achieve anything for which he is willing to pay the price as competition thins out at the top of the ranks;
- fundamental errors are inescapable when the unqualified are allowed to exercise judgement and make decisions. Quick decisions are not always the best. Likewise, unhurried decisions. Final decisions should not be made by leaders headquartered miles away. The ability to make difficult decisions separates leaders from followers; and
- a good leader never places the people in situations where their weaknesses will prevail over their strengths, nor will a good leader expect the people to act beyond their wisdom and understanding.

As a nation, I believe we must learn to act as if our tribal goals are more important to us than our personal goals. But it is also critical for us to have a clear understanding of what those goals are.

Council fails override attempt, approves continuing budget ordinance

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) National Council failed to override Principal Chief Bill Fife's veto of an appropriations bill at the Feb. 25 meeting.

The 36-member tribal legislature voted 23 to 12 to override, falling one vote short of the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto.

The number of override votes exceeded the number of representatives who voted for NCA 95-02 the first time (Jan. 5). Sponsored by Okfuskee District representative Wynema Roberts, the bill appropriated $600,000 from the tribe's settlement of the Indian Country U.S.A. lawsuit filed in the late 1980s.

The use of funds had been approved with the passage of NCA 94-61. That bill also established guidelines for funds. The vetoed legislation attempted to appropriate money for direct client social services.

Voting for the override were: Wilbur Gouge, Sandy McIntosh, Thomas McIntosh, and Yahola Townsend, McIntosh Dist.; Helen Chupco, Charlie Coker, and Frances Pease, Muskogee Dist.; Mae Jackson, Clyde Johnson, Wynema Roberts, and Bruce Smith, Okfuskee Dist.; Jim Harjo, Charlie Litsey, Peggy Lyda, and David Nichols, Okmulgee Dist.; Perry Beaver, Steve Bruner, Irene Cleghorn, Jess Kelley, and Ed Moore, Tulsa Dist.; and Richard Berryhill and Barbara Gillespie, Wagoner-Rogers-Mayes Dist.

Voting against the override were: Duke Harjo, Leah Jack, Phyllis Warrington, and Earl Wheeler, Creek Dist.; Darrell Coachman, Tim Fife, Dwayne Lowe, and Thomas Yahola, Tukvptce Dist.; A.D. Ellis and Dave Lewis, Okmulgee Dist.; and Larry Bible and Earl King, Tulsa Dist.

In other business, the Council:

— confirmed (33-1) Robert Hufft to the Muscogee Nation Gaming Operations Authority Board. Hufft, a tribal citizen, is a controller for International Chemical. He is a former tribal employee (1976 - 1979). Hufft's appointment fills a vacancy created when former member J.D. Colbert left to become the executive director for the Citizen Band Pottawatomie. Voting against confirmation was: Gouge, McIntosh Dist. Speaker Bruner conducted the meeting and did not vote;

— approved unanimously (33-0) a resolution (NCR 95-05) asking the U.S. government to appropriate $58.4 million to fund the Indian Tribal Justice Act for fiscal year 1996. Jackson, Okfuskee Dist., did not vote;

— approved unanimously (32-0) a bill declaring the tribe's official position regarding actions of the Internal Revenue Service. The bill, NCA 95-13 is a response to the IRS's attempt to tax tribal gaming revenues. Jackson and Roberts, Okfuskee Dist., did not vote;

— approved unanimously (34-0) a continuing ordinance for access to the fiscal year 1994 tribal comprehensive budget. The bill (NCA 95-18) authorizes budget expenditures with restrictions through March 31;

— failed to confirm (14-19-1) Richard Johnson as Muscogee Nation Lighthorse Administration Chief. The Okmulgee resident received 14 votes for confirmation (a simple majority is required for Council confirmation).

Voting to confirm were: Jack, Creek Dist.; Jackson, Johnson, and Roberts, Okfuskee Dist.; Hale, Lewis, and Lyda, Okmulgee Dist.; Beaver, Kelley, King, and Moore, Tulsa Dist.; and Berryhill and Gillespie, Wagoner-Rogers-Mayes Dist.

Voting against confirmation were: Harjo, Warrington, and Wheeler, Creek Dist.; Coachman, Fife, Lowe, and Yahola, Tukvptce Dist.; Gouge, S. McIntosh, T. McIntosh, and Townsend, McIntosh Dist.; Chupco and Coker, Muskogee Dist.; Smith, Okfuskee Dist.; Ellis, Harjo, Litsey, and Nichols, Okmulgee Dist.; and Bible, Tulsa Dist.

Abstaining was Pease, Muskogee Dist.;
— approved unanimously (34-0) a bill (NCA 95-17) authorizing the Creek Nation Housing Authority to apply to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for the construction of 300 new housing units; and — approved (29-3) a bill appropriating $27,308 to the Oklahoma City Muscogee Creek Association for the purchase of a community building. The bill (NCA 94-85) will payoff the balance due on the note for the property located at 534 S.E. 29th Street in Oklahoma City and reimburses the community for a $10,000 down payment on the property.

Pickering wins run-off election

OKMULGEE — McIntosh District voters returned Tommy Pickering to the Muscogee (Creek) National Council in a March 4 special election.

Pickering, of Eufaula, received 277 votes to best Frank Kamp, himself a former representative from Eufaula. The results were unofficial at press time.

Principal Chief Bill Fife called for the special election after the death of former McIntosh District representative Tommy Newton.

Pickering was first elected to the Council in 1988 and again in 1990. He lost a 1992 election to Yahola Townsend.

Pickering will take to the oath of office at the March 25 regular session in Okmulgee.

Eufaula dormitory renovates facilities, image

EUFAULA — Construction on the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Eufaula Dormitory is underway after receiving $800,000 in grants from the Bureau of Indian Affairs Facilities Management Construction Center and the office of construction management since last April.

A 3000 square-foot gymnasium, with workout room with equipment, an arts and crafts room, dressing rooms for athletic events, and office areas should be finished in 60 days.

The dormitory received another $100,000 for roof repairs and to improve the cafeteria. Another $35,000 was granted for parking lot improvements. The grants were three years in obtaining.

"We're fortunate to have a good relationship with the BIA in Albuquerque, to have funds available," said Greg Anderson, dormitory administrator. "There are 187 schools competing for this money. There was a lot of work and negotiating involved."

Anderson sought the grants to improve the facilities after taking pictures of water damage and the deteriorating roof. Along with the photos, a list of priorities were submitted to the BIA. After that, Anderson began lobbying.

"We had a good presentation and things gel into place," Anderson said. "Everything turned out pretty good. We are even getting to do our own construction. The BIA usually picks the people to do the construction, but we get the money to do the work ourselves — that's rare."

Program briefs

Environmental youth program offered

OKMULGEE — Applications for the Native American Environmental Awareness Summer Youth Practicum are available from Muscogee Nation Tribal Affairs Director Woody Anderson.

Anderson is a member of the National Native American Fish and Wildlife Society Board of Directors, representing this region.

The program provides Indian students the opportunity to gain hands-on experience in the management of natural resources, Anderson said.

The program provides an academic experience in a mountain youth camp environment. During the first week of the program, students spend their time at the American Indian Science and Engineering Society Environmental Youth Camp.

During the second week, plans include visits to reservations in Colorado or New Mexico, to experience model natural resource practices.

Interested Muscogee high school students are encouraged to apply. For an application, contact Anderson at (918) 756-8700, ext. 270 or write P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447. Applica-

Many other projects are planned but will not get underway until the summer when the 128 dormitory residents have gone home. Anderson anticipates seeking bids for the roof repairs in March as well as the extension to the parking lot.

The dormitory has 100,000 square feet of space in 18 acres. The facilities bring revenue to Eufaula through its 35-member staff and by using local businesses for equipment purchases, food, and supplies.

"It takes a lot [of money] to run the dorm and to keep it up takes a lot of money," Anderson said, "We are very proud of what we have here and what we contribute to the Eufaula community."

Anderson said he will add two more to this staff once the renovations are complete. One person will teach arts and crafts and the other will work in recreation.

The successful Foster Grandparents Program will continue.

The federally-funded program employs six elders to work with elementary students after school on academic trait tutoring and other projects. Good behavior and completing of details are rewarded by points which may then be used for pizza parties, outings to movies, or other tions must be postmarked by April 5.

Election board updates cards

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee Nation Election Board is requesting that voters in the Tukvptce (formerly Hughes-Seminole) District contact its office to update registration. For more information, contact the election board office at (918) 756-8700, ext. 350 or write P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Okmulgee Head Start food bingo

OKMULGEE — The Creek Nation Head Start Okmulgee Center is having food bingo the third Saturday of the month at the center. A food sale begins at 6 p.m. with bingo beginning at 7 p.m. Cost is $5. The center is located on the tribal capitol complex at U.S. Highway 75 and loop 56.

Contract health services relocate

OKMULGEE — Most of the contract health services staff has moved to the Okmulgee Indian Health Center, 1313 E. 20th St., Okmulgee.

The service administers payment for approved patient referrals made to outside providers by privileges.

The dormitory is also improving its public relations. Anderson has appeared on local television shows to discuss the success of the dormitory.

"We have received calls from people all over Oklahoma commending us on how well we are doing and what good things we've got going," Anderson said. "I think a lot of people are just now becoming aware that we are here and the kinds of positive things we do for our youth."

tribal physicians. Inquiries regarding payment for approved contract health services can be directed to the office at (918) 758-2710.

Patients who receive emergency treatment from facilities other than Indian Health Service or Muscogee Nation providers must notify the contract health services within 72 hours at (918) 623-1424, ext. 342. Rosalee Marshall, and Sue Mobley, case manager will maintain an office in Okemah.

Tribe plans disaster training

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation Second Chief Shelly Crow is coordinating tribal efforts for disaster response training.

Crow is facilitating for the American Red Cross who is providing the training. Presently, there are no official disaster or emergency response plans in place at the tribal capitol complex though there are some individuals with such expertise.

"In the event of a disaster, this training will be of great significance to our citizens and employees," Crow said. "This training will expedite services in time of need without delay and speed the post-disaster recovery."

Indigenous games meeting set

OKMULGEE — The Oklahoma Indigenous Games Association Northeast Region meeting will begin at 4 p.m., March 15 at the Bureau of Indian Affairs Conference Room at the tribal capitol complex, U.S. Highway 75 and loop 56.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss athlete selection criteria, sport event committees, regional tryouts, dates, and possible fund-raisers.

North American Indigenous Games Association began in 1977. The games are an amateur sporting event for Indian youth throughout the hemisphere.

The organization's mission is to promote the athletic and cultural talents of American Indians, develop leadership skills, health, and individual growth, produce an international forum for our youth to accept responsibility for a full and meaningful life, and to continue development of the games.

This is the first year Oklahoma will be represented in the national games. Several tribes in Oklahoma are working together organizing and promoting activities to prepare Indian youth for the games.

Events include basketball, volleyball, track and field. Tryouts for the Oklahoma team will begin in late July. Participants must be Indian and 13 and over.

Anyone wanting to volunteer his or her service for the events or interested in the indigenous games should contact Irene Culley, Muscogee Nation Child Abuse Prevention Education counselor at 1 (800) 521-5432 or (918) 756-2112.

Ahalaya project assists Indians

OKLAHOMA CITY — The Ahalaya Project provides case management services to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infected American Indians. The project endeavors to increase life expectancy and quality of life for its HIV-positive clients.

"HIV-AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) poses a serious threat to the well-being (405) 277-3971.

of [Indian] populations," said Betty Duran, director of client services for the National Native American AIDS Prevention Center. "Reported AIDS cases of American Indians and Alaska Natives increased 63 percent from 1992 to 1993."

Duran said the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta, reported a cumulative statewide total of 225 Indians with HIV or AIDS.

"We hope to improve the lives of those native people who are already infected and prevent the spread and decrease the impact of HIV/AIDS on our small and diminishing communities."

To become a client of the Ahalaya Project, one must be HIV-positive and verify Indian ethnicity. The project currently provides services to more than 50 men and women between the ages of 22 and 51, representing 20 tribes in four different states. All client-identifying information is kept confidential.

In addition to the case management services, the Ahalaya Project provides free, confidential HIV antibody testing and maintains a toll-free number for clients and those seeking information. The number, 1 (800) 358-6080, is accessible only in Oklahoma.

The Ahalaya Project is a nonprofit organization with offices in Oklahoma City and Tulsa. Ahalaya is a Choctaw word meaning "to care for deeply." The project is a unit of the NNAAPC.

Low income workers tax information

OKLAHOMA CITY — More low and middle income Oklahomans will qualify for federal tax credits that range from $306 up to $2,528 under this year's earned income tax credit provisions.

The earned income tax credit has been expanded to include more taxpayers by raising the amount of income that can be earned and not requiring workers to have children to qualify.

Mike Snyder, of Oklahoma Indian Legal Services, Inc., said many low income and moderate income workers including those who normally aren't required to file should file to take advantage of this tax break.

To qualify, a taxpayer's adjusted gross income must be $9,000 or less if childless, up to $23,775 with one child and up to $25,296 for more than one child. Earned income includes all salaries, wages, and employer compensation.

Snyder recommends taxpayers who may qualify for the tax credit but do not know how to apply, should contact the Internal Revenue Service at 1(800) 829-1040 or the Volunteers In Tax Program at (405) 232-8482 or (405) 297-4125.

Oklahoma Indian Legal Services, Inc., is a nonprofit law firm that provides free civil legal services to low income and elderly Indians in Oklahoma.

Tribal health system to sponsor diabetes camp

OKEMAH — The Muscogee Nation's 1995 Diabetes Family Leadership Camp — Camp Cym Pulke — will be held April 24 through 26 at St. Crispin's near Wewoka.

The three-day retreat offers patients with diabetes and their families a chance to learn how to live well with diabetes. Campers learn about how the disease works and how lifestyle changes can prevent or postpone its dangerous side affects. The program also promotes leadership.

Each year, diabetes is the cause of more than 150,000 deaths in America each year. Up to 12,000 people each year lose their sight because of diabetes. In 1987, there were more than 56,000 leg and foot amputations among people with diabetes living in the United States. (Statistics from the American Diabetes Association.)

"People with diabetes have to assume leadership of their own health to live successfully with the disease," said Karra D. Sparks, camp coordinator and registered dietitian. "The camps are educational and fun. Ask anyone who has gone."

If you would like to be one of this year's campers, or would like to know more about the camp activities, contact:

- Sparks at Creek Nation Community Hospital, (918) 623-1424;

Osceola play to run in Tulsa

TULSA — The Oklahoma Indian Theatre and Dance Company will present the play "Black Drink Singer" March 17, 18, and 19 at the A.D.A.M.S Theatre, located at 15th and Delaware.

The play, coauthored by Tulsan Clark Frayser and George Phelps is the story of Osceola, a Muscogee mixed blood who served as a Seminole war chief. "Black Drink Singer" presents the story of Osceola's captivity through the persona of Dr. Frederick Weedon, the white physician who attended to Osceola.

The play will be directed by Muscogee citizen Bob Hicks. Hicks is a graduate of the Conservatory Program of the American Film Institute for Advanced Film Studies in Los Angeles.

He received national acclaim for his work "Return of the Country."

The performance begins at 8 p.m., March 17 and 18 and at 2 p.m., March 19. For more information, call (918) 245-3944.

Diabetes association sponsors legislative day at state capitol

OKLAHOMA CITY — All people affected by diabetes, including relatives and friends of those with diabetes, are invited to visit their Oklahoma state legislators at the state capitol building March 21.

The event is being coordinated by the American Diabetes Association Oklahoma City Regional Office.

The group's interest is in a number of areas including insurance coverage and diabetes education.

The legislative day is also an opportunity to lobby for government financial programs for assisting the indigent who have diabetes.

Diabetes is a devastating disease for which there is no cure. Both forms of the disease, types I and II, can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness, amputation, and premature death.

In 1921, the discovery of insulin brought new hope to millions and continued research and education has made the disease manageable.

The ADA maintains that recent breakthroughs can improve an individual's chances for a long, healthy life. The key is early diagnosis and control of the disease.

The Muscogee Nation health system offers numerous programs and services related to diabetes.

The Eufaula, Okemah, and Sapulpa health clinics each have a designated time for diabetic treatment and diagnosis. At Sapulpa, a diabetic foot clinic is held regularly, but appointments are necessary.

The community health representatives have begun diabetic support groups in area communities. There are other programs and services available.

Good leaders will aim high, striving for those things that will make a difference rather than settle for the safe path of mediocrity.

The consequences for not adequately preparing the people for action is their failure to accomplish those things that are expected from them.

There are many other aspects of leadership that could be discussed, but I am limited by space and time. I do believe that we need to expect more from our leaders as well as from ourselves.

However, if it were easy to be a leader, everyone would be one.

I am writing to express my thanks to George Cosar for his presentation at Sequoyah High School. This is the second year that he has presented a drug and alcohol program to my life skills classes with much success. His direct style impressed my students. His knowledge of tradition and his understanding of adolescent pressures to drink gave him the credibility that allowed my students to seriously listen. I appreciated his help and hope that he can speak to my students next year.

Indian elders financial information, legal assistance available

Social Security information

PUEBLO, Colo. — A new booklet from the Social Security Administration — "Social Security...What Every Woman Should Know," is now available.

The booklet deals with the issues of related to name changes because of marriage, divorce, or other reasons.

It is the responsibility of the individual to be certain the Social Security record shows your correct name. Should one choose to change his or her name, it can be reported on a special form available at any Social Security office.

One must also show proof of identity under both the old name and the new name. Otherwise, earnings may not be properly recorded and you may not get all of the Social Security credit you're entitled to. If you choose to have your employer keep your maiden name on all records after marriage, you don't have to do anything.

Widows ordinarily lose their widows' benefits when they remarry. But, benefits to a widow (or widower) who remarries at 60 or older, or at 50 if disabled, can continue without any reduction.

To order a free copy of "Social Security...What Every Woman Should Know," write: Consumer Information Center, Dept. 526B, Pueblo, CO 81009.

Property, sales taxes refunds available

OKLAHOMA CITY — Although many elderly will not have to file income tax returns, some should file claims for tax relief.

Stephanie Brus, an attorney with Oklahoma Indian Legal Services, Inc., said low income senior and disabled heads of households may be cheating themselves if they do not request a refund.

For each calendar year, any person 65 or older or totally disabled and the head of the household, and a resident of Oklahoma during the entire preceding year, whose gross household income is $10,000 or less, may file a claim for a refund of the property taxes paid on their home for the preceding year. Many people are eligible for the property tax refunds, but don't receive them because they don't apply, Brus said.

Claims for property tax refunds must be filed no later than June 30, for taxes paid in 1994.

Persons who must file income tax returns should file for the property tax credit with their returns.

Proof of age, disability (if applicable), amount of property taxes paid, and the gross household income and the source(s) of that income must be furnished for every person filing for a refund.

Oklahoma Tax Commission Form 538-H can be obtained from county tax assessors' offices, the Oklahoma Tax Commission, or the Oklahoma Indian Legal Services, Inc.

Sales tax relief is also available to households whose gross annual income did not exceed $12,000 in 1994. The person applying for the refund of credit must have been a resident of Oklahoma during the entire year. Claims must be filed with the Oklahoma Tax Commission Form 538-S no later than June 30 for sales tax paid in 1994. This form can be obtained by calling the tax commission toll-free number — 1 (800) 522-8165.

Indian elders who need help filing either the property tax refund or the sales tax refund can contact OILS toll-free at 1 (800) 568-1497.

Chief hosts tribal leaders summit

by Principal Chief Bill Fife

We recently held our annual traditional tribal leaders summit which was attended by our ceremonial ground chiefs and speakers. These meetings are important because we come together to exchange ideas and discuss what needs to be done today to preserve our culture and traditions.

It is also important because our ceremonial leaders are a direct link to Muscogee culture and history, to our fathers and grandfathers, to our political as well as social systems.

Despite over 200 years of U.S. Indian policy aimed at destroying Indian cultures, traditional Muscogee people have maintained a distinct national identity. Through their oral traditions, they continue to remind us of who we are as a people. A modern tribal government needs to have an awareness of traditional culture.

We have all had the benefit of grandparents and parents — the value of a grandparent is to provide counsel, to provide us with information that forms the foundation of our identity.

These traditional leaders are our tribal elders and we should seek their counsel as we address these most difficult issues which confront us as a government and as a people.

We must look at the history of tribal town community development and self-sufficiency as models for future program design as we move into the new century.

As a tribal leader, I realize the many elements which must be brought forth to enhance and strengthen our tribal government.

Those elements, culture, government, land, economy, and services are all incorporated in our long-range plan. Our future as a nation is dependent upon our understanding of our traditional history.

One of the key issues is preserving culture — to maintain the traditions through ceremonial grounds. Today, most of our grounds are on lands which are leased or rented with no guarantee of continuance. We need to work together to ensure our grounds are maintained and that necessary land is secured.

It's important for all of us, especially our young people, to learn our history, our language, and culture. We have lost our lands in the southeast, but the one thing we still possess is our culture. Our traditional people have brought that forward. They brought the fire and reestablished our grounds.

In our development of Muscogee government we must draw on all of our resources. Our best resource is Muscogee people, who have much to offer to determine a vision for the future of our nation.

Second Chief Crow discusses termination legislation

by Second Chief Shelly Crow

As Muscogee citizens, we are greatly concerned that our great leaders in Washington D.C. see fit to attempt to control the federal budget deficit on the backs of Indians. Though they have created the deficit, these same people now want to cut Indian programs — many promised through treaty — budgets.

Specific U.S. House of Representatives actions will affect the agencies that oversee federal funding to our nation.

- Operation of Indian programs — Assistant Secretary of the Interior Ada Deer said House Resolution 1158 would cut $4.05 million from this budget component. This is the largest Bureau of Indian Affairs account and would be 2.7 percent less than the fiscal year 1995 budget.

- Special tribal court programs — As of February 1995, $1.46 million remained unobligated. The rescission will adversely impact those tribes which are developing tribal judiciaries or newly created judiciaries, and which have not received special tribal court funds. The purpose of the grants is to improve the capabilities of Indian tribes to manage and administer justice at a level which will insure the expeditious and impartial adjudication of violations of tribal law and resolution of civil disputes. The rescission will also preclude the BIA from executing a $400,000 contract with a nonfederal entity to conduct a survey of the conditions of tribal judiciaries and Courts of Indian Offenses, as mandated by the Indian Tribal Justice

Act, P.L. 103-176. It is very apparent that these grants would assist in training for improving case management, legal research capabilities and to support training of tribal court clerks and judges.

We at Creek Nation realize that our judicial system, attorney general, and lighthouse departments enhance the federal and state agencies that cannot by law, knowledge, or manpower, be able to enforce the law on tribal lands.

- Construction programs are backlogged more than $600 million and another $2 million cutback is being considered.

- Proposed welfare reform could cause a break in the government-to-government relationship. Tribal governments may be bypassed if federal funds are delivered to states in the form of block grants.

- Education program cutbacks — proposals affecting: Indian children programs, $2 million; school grants, $45 million; impact aid, $16 million; vocational and adult education, $34 million.

The Muscogee Nation has an impact on more than 10,000 children of all tribal affiliations and ages. This reduction will severely hurt rural schools in low economic areas that now receive block grants and impact aid. It is a blow against education and economic opportunity.

One mistaken belief is that poverty can be cured by economic development alone. Even at the zenith of the 1980 economic boom, Oklahoma had 394,000 people living below the poverty line. The poorest families in Oklahoma are those headed by women. Only half of Oklahoma's poor are working-age adults; the rest are children and elders.

If you want to cure poverty, you have to start by curing ignorance.

- Health and human services — a $1.3 billion cut for health resources and administration for children and families. Also anticipated are cuts to the commission corps (Indian Health Service) that will reduce even further the number of physicians, nurses, and health care providers that are providing direct client services.

The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) has always been a target anytime a budget reduction is requested by health and human services. Any additional reduction in LIHEAP funding for FY '96 will require diminished levels of service in our heating assistance program and would be devastating to this segment of our tribal population — a segment already faced with a multitude of survival barriers.

- Labor — more than $350 million will be cut from job training programs. Once again the Indian people will be forced to remain poor on the reservations where health care is available or leave their families, culture, and traditions to seek training and employment in the cities. Ironically, the urban areas have a high poverty rate therefore they are placed in the same position of poverty.

- Other program cuts include those that could affect the preservation of our culture and language. What better way to continue the destruction of our Indian nations by eliminating funding for bilingual societies and culture?

Letters to the editor

Council member explains legislation

Editor:

I am writing this letter hoping all or most of our tribal citizens will read it.

When I was elected for this position on the National Council, I made a promise to the people that I would act in their behalf. I am now in my fourth year as a representative and I am disappointed in the way our tribal leaders have forgotten who has elected us.

The best way we can help our people is to draft legislation directing the administration to provide more services to our tribal citizens.

Because the fiscal year 1995 budget provided less funds for direct client services to our people, I wrote a bill that would take 20 percent of a lawsuit settlement that had been reached by the Muscogee Nation and Indian Country U.S.A. That settlement was approximately $5.7 million.

I asked for approximately $1.2 million with the balance returned into the permanent funds account for the tribe.

Well, it was vetoed by Principal Chief Bill Fife who claimed the Council hasn't the right to direct funds to our people.

Isn't that our job — to look out for citizens?

The veto was overridden with only one representative voting no (Tukvptce District representative Tim Fife).

I then wrote a bill asking for $600,000 to be divided as follows:

- $30,000 for dentures;
- $30,000 for eyeglasses for all ages;

- $100,000 for school clothing;
- $100,000 for energy assistance; and
- $340,000 for emergency home repair.

This too, was vetoed by Chief Fife. I then went for an override that fell short because one-third of the National Council members agreed with Chief Fife that we should have guidelines for tribal monies.

My argument is that we are discriminating against our own people because all Creek and Yuchi citizens are entitled to tribal funds.

It should not matter how old you are, where you live or how much money you make — that is the way it is written in the Constitution of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation.

The Creek District representatives members said their constituents want guidelines also. Some that voted no on the override have been on the Council for many years and still don't know there should be no guidelines on tribal monies.

I also wrote a bill that showed proof that Ed Mouss — director of the health administration — was operating with a contract different than the one the National Council approved. That too, was vetoed and I couldn't get it overridden.

Now look at all the problems with our health care.

I would like the Creek citizens to know there are some National Council members trying to get what is best for Indians.

— approved unanimously National Council Resolution 95-06 urging resistance to nepotism and patronage and encouraging promotion within. The resolution is non-binding; — approved (32-1) the confirmation of Senora Hayes to the Creek Nation Housing Authority Board of Commissioners. Hayes of Coweta, will begin her second term as commissioner.

Voting against confirmation was Litsey, Okmulgee Dist.;

— approved (32-1) the confirmation of George Thompson to the CNHA Board of Commissioners. Thompson of Yardeka, will begin his second term as commissioner.

Voting against confirmation was Litsey, Okmulgee Dist.;

— approved (31-2) an appropriation for the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Manufacturing Enterprise. The $300,000 will come from the federal docket 275 economic development funds and will be used for equipment and expansion.

Voting against NCA 95-19 were: Jackson, Okfuskee Dist.; and Cleghorn, Tulsa Dist.;

— approved unanimously (30-0) NCA 95-20, an appropriations bill for direct client services. The $600,000 will be taken from the Indian Country lawsuit settlement.

Not voting were: Coachman, Tukvptce Dist.; and Wheeler, Creek Dist.;

—voted (24-5) to return to the author a bill appro-

March 30 special session

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) National Council met in special session March 30 at Okmulgee. Though four items were on the agenda, only one —NCA 94-85 — was voted on.

The bill authorizes the appropriation of $30,000 to the Oklahoma City Muscogee (Creek) Association for the purchase of real property.

The vote was 28-0. Second speaker Thomas Yahola conducted the meeting. Speaker Steve Bruner did not vote. Absent from the meeting were: Dwayne Lowe, Tukvptce Dist.; Thomas McIntosh and Tommy Pickering, McIntosh Dist.; Bruce Smith, Okfuskee Dist.; Jim Harjo, Okmulgee Dist.; and Edwin Moore, Tulsa Dist.

Tribal manufacturing enterprise receives grant

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation Principal Chief Bill S. Fife announced that through the joint efforts of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Muscogee Nation, grant funding in the amount of $78,000 has been awarded for the Muscogee Nation Manufacturing Enterprise (MNME).

Fife acknowledged Jimmy Gibson, BIA superintendent, and T.C. McCrary, BIA loan specialist, for their work with the tribe in securing this grant.

The manufacturing enterprise began in 1994 with five employees and orders from Zebco, the nation's largest fishing rod manufacturer. It also performs work for Max Buchanan, a manufacturer of health products. The plant, which has shown consistent growth, now employs 22 and has outgrown its current facility.

"Our plan is to leverage this money with tribal monies, which have been earmarked for economic development, so we can build our own facility, provide working capital, and purchase equipment," Fife said. "This will allow us to achieve our goal to provide more training and jobs for Muscogee citizens. However, we're at that stage of growth where we have more work than we have space or people to handle. This will allow us to handle more contracts, and hire more people."

Grover Wind, plant manager, said the it is also looking at manufacturing windows. "Initially, we'll work with our housing authority to supply storm and replacement windows to new and existing homes," Wind said.

Later, markets will include suppliers, other tribal housing authorities, Housing and Urban Development authorities, government agencies, military bases, and the commercial market.

Wind said the plant cannot realize its full potential without more space and equipment.

"Since this is a new endeavor for Muscogee Nation, we've had to determine if the potential is there. Now, we know the opportunities are limitless. Our National Council has the vision to realize the need to provide employment for our citizens. This endeavor is a way that we can diversify revenue streams for the tribe, help our people become self supporting, as well as learn new and advanced skills," Wind said. The BIA has also been supportive since the inception in planning as well as funding.

Under Fife's administration, Muscogee Nation has implemented a strategic plan which encompasses five areas: culture, government, land, services, and economic development for the growth of the Nation.

"The establishment of this manufacturing plant is another step toward accomplishing our strategic goal for economic development — to create an industrial base for efficient use of the tribes human and natural resources. We believe we can become self reliant through the development of an economic system which will bring opportunities to our citizens," Fife said. "To control our own destiny, we must expand our ability to produce income."

To date, MNME has assembled over 315,000 reels, 105,000 rods, 4,000 pumps, and over 309,000 fish weight scales.

Tribal food distribution manager named to national advisory board

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) Nation Principal Chief Bill S. Fife announced Charley LaSarge has been selected to serve on a national board. LaSarge, tribal food distribution program manager, has been appointed as the representative for the Food Distribution on Indian Reservations Program for the National Advisory Council on Commodity Distribution for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Only fifteen people were selected nationwide.

LaSarge has been employed with the tribe for ten years and has been actively involved in working with the food distribution program, serving on a number of committees.

LaSarge also serves on the office of native American programs advisory board. This regional board is the only one in the country which represents American Indian programs, and represents programs such as women, infants, and children (WIC), child care, and elderly nutrition programs.

Creek Nation 4-H program spring swine show winners announced

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) Nation's third 4-H program swine show was held with awards presented to several area students.

Robin Cooper, Muscogee Nation Extension 4-H agent, said there are approximately 50 enrolled members. Through workshops and school enrichment programs, a number of youth get involvement in the 4-H program.

Cooper says the emphasis is on life skills and teaching responsibility through involvement in activities which keep youth focused in a positive direction.

Principal Chief Bill Fife said the Muscogee Nation was the first tribe in Oklahoma to be funded under the U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Indian-Reservation Program (EIRP).

"This program is a way we can get our youth involved in activities which not only builds self-esteem and confidence, but there is also parental involvement," Fife said. "The positive impact of this program helps teach our youth how to make the right choices in life."

A variety of programs are offered to meet the interests of Indian children, including livestock, swine, and dog obedience. New programs, including environmental programs, are also being planned.

The Muscogee (Creek) Nation 4-H program is open to any American Indian youth ages 9 to 19, living in the tribal boundaries. For more information, call Cooper at (918) 756-8700, ext. 370.

Tukvptce town reorganizes, elects officers from Tukvptce Tribal Town reports

TUKVPTCE — In an effort to thwart the threat of cultural extinction, members of Tukvptce Tribal Town are banding to reaffirm their identity and preserve tradition.

Several individuals of Tukvptce Tribal Town met in November 1994 to consider endorsement of the naming of the local legislative district. The meeting, convened by Methodist minister and tribal town member Rev. Harry Long, heard from several members (including elders) who expressed concern for the deterioration of cultural and traditional values.

One specific concern was the decline of tribal town identity.

Town identity is inherited from one's mother and has historically influenced virtually every aspect of the Muscogee Indian. These include religion, government, social relations, and personal self image.

Following the discussion, a decision was made to continue meeting periodically. The group also agreed to create a formal organization with the express purpose of preserving and perpetuating the identities of tribal town members.

During its following meeting, held in January at Holdenville Indian Community Center, officers were elected and installed.

They are: Edwin Marshall, chair; Cora Beaver, vice-chair; and Lucinda Berryhill, secretary.

Marshall said he was honored to be elected chair.

"Considering the fact that elders such as Nancy Beaver, Dan Harjo, Melissa Deere, and others are an active part of our town and that they have entrusted me such responsibility, is an honor," Marshall said.

"We're talking about a social structure so ancient that it predates the old Muscogee Confederacy. Much like the clan system, one is born into the tribal town and that identity can never be taken.

"It's apparent that this is a gift from the Creator as a provision for unity and social interaction. Furthermore, tribal town identity transcends any barrier that we as human beings can impose on ourselves."

Marshall contends that with the adoption of the 1979 tribal Constitution and its subsequent district representative form of government, the importance of tribal town identity was de-emphasized and consequently, many people can't identify their tribal towns.

"That may not have been the intention, but that has certainly been the effect," Marshall said. "I hope this trend can be turned around, at least for the Tukvptce."

Meetings are to be held quarterly with the next one set for 10 a.m., April 15 with a covered dish luncheon to follow. All tribal town members are encouraged to attend.

Tribal program participates at annual state Johnson O'Malley conference

TULSA — The 11th Annual Oklahoma Johnson O'Malley Conference was held March 27 through 30 in Tulsa. This year's theme is "JOM: Sharing our Traditions and Knowledge Today — Ensuring a Strong Tomorrow." The Johnson O'Malley Program has been in existence for over 60 years.

Tribal JOM program manager Ken Taryole said the purpose of the conference is to give school administrators, JOM staff personnel, tribal program staff, educators, and parents an opportunity to share ideas and information related to issues in the field of Indian education.

"Although many changes have evolved, the basic purpose is the same — to provide supplementary assistance to meet the unique and specialized educational needs of Indian children," Taryole said.

Under the JOM program Indian students in grades kindergarten through 12, that attend public schools that participate in the JOM program, are eligible for special services.

The Muscogee Nation JOM program currently serves approximately 11,000 students in 48 public schools, representing 65 different tribes. Statewide, over 63,700 Indian students participate in the Johnson O'Malley program.

In October of 1992, The Muscogee (Creek) Nation contracted the JOM Program from the BIA, administering funds for the operation of supplemental programs for the education of eligible Indian students.

ment Grants would cost the Muscogee National Council approximately $250,000 and would cut technical assistance grants of approximately $60,000. This affects 35 positions and three major programs.

•Muscogee (Creek) Nation Indian Housing could have a total impact of $5 million dollars if congress choose to direct funding to the state HUD for our people to access housing.

It is apparent that our newly-elected leaders in Washington are not educated to the facts that tribal governments represent the interests of their citizens as well as any state government.

Once again, trying to consolidate Indian programs with state programs takes away the rights of Indian nations to govern, develop, and be responsible for their own citizens needs.

The Muscogee people have survived thousands of years of oppression, but now the federal government is trying to legislate us out of existence. They hold the purse strings.

If you'd like more information, contact my office at (918) 756-8700. Together we will make our voices heard...

I would also like to express my thanks to the staff that has cooperated with my office by attending a problem-solving meeting to enhance our nation's programs that affect our children.

I was impressed. Our first meeting included representatives from several departments with many suggestions. One development is the multi-disciplinary seminar counseling crisis intervention team to provide assistance on weekends and after 5 p.m. — where service gaps exist.

Representatives from the division of health administration, lighthouse administration, children and family services, social services, and children's medical center worked on several ways to help our children get access to services.

We have planned a conference from 1 to 5 p.m., April 12 at the independent agencies building (mound) auditorium. There is no charge to attend this meeting.

Principal Chief Fife discusses tribal tenure: past and future

by Bill Fife, principal chief

During my tenure as your principal chief, many changes have occurred that coincide with the changes in the social and economic environment of the United States. In the 1980s, government spending in the United States increased exponentially. This increase in spending allowed for an expansion in the size of the military, number of social programs and in the areas of research in technology and medicine. This spending was unrestrained and created an increase in the federal deficit that has reached over one trillion dollars. In 1994, the citizens of the United States overwhelmingly voted for a change — a change in the way the federal government operated, a change in the unrestrained spending practices of the United States Congress, and a change in the way services are delivered to the citizens of this Nation.

This vote for change was due, in part, to the perception that our representatives in Washington D.C. had forgotten why they were elected. They had lost touch with their constituents in the districts from which they were elected. They had lost sight of the needs of the people whom they represent. The needs of the Muscogee (Creek) people are significant. We are experiencing a time of increased unemployment and an increase in the number of people with income below the poverty level. To compound the difficulties experienced by the Muscogee Nation, the availability of federal monies to provide services has decreased. However, this administration has not lost sight of the needs of the people nor forgotten the people that elected us.

To meet the needs of our people in 1995 we have increased the services available to the Muscogee (Creek) people. We have received funding to implement the adoption opportunities and family preservation programs. We have received an increase in the funding levels for Indian child welfare so that our children will be able to reside in safe, stable, nurturing home environments. Funding was increased for the General Assistance program which serves families in need. This program is now assisting more families than ever before. We have allocated funds for families in the areas of emergency hardship, energy assistance, emergency medical assistance, burial assistance and food for families that have suffered the loss of a family member.

Despite the decrease in federal funding, the government of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation continues to provide for the people of this Nation. The provision of services to the people require several components. These include:

- * The recognition of the responsibility of elected officials and representatives to conduct activities in a coordinated, accountable, pre-determined manner that is responsive to the needs of the people.

- * The establishment of priorities and a comprehensive plan that will facilitate the achievement of the goals of the Tribe.

- * The creation of an infrastructure that provides adequate staffing for service delivery.

- * The establishment of guidelines and eligibility criteria for services to focus the provision of services to those in need and without adequate resources.

- * To establish resource programs that provide assistance to those in need of services affecting their daily lives.

- * The responsibility to facilitate economic development ventures to preserve the continuation of current programs and the recognition that we have a responsibility to invest in programs that serve the best interest of the population.

Okmulgee Head Start students celebrate the National Association for the Education of Young Children's "Week of the Young Child" by doing the limbo with Barney. April 24 through 28, 1995 marked its third year to participate in the national observance. The week was celebrated by encouraging parent volunteerism and National Council representative classroom visits also.

Bruner resigns as Council speaker

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) National Council Speaker Steve Bruner resigned his leadership position at the legislature's April regular session.

Citing a desire to spend more time with his family, Bruner said the April 19 bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City was the impetus for his decision. He made the announcement at the conclusion of the meeting.

"Those of you with families will understand where I'm coming from," Bruner said. He and his wife, Carol Jean, have three children and reside in Broken Arrow.

Second Chief Crow column

by Second Chief Shelly Crow

In loving memory of John L. Crow IV and all other children of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation who have been lost in death. I would like to share the following poem with you. This poem was given to us by a friend who has also lost a child. It comforts me to read it and I hope it will do the same for you.

Of all the ones we hate to lose,
That brings our deepest sorrow,
We hate to lose our young the most,
For they are our tomorrow.
Our hopes, our dreams, our future lives,
The heritage we plan to give,
So carefully guarded then passed on,
So they might happily live.
The focus of many yesterdays that passed so quickly by, no one will ever ready be for their dear child to die.
Death shatters our very being,
should never happen thus.
It's always happened to someone else.
Now that someone is us.
It may come to fast, may come slow.
It comes in so many ways.
It leaves a hurt that never heals, and endless, empty days.
God did not tell us to forget the ones so near in our heart, but helps to soothe the deep-felt loss while we must be apart.

A life without sorrow, full of joy, no promise to us was given,
just God's grace to see us through,
till we meet again in heaven.
And so we travel, down life's vague path, facing its challenges each day.
Lifting our heads whenever we can,
trading smiles to lighten our way.

My family and I want to thank everyone for their prayers, flowers, cards, food, and all the many things you have done to support us during this most difficult time in our lives. Your acts of kindness have been of great comfort and we want you to know how very much we appreciate all you have done.

We ask that you continue to hold us in your prayers as only the Creator, time, and the many wonderful memories, will see us through our sorrow.

Editor's note: John Crow IV was killed in an automobile accident. His funeral was April 26. His obituary appears on page 10.

Letters to the editor

Citizen grateful for assistance

Editor:

I would like to extend my gratitude to the Muscogee Nation Higher Education Department for their financial support during my college education. The Muscogee Nation supports all of its citizens in achieving the best education possible and for this I am grateful. Now, I can justify their support and the support of the Indian Health Service by giving back to the Indian community the knowledge and service that is required of me. I hope to make a difference in heightening the healthcare of Indians. Mvto.

Valerie Bartmess, Norman

Church member expresses gratitude

Editor:

The pastor and members of Davis Chapel United Methodist Church wish to express our sincere thank you to all of those who made our fund raising dinner a success.

A special mvto to Marie Crittendon, Mabelle Washington, Hedy Dearstone, and Pastor David Wilde for wading in mud and water to dig for wild onions. Also, mvto to Barbara Gillespie and Peggy Chalakee for furnishing our fry bread, biscuits, and tvklik tokse.

Your prayers and continued support will enable us to raise our church building up from its burnt ruins.

Come and worship our Creator with us when you are in and near Coweta. Sunday services begin at 11 a.m. and Wednesday services begin at 7 p.m.

Council representative responds to letter

Editor:

I am responding to the Okfuskee District Representative Wynema Roberts's letter appearing in the April edition of The Muscogee Nation News.

Rep. Roberts accuses members of the National Council of forgetting who elected us and discriminating against our own people by voting not to override Principal Chief Bill Fife's veto of NCA 95-02. That bill asked for $600,000 for services for the people from a lawsuit settlement between the Muscogee Nation and Indian Country U.S.A.

I cast the deciding vote not to override Fife's veto. I argued on the floor to let the veto stand. I wish to explain my vote and rebut Roberts's claims.

I have not forgotten who elected me. I work for the people every day as a member of the National Council. The bill was not a good bill.

First, she did not send the bill through the proper procedures. It should have been assigned first to the community service and cultural committee which would have made certain the bill was written correctly. The committee would make a recommendation and, since the bill involves money, we would refer it to the business and governmental operations committee. It is their job to see if the tribe has the funding and to see the most important bills get funded first. We have bills that have been recommended by committees and we cannot act on them because we lack money. Some have been waiting for funding since last summer. Should representative Robert's bill have priority over those other bills. Though the services Roberts planned to fund with her bill are important, there might be more important services that have not been funded and are waiting for funding.

Her bill asked for $600,000 but does not demonstrate the need for it.

The community service committee has the job of determining if the need for additional funds is there. That committee would call in the department director scheduled to get the funds from her bill and have the director provide justification. We don't want to appropriate money to a department which already has enough money when there are other pressing needs for it.

Language in the bill states "there will be no eligibility guidelines for these programs" and "those persons on waiting lists for these programs shall be served before new applications can be filed."

These sections are obviously in conflict. In order to get on a waiting list, a person had to meet guidelines. In her letter she accuses those of us who agreed with the veto of discriminating against our people. The bill would discriminate against the people simply because they didn't apply first. This is discrimination.

Roberts states, "The best way we can help our people is to draft legislation directing the

U.S. Supreme Court hears tax case

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court heard the arguments of both sides in a tax case regarding the Chickasaw's avowed exemption from Oklahoma's motor fuel taxes. The Chickasaw's base their exemption on an 1830 treaty with the federal government. The Oklahoma Tax Commission sued the Chickasaw Nation in 1991 over the motor fuel taxes and had a federal district court rule in their favor.

The 10th Circuit of Appeals in Denver overturned the decision, however, in favor of the Chickasaw Nation. The tax commission then appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Arguments were presented April 24. A decision is expected to be issued in June.

Fire safety poster contest

OKMULGEE — Creek Nation Housing Authority is sponsoring the 1995 fire safety poster contest for children residing in mutual help homes or resident communities of the housing authority.

Event coordinator Karen Mackey said all participants will receive a participation prize for entering the contest. The rules are:

- poster must be accompanied with a completed entry form attached to the back;
- all posters must have a fire safety message;
- children in kindergarten through the eighth grade are eligible to submit one poster each;
- entries must be original and created by the child using crayon, markers, or brush paint. Posters drawn with pencil will not be accepted;
- entries should not exceed 11 and one-half by 14 inches in size. It is recommended that the poster be drawn on smaller paper;
- all posters will become the property of Amerind Risk Management Corporation;
- deadline to submit posters is June 30; and
- only the top three winners of the regional contest will be submitted to the national level of competition.

The purpose of the contest is to raise community awareness of fire hazards and how to avoid fire. For more information, contact Mackey at: (918) 756-9562; or 1 (800) 259-5050 or write: CNHA, P.O. Box 297, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Committee seeks young ladies for Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation 1995-96

OKMULGEE — The Miss Muscogee (Creek) Nation Pageant will officially kick-off the 21st Annual Creek Festival and Rodeo at 7 p.m., June 15.

Judging

The pageant committee is planning for the pageant and is encouraging interested, young, Creek ladies to apply.

Contestants will be judged on performance in the following six categories: essay; interview; poise and personality; traditional dress; talent; and impromptu question.

Orientation

The interview category questions will be based on information obtained by required contestant attendance at an orientation on tribal government and culture. The orientation will begin at 10 a.m., June 3 in the independent agencies (mound) auditorium at the tribal capitol complex, U.S. Highway 75 and loop 56.

Following lunch, a presentation on poise, as well as coaching on talent performance, will be given by renowned American Indian ballerina Moscelyn Larkin, Shawnee-Peoria.

Suzanne McIntosh, committee member and licensed cosmetologist, will provide color analysis following Larkin's presentation.

The pageant application, essay, and a photograph are due June 3. A photographer will be available to take pictures of the contestants following the orientation.

Interview

The interview category will consist of individual contestant questioning by five judges beginning at 10 a.m., June 10 at the Solomon McCombs Executive Office Building, administrative conference room, tribal capitol complex. Following the interviews, lunch and talent practice will be held in the independent agencies auditorium. Contestants are instructed to arrive prepared; any props necessary for talent performance should be brought.

Pageant

The auditorium will be available for contestant use at 8 a.m., June 15. The pageant will begin at 7 p.m., June 15. A reception will be held for Miss Muscogee (Creek) Nation 1995-96 following the pageant.

Requirements

To be eligible to enter the pageant, applicants must:

- be at least one-quarter blood, enrolled Muscogee;
- be between the ages of 16 and 21 by the pageant date;
- never married or have a child;
- live within Muscogee Nation boundaries;
- submit three letters of recommendation;
- submit a 500-word essay on why they are seeking the title;
- not cohabit before or during reign; and
- attend an orientation workshop on Muscogee government and culture.

Application

Applications may be obtained or returned to pageant committee chair Rita Williams at the administrative office of Muscogee Nation Okmulgee Head Start, tribal capitol complex.

Williams may also be contacted by calling (918) 756-8700, ext. 337 or (918) 652-7500 or writing: Attn. Rita Williams, Muscogee Nation, P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Williams is encouraging tribal royalty, and former Muscogee Nation princesses and rodeo queens attend the pageant. She requests that they notify her of their attendance prior to the pageant date.

ers in each flight, longest drive, and closest to the hole contests.

Registration will be from noon to 4 p.m., June 16 and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., June 17. Qualifying tee time may be scheduled at individual's discretion on June 17. The qualifying round on June 18 will begin with an 8 a.m. shotgun start.

The scramble will be held at noon, June 16. Participants must pay their own $20 green-cart fee with cash.

Gratitude

We would like to thank all individuals that coordinated and attended prayer services for our loved one. The spiritual support and comfort your prayers, hymns, and presence offered him have further endeared all of you to our family.

Whether you prepared food, served, washed dishes, or volunteered other services, your consideration helped to ease our burden.

Mvto to all who visited, called, sent cards, flowers, or made monetary donations.

A very special thank you is offered to mamoce

The Nazin Billy Family

We would like to express our appreciation to the tribal towns, churches, relatives, and friends that brought food, flowers, and offered their assistance during the passing of our loved one — Michael Eugene Bucktrot. Mvto.

Sand Creek Tribal Town

We would like to thank the San Francisco office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the San Francisco district attorneys office, Jack Goss, Linda Cowen, Creek Nation, D.D. Etchison Methodist Church, Hart Funeral Home, Morris Cragar Flowers, Gail Blevins, Rev. Ronnie Smallen, and Rev. * To provide for the continuation of the governmental structure of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation so that it will continue to be a viable governmental entity into the 21st Century.

It is the responsibility of each elected official to uphold the Constitution of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation and to provide for the citizens therein to the best of their ability. Upon assuming my role as the Principal Chief of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation, I swore an oath to "faithfully execute the Office of the Principal Chief" and "to the best of my ability, uphold the Constitution of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation." Further, I accepted the responsibility to "prepare the annual budget requests and supplements there to and with the advice and consent of the National Council, administer funds within the control of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation." Therefore, it is my responsibility to ensure that the fiscal operations of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation are conducted in a prudent, responsible, and accountable manner that is responsive to the needs of the people and to ensure that such operations are consistent with the goals and objectives of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation.

I have accepted the responsibility that has been placed before me and have ardently conducted my activities consistent with the Constitution of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation as I have sworn to do. My administration has not forgotten why we were elected nor have we lost sight of the needs of the people. I will continue to ensure that the government of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation is responsive to the needs of the people. Further, I will continue to ensure that the provision of services is conducted in a manner which is consistent with the goals and objectives of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation and representative of the needs of the people whom have placed in me, their trust.

administration to provide more services to our tribal citizens." She had already written a bill that will take 20 percent of the lawsuit settlement — approximately $1.2 million — for client services. Fife vetoed that bill, but the Council voted to override and the bill is now law and the money is being spent. I think the Council overstepped the line here.

The administration makes the budget and the Council approves it. By taking that 20 percent, we are taking the tribal money and trying to do the function of the administration. We do not have the staff nor do we deal with the daily duties of the administration. Our job is to legislate. It is the administration's job to set the budget and determine where the money needs to be spent with Council approval.

It makes me feel bad for our people, our children, and our grandchildren because we are going to deplete that settlement money. Approximately $1.2 million of tribal money will be depleted by Robert's bill that the Council agreed to. All Roberts asked for could have been accomplished without ever spending any of the principal of the $5.7 million settlement.

If we had put the $5.7 million in a permanent fund and taken only the interest from that money and legislated a bill directing the administration to spend the interest money for client services, we would have money for services for generations to come. Now we are depleting the principal and once that money is gone, it is gone.

The Council did come up with a better bill to accomplish what Roberts was asking for. Her bill was poorly written. Voting for it as is would have been wrong. Two wrongs do not make a right. The author doesn't seem to understand her own bill. She doesn't seem to know how to write a bill and she doesn't understand what she is writing. Another representative said I voted against the people, but it is my job to look out for the people and not to allow bad bills like this one to pass.

The people of the Muscogee Nation and the absentee voters gave me one of the highest margins of victory over an incumbent because they believed that I would stand up and speak out on their behalf.

That is exactly what I have done.

I believe in building a strong foundation for the Muscogee Nation by legislating good bills that will stand up in any court.

I was working on a bill to use the interest from the $5.7 million settlement for all kinds of services for the people. My bill would have met all the objectives that Roberts wanted met in NCA 95-02.

Now, I have a finished bill which I cannot introduce because the money is being spent by Roberts's bill. I keep my bill in my briefcase to remind myself that I goofed too. I should have worked faster and harder so my bill would have been finished and introduced first. I am not going to introduce it because over $825,000 is being spent now and by the end of the year all of the $1.2 million will be depleted.

If we had passed a bill to use the interest only and not the principal, all of that $1.2 million would be there for the future. I feel bad because we are depleting the money and not leaving anything for the future.

I will continue to stand up for the people. I will continue to speak out against any bill that is not right. I would never vote against the people. I only vote against bad bills.

Second Chief discusses her tenure

by Shelly Crow, Second Chief

The role and mission of second chief is to support the office of the principal chief for the benefit of the citizens of the Muscogee Nation through active involvement in all areas of assigned responsibility.

Before I took office as second chief I committed myself to being an active elected official. I believed our tribe had come to far for the second chief to be an elected official in name only.

With your support, I have spent my term as an advocate for those who needed help. Though I have no signature authority, and have had little if any input with the day-to-day operations of the tribe, I still tried to provide direction and service for many of you.

I began trying to make changes in the way the tribe does its business because I believe many of you voted for that change. In 1992, I was the acting director of the health administration, serving at the request of the principal chief during the transition period. It was in those months, that the Indian Health Service lawsuit against the tribe for mismanagement of federal funds after five years. We settled for far less than the $200,000 IHS wanted from us.

I also implemented new guidelines for the community health representative program to make it work more fairly for the people who need this service.

Because of this and my years of experience as a health care provider, I was selected to serve on the President's Health Care Task Force. This was important as this was the only chance for Indian input at the presidential level.

And despite what my enemies said, I served that task force at a great cost to me personally and financially.

As a mother, I am concerned about drug use among our children. In 1994, I led this tribe's participation in Red Ribbon Week to support a drug free environment. If our children are the future, we must make certain they have every chance to be successful and stay drug free.

I have also spent a good deal of my term representing you on various boards and committees.

I served on the Oklahoma Indian Affairs Commission for two years. During that time, I fought to have the Indian affairs office changed to a cabinet level position in the state government instead of being lumped with the blind and handicapped programs of the state's health department budget.

I have also made our priorities known to other tribes. As a member of the executive committee of the Inter-tribal Council of the Five Civilized Tribes, I have brought issues to the meetings that have not been considered before. I worked to change the image of Inter-tribal to one of a working group of Indian leaders.

This work is significant as we prepare for the future. Tribal government as we know it is about to change dramatically because of the changes at the federal level.

Programs that have traditionally received funding are now being examined and questioned. Many of these programs have been guaranteed by treaty rights, but the political climate is such that Indians may be asked to bear a greater portion of the burden to balance the federal budget.

It is important for us to be aware of the budgeting and funding process for our programs. The future employment in this country is not going to be labor-intensive manufacturing or agriculture, but in technology and service. Can we say that this tribe is ready for the future? What kind of future is there in bingo and smokeshops? How much longer can we depend on that for money?

Without federal funding, we can expect extreme cutbacks in tribal services and programs. Jobs will also be affected as programs are cutback or eliminated. We are looking at hard times for the Muscogee Nation.

It could easily be the worst time in modern history for chiefs to seek office as we face what some might call a depression. But, with strong, decisive leadership, and a willingness to fight Washington D.C. for what is rightfully ours, we can make it through this crisis.

There is a sense of urgency for decisive leadership with foresight for not only the present, but for the lives of our children and grandchildren. It is time for us to stand up and give an account of ourselves.

As I have been tragically reminded recently, life is short. The Bible teaches the race is not always to the fastest or the battle to the strongest. I am more determined now than ever to dedicate myself to the service of others. Thank you for your continued support. I intend to serve you faithfully and complete the job you elected me to do.

Letters to the editor

Representative writes about rights

Editor:

I am writing for the 800-plus employees of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation and all entities. Many employees and their families are not aware of the recently passed tribal law protecting employees and guaranteeing their rights.

With the help of tribal district court judge Patrick Moore and National Council attorney Tim Posey, I introduced legislation to protect one of our most valuable assets: our employees.

Employees are responsible for the day-to-day operations of tribal government including bingo halls, smoke shops, and community operations.

The bill, NCA 95-07, states that all illegal, unethical, dishonest, and improper conduct by any person should be stopped. Any employee reporting any such action shall be protected from retaliation such as discharge, suspension, transfer, demotion, reduction in wages, threats, etc.

Other rights include the right to call improper acts of another employee to the attention of supervisors and the right to report dangerous or unhealthy working conditions and inspection of same.

Any act of reprisal against an employee for providing information to the office of the attorney general or personnel shall be considered illegal. Additionally, any person found by the Muscogee Nation employment security commission to have violated those provisions of this law shall forfeit his or her position and be ineligible for appointment or employment for a period of five years. Any employee may request a copy of this law by notifying their supervisor or personnel office.

If I can be of assistance with more information, feel free to contact me.

Student thanks representative

Editor:

On April 23, David Lewis, National Council Representative for the Muscogee Nation, came to speak at Haskell Indian Nations University. Lewis came on behalf of the Muscogee Nation to help us celebrate Native American Heritage Week. His speech centered on tradition and medicine. We greatly appreciate his contribution to the education of our students.

We would also like to extend gratitude for the Muscogee Nation for providing elders to assist in the continuing education of Native American students.

Tammy Sue Lowe, Lawrence, Kan.

Entrepreneurial workshops

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) Nation is considering cosponsoring a series of business workshops with the Oklahoma Native American Business Development Center in Tulsa for interested Indians in the immediate area.

Topics being considered are:

- home-based or microenterprise — will acquaint potential entrepreneurs with opportunities in a home-based or microenterprise operation including product selection and networking with other home-based businesses;
- financing small business — will provide information about the sources of business financing and requirements for participation;
- finding and developing your market — will enable identification of potential customers, sources of marketing assistance, and how to develop and implement marketing strategies; and
- legal and tax aspects of business — will explain the basic forms of business organization as well as provide basic information for record keeping and reporting requirements to assure tax compliance and reduce tax liability.

For further information, contact Andrew Skeeter, Muscogee Nation Economic Development Specialist, at: P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Muscogee Nation WIC program

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) Nation Women's, Infants, and Children's (WIC) program is now providing services to Eufaula, Okemah, and Okmulgee areas.

The program provides nutrition education, vouchers for nutritious supplemental foods, and health services referrals to participants. It is available to pregnant, postpartum, and breast-feeding women, infants, and children up to age 5.

Infants on the program receive appropriate formula, cereal, and juices. Women and children receive: fortified milk and or cheese; eggs; hot or cold cereals high in iron; fruit and vegetable juices high in vitamin C; and either peanut butter or dry beans and peas.

Breast-feeding women may also receive: tuna;

carrots; peanut butter; and dry beans and peas.

The federal program is available to all eligible persons. Participants now enrolled in other county or tribal WIC programs are welcome to transfer to the tribal program.

Applicants must be screened by WIC or medical personnel who assess general health, history, weight, and blood tests. Tribal clinics provide medical support for Indian participants. Non-Indians receive medical support from county health departments or private physicians.

Muscogee Nation WIC screenings are held at:

- Eufaula Indian Community Center, 800 W. Forrest Ave., 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesdays;
- Okemah Indian Community Center, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Wednesdays;
- Sapulpa Indian Community Center, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Thursdays; and
- Okmulgee Indian Health Center, 1313 E. 20th St., 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Welcome to the 1995 Creek Nation Festival & Rodeo!

Fife

Welcome Creek citizens, other tribal members, and the many visitors from around the country to the 21st Annual Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo.

This is a festive occasion which makes us proud to be a part of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation. It is an annual tradition which affirms our heritage. It gives our people the opportunity to fellowship with relatives and friends and to also establish new acquaintances.

Our goals have always been centered around the needs of our family and culture. We face many new challenges every day that threaten our unity and our existence as a nation. However, we should not and will not cast aside those unique qualities which make us Creek. We should use our culture to strengthen our government. We have the visions, the dreams, and the desire to maintain a strong tribal government.

During the past three years, Muscogee (Creek) Nation has seen growth and progress. I am optimistic about the future and the potential for our nation. Things look better for us than ever before and we are moving forward. We have had many important victories for becoming stronger and more effective as a government.

Again, I want to welcome everyone and hope you enjoy the many planned activities during this year's Festival.

Second Chief extends Festival welcome

As second chief of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation, I want to welcome all citizens and visitors to the 1995 Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo.

During the past five years, I have served on the Festival either as a health care provider, committee member, or chairperson. This will be first year that I participate in the Festival as a member of the tribe. My heart is with all of those people who have labored over the past 21 years to ensure that our people have a happy and safe Festival.

We have had many disasters, illnesses, and deaths within our Nation this past year. Out of this our people have become stronger, more compassionate, and caring. Within us a distinct courage has come forth to help us look towards building a brighter future for our families and communities.

For the children participating in the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Olympics, I wish them all a fun and safe time, and may they all demonstrate good sportsmanship in their endeavors to win their events. As gifts from the Creator and the future of our Nation, we hold these children dear to our hearts. Honor them, protect them, respect them, teach them positive values, be patient and kind, and most of all, listen to what they have to say.

To the Miss Mvskoke Nation Pageant contestants, I wish them well. You are all winners. We're proud of all of our young women. During the past year, Miss Corina Lowe, the 1994-95 Miss Mvskoke Nation, has done a wonderful job in proudly representing our tribe.

For all the other events — rodeo, softball, etc., — may we all set good role models. Good luck to all contestants. Those that are coming back to sing our Muscogee hymns, bringing our Muscogee tradition with you, we salute you. May the Creator look down on us and our ancestors to bless this Festival and our Nation, to take us into the year 2000, never forgetting our families and heritage.

Let's all keep in touch in the years to come. We lean on each other during the sad times. The Festival is a happy celebration that brings us all together to reminisce of good memories and to make new ones. I hope everyone has a memorable and safe time during this year's Festival.

With kindest regards and continuing gratitude for your blessings and support during my tenure as second chief, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Shelly Crow, second chief

Tribal food distribution program unaffected by recent budget cuts

OKMULGEE — Reduction in funding has caused some state-run U.S. Department of Agriculture food distribution programs to discontinue. The Muscogee Nation Food Distribution program is not affected though the program could be in future budget jeopardy.

"I received a letter from the deputy secretary of agriculture May 24," said Charley LaSarge, program manager. "Our program and the nutrition program for the elderly will not be affected at this time. Most of the programs that have been affected by the new changes are administered by the state."

LaSarge said those changes would have prevented the USDA to purchase commodities for federal programs and that administrative costs would be depleted.

"We may experience some cuts within the next fiscal year," LaSarge said. "At this time we are submitting a straight line budget through the federal agency in Dallas. Our program will continue serving Indian families within our boundaries."

The MNN wins award

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Muscogee Nation News has received the National Bojack Humanitarian Award for excellence from Eli Bojack Blackfeather and managing editor Jim Wolfe was named editor of the year.

Blackfeather is a retired American Indian stuntman that has appeared in more than 260 movies. The award was begun in honor of another Indian actor whose name is undisclosed by the organization.

"These are all humanitarian awards because of the work that these people have done either in school or in their professions," Blackfeather said.

Nominations are received from nationwide committees divided by regions. The Muscogee Nation News is representing the central division. The awards have been presented annually since 1962.

"It is always pleasing to be recognized for your service," Wolfe said. "Considering it's just Stephanie Berryhill and myself publishing The Muscogee Nation News, this award is especially gratifying."

The MNN is published monthly by the Muscogee Nation and distributed to 8,400 each month. Berryhill, who has also been awarded by the Native American Press Association, has been with The MNN since 1990. Wolfe has been on staff since 1988 and managing editor since 1993.

Program awarded

The Muscogee Nation Johnson-O'Malley Indian Education Program received the recognition of excellence award at the annual state JOM conference. This was the only award to be presented to a tribe contracting the program.

Muscogee voters to decide constitutional referendum July 22

OKMULGEE — Muscogee voters will consider three amendments to the tribal constitution in a July 22 referendum.

The proposed amendments concern the reduction and apportionment of the Muscogee (Creek) National Council, a requirement of tribal court justices to not have any felony convictions, and a requirement that Council representatives not have any felony convictions within 10 years at the time of filing for office.

Ratification of the amendments requires a two-thirds majority of all ballots cast.

The amendments will read as follows:

• Article [6], Section 2, first paragraph:

All legislative power herein shall be vested in the Muscogee (Creek) National Council, which shall consist of one (1) House with one (1) Representative from each district and one (1) additional representative for each 1,500 citizens. And further, that the number of National Council Representatives will be set at a maximum of twenty-six (26) members and additional seats may not be added without

Welty woman named 1995-96 Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation

WEWOKA — At an early age, Royce Lynn Grammar learned that the Mvskoke language was a social skill essential to coexisting in her family. It is the only language spoken in her home.

Upon being crowned Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation 1995-96, there was no question as to what her number one objective would be — the perpetuation of Mvskoke language and culture.

After competing against nine other girls, Royce was announced as Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation 1995-96 on June 15.

"I couldn't believe it; I was just amazed. I was shocked all the way home — I really didn't think I'd get it," she said.

Becoming Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation has been one of Royce's goals since she was a little girl. "Growing up and watching other princesses fulfill their duties as the reigning princess, I longed to be in their shoes..., she wrote in a pageant-required essay.

At age 21 — the eldest age at which a contestant is eligible to run for the title — she admits that time was a big motivating factor in her decision to run.

Being raised in an environment where her indigenous tongue was dominant, Royce speaks, reads, and writes the Mvskoke language. She attributes the teachings of her great-grandmother — the late Sarah Coker Ahfonoke-Hicks — as being

Muscogee Nation hosts Five Tribes Intertribal Council quarterly meet

OKMULGEE — The third quarterly meeting of the Five Civilized Tribes Intertribal Council will be held at 9 a.m., July 14 at the Creek Council House Museum, House of Warriors, located on the Town Square at Sixth and Grand Streets.

Established in 1952, the intertribal council is composed of representatives of the Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw, Muscogee, and Seminole nations.

The majority of activities July 13 will be held at Oklahoma State University-Okmulgee Student Union, located at Fourth and Mission streets. Session coordinators may be contacted by calling (918) 756-8700 and their respective extension numbers listed on the itinerary.

Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation Royce Lynn Grammar, as well as tribal royalty representing the Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw and Seminole nations, will also participate in the meeting.

Second Chief Crow announces candidacy for principal chief

by Shelly Crow, second chief

I would like to announce my intention to become the next principal chief of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation.

This announcement serves as a statement of my sincere desire and commitment to continue to serve the citizens of this great Indian nation as our Creator and our ancestors intended.

The upcoming election this fall (Oct. 28) represents an opportunity for you, the Mvskoke people, to restore strong leadership and unity to your government and to regain the ground that has been lost through ineffective, uncaring, management of your tribal resources — culture, traditions, people, time, land, equipment, facilities, programs, businesses, and money.

For over three years this tribe has been in a continual state of planning. There has been no implementation, no results, and no action, only reaction. We cannot make progress as long as we continue to react in the same manner to the same old problems. A fresh, proactive approach is needed.

As your principal chief, I will assume responsibility for the day-to-day operations of the tribe. Under this new leadership, whomever the Muscogee people elect as their second chief will be second in command. All employees and citizens will be treated equally — with respect and recognition for their dedication and the many sacrifices they give of themselves to better our nation.

I have diligently prepared myself for the challenge to serve you as your principal chief. As second chief, I have demonstrated my total dedication and unselfish commitment to Mvskoke people.

My response to a problem, is action — proactive and immediate.

I am also, looking for good people to join me in my campaign to become principal chief. There is much work to do in getting my message out to citizens. If you would like to join me on this mission, just write: Shelly Crow, P.O. Box 632, Henryetta, OK 74437; or phone (918) 445-2464 or 1 (800) 847-2769.

Letters to the editor

Program manager offers thanks, tips

Editor:

The Muscogee (Creek) Nation Women, Infants and Children Program has continued to grow since its beginning in October 1994. The program, in addition to providing nutritious food, provides education to improve the eating habits and health of the participants and family. Women, infants, and children to the age of five, must be screened by WIC or medical personnel with the assessment of health history, height, weight, and hematocrit. The WIC staff recently provided materials and samples of approved foods at the Creek Nation Festival Olympics (where approximately 530 children participated) and at the Festival parade through downtown Okmulgee.

On behalf of the WIC program I would like to say a special thanks to those who made the outreach promotion a success:

- all tribal health administration employees who volunteered and helped;
- Nancy Harry and Ralston Foods/Beech-Nut Nutrition;
- Joe Bonanno, Nestle Beverage Company;
- Susan Shade, Quaker Oats Company;
- Alexis Hersh, Welch's;
- John Bretanus and Kathy Beck, Idea Factory;
- tribal food distribution program; and
- Massey Graphics.

Participants now enrolled in other county or tribal WIC programs who find Muscogee Nation WIC sites more convenient are welcome to transfer. The WIC benefits are available to all persons regardless of age, sex, handicap, race, color, or national origin. For more information, contact the WIC office. We will be happy to answer your questions about the services and program requirements. Call (918) 758-2722 or toll free, 1 (800) 648-2302.

Robyn Whitecloud, Okmulgee

Editor's note: Whitecloud is acting manager of the tribal WIC program.

Citizen inquires about case

Editor:

I have just received a Tulsa Creek Indian Community newsletter. The writer, editor, and press agent is Paula Perkins Willits. I do trust she will be more responsible in these roles than she was previously as secretary of the board. To my knowledge, she never furnished a set of minutes for meetings held during her term of office.

Community members were neither informed nor invited to the so-called conference for board members held June 3 at Trade Winds Central. It was stated the workshop was offered to communities in the Creek Nation who wanted to learn more about how a community should be run. What a joke. I feel sure they failed to mention this very board is in litigation pending a hearing date. Judge Pat Moore stated it would be a week to 10 days before another judge would be selected to hear the case. This was April 21, in Okmulgee.

Our organization practices nepotism, conflict of interest, and irresponsible spending practices, to name a few. The chair, Pat Kelley, has been very rude to representatives as well as elder members in the community. She went so far as to ask why we didn't start a community of our own in Broken Arrow. I must remind her, that I wrote the bill in National Council that provided the (Tulsa) smoke shop where the revenue is coming from that she enjoys spending so. I would personally like to see some of this money spent on a much needed mini bus — furnished with a wheel chair lift — to provide transportation for our citizens to clinics and the Creek Nation complex.

[I believe] theft is pretty common in the community smoke shops. It will not stop until someone is prosecuted and made to reimburse the money taken. Until punishment and (a means of) restitution is implemented, it will get worse.

An embezzlement in the neighborhood of $25,000 was considered an "insignificant" amount by Owen Sapulpa, our last chairperson. I say it is significant enough to reopen the case and prosecute the alleged perpetrator.

We ask for accountability and request the board develop a system that provides checks and balances so that our funds are spent wisely and on our people. Okema Randall, Broken Arrow

Editor's note: Muscogee Nation Bar Association member Stephen Foster of Bristow has been appointed special judge to hear the Tulsa community case. Foster said he is reviewing all files and will set a hearing date soon.

Shell maker discusses craft

Editor:

I would like to express my gratitude to the people who in the past have bought turtle leggings from me. I want to let all the people — Indian and non-Indian — that I have not made any turtle leggings this year.

Tribe to accept energy assistance applications

OKMULGEE — Muscogee (Creek) Nation Social Services will begin taking applications for the tribal energy assistance program for those individuals 55 years of age and older.

Applications can be made at the social services offices from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the tribal capitol complex, U.S. Highway 75 and loop 56.

Applicants that have received assistance from other agencies are ineligible for the tribal program. For those individuals who are uncertain as to what program they may have qualified previously, contact social services at (918) 756-8700.

Applications will be taken in the field on the following dates:

Aug. 1 — Holdenville Indian Community Center, 416 E. Poplar, 9 to 11 a.m.

Aug. 1 — Muskogee Indian Community Center, 111 S. Virginia, 1 to 3 p.m.

Aug. 2 — Okemah Indian Community Center, 1100 S. Division, 9 to 11 a.m.

Aug. 3 — Eufaula Indian Community Center, 702 Forrest Ave., 9 to 11 a.m.

Aug. 3 — Sapulpa Indian Health Clinic, 1125 E. Cleveland, 1 to 3 p.m.

To be eligible for consideration for the tribal energy assistance program, the following information must be provided:

- proof of Muscogee (Creek) tribal enrollment (citizenship card);
- must not have previously participated in any other energy assistance programs within the past year; and
- must be 55 years and older.

Citizens residing outside the tribal jurisdiction, may contact social services for details on how to make application.

Tribal official, employee published

OKMULGEE — Second Chief Shelly Crow, M.S., R.N., and Timmy Thompson, helas haya (medicine man) and cultural researcher for the Muscogee (Creek) Nation, have collaborated with Donna Wing, associate professor of nursing at the University of Tulsa, on an article published in "Family and Community Health, The Journal of Health Promotion and Maintenance".

Their work is entitled "An ethn nursing study of Muscogee (Creek) Indians and effective health care practices for treating alcohol abuse".

The purpose of the research was to identify barriers to seeking and obtaining care for alcoholism and alcohol-related problems among Muscogee Indians in rural eastern Oklahoma and to learn the culturally-based view that contributes to effective health practices in the care of alcohol abuse.

This is the first time this type of study has been done specifically for Muscogee people.

It is the belief of the three that the primary objective of this study is to unite health care practitioners, regardless of area of practice, to some common goals: teaching the essentials of self-care; family and community health care; and health promotion and maintenance.

Through this holistic approach to health care, the authors contend the number of illnesses requiring hospitalization can be reduced and related health care costs can be cut substantially.

This study was funded by grants from: Oklahoma Center for the Advancement of Science and Technology (OCAST) #HR3-044; Sigma Theta Tau International; Sigma Theta Tau Beta Delta Chapter; and the Oklahoma Nurses Foundation.

This grant provided monies only for expenditures to do the survey — mileage, printing, etc. No royalties will be received from the printing. This study was approved in 1992 by the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Hospital and Clinics Board, the Community Services Committee, and the Principal Chief.

"I would like to thank Helen Coon, who was a health board member in 1992, former National Council representative Tom Berryhill, and Principal Chief Bill Fife," Crow said.

Thompson, Crow

Copies of the article and study are available from the Second Chief. Call (918) 756-8700, ext 222 or write P.O. Box 580, Okmulgee, OK 74447.

Notice of public hearing

OKMULGEE — A public hearing is scheduled for the Muscogee Nation Children and Family Services Administration Child Care Development Block Grant will begin at 6 p.m. Aug. 10 at the independent agencies (mound) building at the tribal capitol complex, U.S. Highway 75 and loop 56. The child care and development block grant is a program that provides financial assistance for income eligible tribal citizens towards their monthly child care obligations.

21st Annual CREEK NATION FESTIVAL

volleyball • tennis • softball • parade • hoops • 5K review

Although overall Festival event participation and attendance was less than that of previous years, it still remains to serve as a place for the reunion of families and the renewal of friendships.

Established in 1974, the weekend full of indigenous food, elders' activities, gospel singing, rodeo, and sporting events is a Native American-style homecoming to thousands of Indian people.

Festival was officially kicked-off with the standing-room-only 1995-96 Miss Mvskoke (Creek) Nation pageant on Thursday night. With the entry of 10 contestants this year, it's evident that attendance has increased to such proportions that it has outgrown the mound auditorium

The rodeo grand entry and events were well executed.

Although this year's crowd appeared thinner, the spectators did not lack for enthusiasm as this year's bull fighters provided two evenings of comical slap stick — as well as risked life and limb for many cowboys Okfuskee Indian Community members

seemed to enjoy working at what they contend was the last of their five-year run as volleyball tournament coordinators A new event — Hoops Fest — debuted this year and drew crowds of large magnitude And, as always, there were the mainstay crowds — fast pitch softball players and fans that bore the heat and (yes) cold — long after the last vendor tents were folded up

Special guest of the bar association was Muscogee citizen Montie Deer — an assistant U.S. Attorney who has been nominated for a federal judgeship.

Presiding over the meeting was Muscogee Nation assistant attorney general George Almerigi, outgoing bar association president.

Geoffrey Standingbear of Pawhuska, Stephen Foster of Bristow, and John Kerr of Okmulgee were elected directors of the bar association.

Citizen drafts policy change at OU

NORMAN — The University of Oklahoma has changed its policy for verification of Indian ancestry regarding the eligibility of students for services, scholarships, and other forms of financial assistance available only to American Indians.

The policy, written by Muscogee citizen Brett Williams, an OU law alumnus who serves as acting assistant director of OU Student Support Services. In devising the policy, Williams and committee members — including former interim President J. R. Morris and Rick Hall, interim vice president for student affairs — consulted with tribal leaders and members of OU's American Indian Roundtable. The Roundtable is composed of representatives from the school's American Indian student, faculty, staff, and alumni organizations.

"There has been an ongoing process for many years now to develop a verification policy," said Williams.

"The intent of the policy is to make sure that selected university programs and benefits go to the students who can verify themselves as American Indians."

American Indian Movement expands

NEWPORT, Ken. — Citing rapid growth, the American Indian Movement announces its procedures for starting chapters and support groups.

The national office is in Minneapolis, Minn., and national field director Dennis Banks has an office in Newport. Banks also has a field office in Washington D.C.

To start an AIM chapter, submit a formal written request to Vernon Bellecourt at AIM National Office, 3417 20th Ave South, Minneapolis, MN 55407 or by facsimile transmission at: (612) 721-7826; and to Banks at P.O. Box 315, Newport, KY, 41071, or by facsimile transmission at: (606) 581-9458.

Those interested can receive information on existing area AIM chapters.

Banks said AIM Chapters are vehicles for American Indians while support groups are for Indians and non-Indians that support AIM. Also it is important for those individuals who may believe that they are an AIM chapter or support group to go through the process of certification. Banks said incorporation is no guarantee that one belongs to a legitimate AIM chapter or support group.

No Festival powwow

OKMULGEE — The annual Muscogee (Creek) Nation Festival Powwow scheduled for July 28 through 30 in Okmulgee has been postponed indefinitely. Festival committee chair Ken Factor said the group originally contracted to coordinate the annual event was forced to cancel.

Muscogee Election '95 ☒

Almerigi candidate for second chief

OKMULGEE — George Almerigi announces his candidacy for Muscogee Nation Second Chief. The 61-year-old citizen is of the alligator clan and has a bachelor of science degree in business administration and a juris doctor degree.

Almerigi is a veteran of tribal affairs having served in a variety of roles. His tribal government experience began in June 1984, when he served as tribal attorney until September 1986.

He was then elected to the Muscogee (Creek) National Council as an Okmulgee District Representative. He was re-elected twice — the last time without opposition — and served until he resigned to work for the tribe's department of justice as assistant attorney general, where he has been employed since September 1992.

In addition to serving in tribal government, Almerigi has served as president of Wilson Indian Community for four years. Prior to entering law school in 1980, Almerigi had 16 years experience ranging from payroll supervisor to general accounting as well as computer programmer-analyst and manager of management information systems.

Prior to receiving his bachelor's degree in 1964, Almerigi was an air craft mechanic for eight years and an electronic tester inspector for five years.

Almerigi is a U.S. Air Force Veteran of the Korean War and was recalled to active duty in the U.S. Navy during Desert Storm. He retired from the U.S. Naval Reserve in January, 1994.

Almerigi said he wants to be second chief because he is the best qualified candidate for the position based on his experience in tribal government and private industry as well as his education and training as a lawyer.

"I believe my age, experience and my concern for the Muscogee people and my desire to help shape a better government for the Nation, make me the best qualified candidate," Almerigi said in a prepared release.

If elected, Almerigi said he will assist the principal chief by:

- * promoting unity and cooperation in the executive branch;
- * carrying out special projects as requested;
- * representing the Muscogee (Creek) Nation on behalf of the principal chief;
- * serving as liaison to the National Council and other organizations;
- * providing advice and counsel on operations of the administration and formulating policy position; and
- * listening to problems and complaints from citizens and channel problems to appropriate offices with monthly reports to the principal chief and National Council.

Citizen presents fine arts thesis exhibition

FAYETTEVILLE — Muscogee citizen Bobby C. Martin, University of Arkansas graduate student of art, presented his master of fine arts thesis exhibition — Dwight I.T.S.: The Pursuit of Civilization — at the university fine arts center gallery.

The exhibition chronicled, through paintings, prints, and drawings the lives and times of students at Dwight Mission, an early Indian boarding school. Works are based on photos belonging to his grandmother, a full-blood Muscogee who attended the school in the early 1900s. Recreated to recall pages from old family photo albums, the works, "seek, through shared memories, to provoke thought and promote dialogue on the commonality of peoples and cultures, and the enduring importance of family in any society." Martin, 38, is a printmaker and painter whose works are included in the permanent collections of the Philbrook Museum of Art, Tulsa, and the Southern Plains Indian Museum, Anadarko.

I understand that there are other Indians making turtle leggings and that some are sold to the gift shop there in the Creek Nation in Okmulgee.

I understand that the gift shop is selling the leggings saying they were made by me and was pricing them up. My leggings have a special marking on them. I'm sorry but you didn't buy mine from the gift shop. Thanks for your buying my leggings in the past.

Christine Henneha, Okemah

Editor's note: Betsy Factor, manager of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Senior Citizens Gift Shop, said those reports are misleading. The shop purchased one pair of leggings from a relative of Henneha and sold them to another Henneha relative. Factor says the gift shop has turtle leggings for sale, but that none are made by Henneha.

Citizen likes program

Editor:

Of the many programs the Muscogee (Creek) Nation offers, I believe the community health representative program is the most efficient. The [workers] seem knowledgeable and caring. I am glad to have someone to depend on as are the handicapped without any phone. I hope they keep the CHR program. I appreciate them and need them each and every day.

an important asset.

"The only way that we could communicate with her was by speaking Creek to her. She taught us all to sing Creek hymns."

And it was from that inheritance that she choose material for the pageant's talent category. She sang "Ekvna Heraten," "Hvthvyatken Vliceet," and "Heleluyn" — hymns with special significance to her church, Greenleaf Baptist.

"It's our church anthem and I've always known [those] song[s] and its the first thing that popped into my mind for talent."

Royce anticipates using her title to promote the teaching of the Mvskoke language.

"I just hope that through this I'll help people learn more about the language and Creek culture. There are so many young people that could care less about the old ways; I just want to reestablish that [importance]."

Although an enrolled Muscogee tribal citizen, she has been employed with Seminole Nation Enrollment Office since August 1994. Royce, who is also Seminole, said that Seminole Nation Principal Chief Jerry Haney has been very supportive of her endeavor. "Everyone here thinks it's great," as was evidenced by a reception her co-workers held for her following her coronation.

Royce belongs to the Beaver Clan and New Tulsa Tribal Town. She is a graduate of Mason Public Schools. Royce is the daughter of Roy Grammar, Okemah, and Linda Kay Hicks, Welty, with whom she resides. Her maternal grandparents are John and Louise Burgess and her paternal grandmother is Wessie Grammar.

Principal Chief Fife announces bid for re-election

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation Principal Chief Bill Fife announced he will seek reelection in a prepared statement.

As a leader with national standing, Fife says his solid background in tribal service and National Council experience as significant.

He began his tribal career in 1973 as coordinator for tribal education. He later became director of tribal affairs. He ran for principal chief in 1987.

Fife won a special election for Okfuskee district representative in 1988. He was reelected to the National Council in 1989 and served until his election as principal chief in 1991.

"This administration has significantly accomplished an expansion of services in all areas of housing, education, health, and community development," Fife said.

Among his accomplishments, Fife said:

- the tribe has received housing grants in excess of $20 million for the rehabilitation of mutual help homes and another $1.8 million for rehabilitating individual homes owned by Muscogee citizens. More than 100 new housing units were allotted;

- the education department assists more than 1,000 Muscogee students with financial assistance for higher education through tribal scholarships and another 10,000 students in public schools as well as individuals participating in the adult education programs for general equivalency diploma services or vocational training. The department also sponsors programs for summer youth groups, Creek communities, and Head Start children;

- the health administration opened a new facility. "This spring we were proud to open the Okmulgee Health Center — a 10,000 square foot facility which provides dental services, pediatric care, and general medical care to Creeks in Okmulgee and surrounding communities," Fife said. "This is the first clinic established for Creeks living in and around the Okmulgee District and it is only one component of the regional network of health care services which have been planned for all citizens living in the eight county service area."

The tribe also operates an elderly nutrition program, a community health service representative program and a new women, infants, and children (WIC) program.

- the tribe completed construction of the center for human development at the tribal capitol complex in Okmulgee recently and was successful in getting funds for a community service center and four local community centers. The completion of these community centers will meet the goal of providing every chartered community in the Muscogee Nation with a facility to house community service programs at the local level.

Fife said his contemporary leadership style has allowed more citizens to participate in the governmental process. He is particularly proud of people participating in the community organizations who practice governance at the local level. Fife said he has a deep respect for traditional leaders who continue cer-

Voters approve amendments, National Council reduced by 10

OKMULGEE — Muscogee voters approved overwhelmingly three amendments to the tribal constitution July 22 with a light voter turnout.

The results are:

- NCA 95-37, capping the number of representatives at 26 — 1,336 yes, 277 no;

- NCA 95-45, no felony convictions within 10 years of filing for office — 1,378 yes, 231 no; and

- NCA 95-72, no felony convictions for Supreme Court nominees — 1,351 yes, 261, no.

Absentee voters accounted for 2,953 of the 4,834 total ballots cast.

The results were certified by the tribal election board and forwarded to the Bureau of Indian Affairs for final approval.

The election board also certified the number of National Council district representative seats based on the tribal census (38,230 at Aug. 1) and the approval of the Constitutional amendment.

Seven of the eight districts will have their representation reduced. The exception is Wagoner-Rogers-Mayes, who will maintain their number at two. Okmulgee and Tulsa each lost two representatives.

Districts with the new number of representatives each are:

- Creek, three;
- McIntosh, three;
- Muskogee, two;
- Okfuskee, three;
- Okmulgee, five;
- Tukvptce, three; and
- Tulsa, five.

Absentee ballot request forms are expected to be mailed at the end of August. Other election year dates are:

- Sept. 18 through 20 — candidate filing period;
- Oct. 4 — absentee voter registration closes;
- Oct. 18 — primary election voter registration closes;
- Oct. 28 — primary election; and
- Dec. 2 — general election.

Second Chief Crow cites Head Start as model program

by Shelly Crow, second chief

I was very honored to be a speaker at the Head Start thirty-year celebration for all Indian tribes across the United States. This celebration was held July 25 through 27 in Tulsa.

When you are a leader, you should look at programs that are good models and support those that are working — not just from the budgetary point of view, but program point of view: is the program servicing our people.

However, there is a problem. The federal, state, and maybe tribal governments are going to be cutting these programs. We've got to look where the government's heart is. Is it for its people or is it to help economic development, self-satisfaction, etc.

In reviewing all programs within the Mvskoke (Creek) Nation, we focus in on the Head Start program. As I am asked to speak and serve on advisory boards for other programs within the Muscogee (Creek) Nation, I hope to find the same class of programs.

In viewing Head Start, it is probably one of the most successful programs for developing human resources because it includes children, parents, extended families, and communities. Our Head Start children are part of 144 tribal Head Start programs across the U.S. Fourteen percent of America's Head Start population resides in Oklahoma. Fifty-five percent of Head Start employees at the Muscogee Nation are parents who are the backbone of this program — giving of their time to assist in the structure of the program and making sure it operates correctly.

The employees and parents are dedicated because they are community oriented. They give hundreds of volunteer hours to the program for fund raisers to buy caps and gowns for graduations, field trips, etc. Head Start evolves around the philosophy of parent involvement to increase parenting skills and life skills, which Head Start has done as two-thirds of their staff are parents or have been parents of enrolled children.

More Creeks are employed in this department that serves Creek children as well as other tribal children and non-Indians. I never realized what an excellent program it is until I began participating on the health advisory board.

Parents design the program and have one hundred percent approval of the program. If you review other organizations where people are allowed to have a lot of input into the organization and program, it has been proven that more people will participate and stay involved. There is no better way to run all of our programs than to let the citizens we serve have more input in developing the needs and desires for their own families.

The Head Start program purpose is a holistic approach to developing a child and its family. With competent integration we have targeted the well-being of the child physically, mentally, socially, and developmentally. All of these components certainly create self-esteem within the child and parent.

Head Start is a community program. We must have input from those we serve. We must start modeling all of our programs based on the needs of the people instead of molding the people to provide services without the people's voice. Too often, we start the other way.

Letters to the editor

Citizen cites treaty obligations

Editor:

In 1821 chiefs, head men, and warriors of the Creek Nation, along with government representatives, agreed to the provisions in "The Treaty of Baxter Springs."

This agreement ceded five million acres of Indian land in Georgia for the sum of $450,000. A stipulation of the treaty set forth payments to the nation over a period of 14 years. The total amount paid over this period was $200,000. The remainder was reserved to pay depredation claims brought forth by the citizens of Georgia. Commissioners from Georgia were present at these negotiations and presented a bill for the entire $450,000.

President Monroe had the claims audited and there were no allowances for the counter claims. However, claims based on three fraudulent treaties were admitted. The hearings were held in the interior of Georgia whereas the Creeks had no opportunity to be present. After all claims had been allowed there was a considerable balance of the $250,000 left over. Furthermore, there was nothing said about returning the leftover amount to the Creeks and the excess remained in the United States treasury.

The information that I have relayed to the people is relevant and not just a history lesson. This information is found.

The documentation is factual and it seems that government is lagging behind in its obligations to the people of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation.

Citizen thanks volunteers

Editor:

I am writing this thank you letter for the following people: the grass cutters for maintaining the senior citizens lawn; and the meals on wheels program delivering meals to shut-ins and elders. The meals come in cold or hot weather. The young men mowing the grass are there being kind, caring, and helpful.

I want people to know these services are appreciated. Many thanks to the Muscogee Nation and to the ones that do the work every day.

Citizen disagrees with compact

Editor:

I was shocked recently to learn that our great Nation has backed down to the state of Oklahoma on the issue of charging state cigarette taxes at our tribal tobacco stores. My personal feeling on this is that charging this tax is a betrayal of our people by the chief and other leaders of our nation. I would like to know where the candidates for tribal office stand on this issue. I personally will not vote for any who aren't willing to fight to the death against this policy.

Citizen thanks staff

Editor:

I want to thank Kim Hicks and her staff on behalf of my sister, Patricia Jean Anderson and me. My sister is legally blind and she recently lost a lens from her glasses. After some delay by the Okemah vision clinic, Pat's prescription was obtained.

Pat's problem was presented to Elizabeth Shipley first. She explained the procedures to follow to resolve Pat's problem. An application was completed and, in a most expeditious manner, a voucher was issued. Pat was then able to receive new glasses within a minimal amount of time.

The new glasses have larger lenses which has increased Pat's peripheral vision and her mobility is greatly enhanced.

Thanks again to the community health representatives' staff in resolving Pat's problem.

Yahola announces bid for principal chief

WETUMKA — Muscogee National Council Speaker Thomas Yahola announced his intent to run for principal chief July 22.

"My candidacy is based on my concern for the future of our Muscogee Nation," Yahola said in a prepared release. "We are entering the 21st century and it is apparent if we do not unite as a Nation, we have no hope or expectation of entering into a new century with enthusiasm.

"Our enthusiasm should be based on trust and rapport. In completing my second term as representative, I have established positive rapport with the Council, the executive, and judicial branches."

Yahola said he would continue this established rapport and will work with the National Council in future endeavors. He contends these endeavors must produce jobs, education, health care, acquisition of lands for economic development, and other revenue resources for the nation as the U.S. government resources are diminishing.

"These endeavors can be achieved by promoting and protecting our sovereignty."

Yahola said he will rely on his business experience gained through his 30 years of employment with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Tulsa District. He was named employee of the year for the district in 1994.

"I have also demonstrated positive leadership qualities as chairman of the [tribal] citizenship board and serving as speaker of the National Council," Yahola said.

"My record as a representative will show that I supported and introduced legislation to the benefit of this Nation and its citizens."

Yahola served his first term as a Council representative from 1989 to 1991. He lost a bid for second chief in 1991 when an election violation resulted in a tribal court decision that disallowed absentee votes. He was elected to a second term as Tukvptce District representative in 1993.

"With my valuable business experience and leadership qualities, ingrained with traditional values of compassion, integrity, and most important, the knowledge and help of our Creator, and with support from the people, I can lead this nation into the 21st century with regained pride."

Fields announces second chief candidacy

WELEETKA — K.T. "Hutke" Fields, Alabama-Koasatie, announces his candidacy for second chief.

Fields is 43 years old and has a master's degree in social work administration and planning from The University of Oklahoma. He belongs to the Bird Clan and Arbeka Ceremonial Ground.

Fields' entire professional career entails service to youth and families. He has provided training and technical assistance to Indian tribes nation-wide in the area of social services over the last nine years. He has a total of 25 years experience developing, implementing, and administering social service programs.

He presently offers training to 228 tribal elderly nutrition programs, working for Three Feathers Associates — a non-profit Indian organization that has a cooperative agreement with the U.S. DHHS — Administration on Aging — Office for American Indian Alaska Native and Native Hawaiian Programs. Additionally, Fields serves the interests of Native Americans on state and national boards and task forces. He is the present chair of the Oklahoma Interagency Child Abuse Prevention Task Force and serves on the Advisory Board of the National Resource Center on Child Sexual Abuse.

Fields drafted the Muscogee (Creek) Nation Elder and Adult Protection Code and the Comprehensive Juvenile and Family Code while managing the Muscogee Nation Children and Family services administration, he said. Fields contends he carries an extensive working knowledge of: elderly issues; program development; supervision, and administration; training and technical assistance; community development; Indian child welfare; case investigation; documentation and management; and culture. He is a grant writer and has been successful in implementing many programs and services, according to a press release.

Fields said that he will make no campaign promises. He wishes to speak with, work with, and serve the citizens of the Muscogee Nation in all the areas of "well known concern." "Recognizing that the tribe[s] cannot depend on federal funding and bingo revenue to serve massive needs, Mr. Fields states his concern for tribal community and business development on our own terms," states his release. Fields contends he wants to discuss ideas and strategies.

In his pursuit of the office of the second chief, Fields offers to meet with anyone who wishes to voice concern or who has "do-able" ideas for the next administration. He states that the best qualified candidate is the one who will keep working directly with the people over the entire tenure of office. He may be contacted at: P.O. Box 6, Weleetka, OK 74880.

Former princess places in national essay

ENID — Janita Merritt Dosh, Enid, placed third in a national essay contest sponsored by Airwalk Footwear.

Airwalk Footwear's objective through its "Trust Your Judgement" essay contest was to seek out young people who, through their actions, feel they have proved that no dream was too extreme and weren't swayed by peer pressure or circumstances to seek opportunity and accomplishment.

Dosh described in her essay the most challenging and rewarding experience of her life. At age 17 she was crowned the 1989-90 Creek Nation princess.

Judging was based on relevance to contest theme, originality creativity, content and clarity of expression, and overall impact of the deed described.

She is the daughter of Ed and Janice Screechowl, Sapulpa.

Gratitude

Mere words could never express the gratitude that we feel. The Lord has surely blessed us with many, many friends to help us through a very difficult time in our lives. During Clint's illness and death you were there for us — whether it was a smile, a pat on the back, your kind words of encouragement, your shoulder to cry on, your donations, the flowers you sent, the food you brought, your phone calls, your visits, or the song services. There are so many things that we have to be thankful for, but it is because of your friendship and your support that we are able to cope with our loss.

As we all know that Clint was a very special person and he has left us many wonderful memories, he was very proud that we had so many friends to call or come by and see him while he was ill. I know that he would be just as proud that so many still call and come by to see how we are doing. Thank you so much for everything that you have done for us.

ries and legends of medicine men using the feathers of birds in bad ways to hurt others.

My customer didn't.

One day later, two of her associates saw the painting on her office wall. They began to tell her that it was a bad omen to have the picture in her office.

Though the painting was intended to be a birthday present for her mother, she wanted to return the work.

Because of the efforts of two people I don't even know, a birthday present was ruined and they desecrated an artist's work.

I portrayed this bluejay resting on a fence post with a vision of the bird in flight with beauty and vigor. I had no thought of plucking the bird's feathers to be used to hurt others.

I believe my customer has also seen the beauty of the painting and I hope she uses it as a present. It is a work of art and there is no evil related to it.

This does not discourage me in any way, for I have had too many friends, associates, customers, and most importantly, my family members encourage me. I was always taught by my mother and grandmother that God made good and it's people that make good evil.

Citizen wants unity in community

Editor:

One of our Muskogee District representatives said "what a mess" about the situation at the Muskogee Indian Community.

I have known Helen Chupco [Muskogee District National Council representative] since 1974. I have always kept to myself the facts about what she has said to me in the past and the language she has used.

When my daughter [Rita Tiger] ran for National Council [1992], she began a dirty campaign. Our representative should represent us but she is always going against our community, disrupting things with pettiness because she no longer can control the community.

She got my daughter to be the community chair and encouraged the other officers to run. After my daughter became chair, Chupco thought she could control her.

But the new officers didn't listen and now she wants my daughter out of office. I believe Chupco tries to intimidate others. I have witnessed her yelling at my daughter at a meeting and called her a dictator. At this particular meeting, my daughter was just trying to keep order.

I don't believe a concerned Council woman and a Christian should be disruptive in our community.

I like Helen Chupco as Helen Chupco. Some of the things she does, I don't like. She has instigated problems in the Muskogee Indian Community. The community cannot function properly because something disruptive is always coming up.

My father, Coleman Lewis, was a missionary. I was taught to live right. My daughter was taught to do things right and be honest. All of us Indians are supposed to be spiritual in our conscience. My father used to tell me though I cannot be perfect, I can try to be. He also said if you are trying to do right, obstacles will be placed in your path. I believe my daughter is trying to do right.

Traditionalists like my father used to teach me how to meet these things that come against me and to be firm and faithful — always be honest. When you need any help, be prayerful. That's what I tell Rita. I also tell her to respect the elderly.

We should all try to work together for the good of our community and people. Elderly should be the role models to our younger people and not be detrimental. Best wishes and God's blessing to other communities.

Lucinda Tiger, Muskogee

Citizen thanks volunteers

Editor:

I would like to thank everyone that took part in welcoming Sue John Sarkar and JoAnna Adams from New Jersey.

As the chair of the Hanna Indian Community, I want to thank each and every member of the community who contributed to the success of this event. Special thanks to Judith Pickering for involving the community youth in meeting these two special people.

Thanks also to Wanda Williamson and Martha Lowe for preparing the large dinner served to all (about 100 people attended) and to the members that brought a covered dish.

A big thanks to Tallahassee Tribal Ground for putting on a dance and getting the tribal members to perform on such short notice — some travelled a great distance to make sure it was a success.

There are so many people I need to mention and thank. To all of you who participated, I would like to say mvto on behalf of Hanna Indian Community and myself.

Board member responds to letter

Editor:

On behalf of the Tulsa Creek Indian Community Board of Directors, I would like to clarify some misconceptions in Okema Randall's previous letter [July, The MNN].

Paula Willits is a volunteer responsible for our newsletter. She has put together a professional format — which was lacking — and strives to inform our community about TCIC activities. She was the secretary of the board for two terms and did record minutes.

Community members were informed in April about a board of directors workshop — set-up for board members. Volunteers were requested to assist. Invitations were sent to the chartered communities. Those ceremonies on the traditional grounds and has built a stronger relationship with them.

Fife also said that through the work of tribal employees, the government has improved elderly services, roads and driveways, enhanced employee capability, encouraged leadership development, provided more career opportunities for women, and recognized citizens for achievement also.

Fife said as a nationally recognized tribal leader, he served on the Bureau of Indian Affairs reorganization task force that was created by a presidential mandate. Fife said he has continually spoke out for reorganization that would preserve rights of Indian citizens, benefit Indian families, and directly impact services to Indian tribes and local Indian communities.

Fife said he envisions implementing new economic development programs and new technologies, expanding health services, decentralizing services to all eight districts, and preserving and promoting Creek culture in the next four years. Fife said he is well-known for his defense of sovereignty and concern for human rights and will continue to "advocate a national policy participating were Muskogee, Duck Creek, Twin Hills, Kellyville, Okmulgee, and Weleetka. Although TCIC has been requested by Muskogee Nation to sponsor another workshop.

It is very easy to say our organization practices nepotism, conflict of interest, and irresponsible spending. It would be more difficult to prove, however.

The question of starting a community in Broken Arrow was due to the many Muskogee people who reside in Broken Arrow, but not in our boundaries.

Also, it is common knowledge that Jerry Wilson wrote the bill for the smokeshop and Randall was the sponsor. Without the support of everyone, it would not have passed.

We all enjoy spending the revenue from the smokeshop, as it provides emergency assistance and funding for [Festival] olympics, job searches, and elderly programs. These are just a few things we do with our revenue.

We have just purchased a 15-passenger van for transportation services, which Randall mentioned. Though it is not equipped with a wheel chair lift, it is the best we could find for our money. Revenue is not being spent frivolously.

We realize theft and embezzlement exists within our Muskogee Nation communities. This was one reason for the board of directors workshop. We must all endeavor to see that theft and embezzlement do not occur.

In reference to the case mentioned by Randall, it is in the hands of the attorney general. Assistant attorney general Ken Yates has indicated any concerned person with any questions or information may contact him at (918) 756-8700, ext. 301.

To provide more accountability to our community, we have contracted the accounting firm of Deloitte and Touche. By doing this and setting up a voucher system, we have in place "checks and balances" for our community.

I hope this has enlightened Randall and others. Randall's concerns and input are appreciated. Thank you for the opportunity to let everyone know TCIC is doing well. We encourage all members to participate in meetings and activities to learn first hand what TCIC is about.

that affects Creek citizens."

"A large number of supporters want me to continue the public agenda proposed in my first campaign, and I have decided to do so," Fife said. "This means involvement of Creek citizens in tribal government, new economic opportunities, better customer driven services, and building a national reputation as a progressive Indian nation."

A Vietnam War veteran and a lifelong resident of the Muskogee Nation, Fife lives a few miles from the community where he was raised. He attends Thlewarle Baptist Church and is the son of the late Jimmie and Carmen Fife.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Northeastern State University, Tahlequah. He and his wife, Mary, have two children and one grandchild.

Congressional cuts prompt Principal Chief Fife to declare tribal emergency

OKMULGEE — Principal Chief Bill Fife has declared a state of emergency as federal lawmakers attempt to dismantle the Bureau of Indian Affairs and reduce funding — as much as 45 percent — to funds allocated for self-governance tribes.

The impending budget battle has been a priority for Fife since August. In September he led a delegation to Washington, D.C. to meet with Congressional representatives and other tribal leaders who believe generally, the federal government is attempting to terminate tribal governments through appropriations.

"Historically the federal has a responsibility to uphold trust relationships between the tribes and the United States," Fife said. "Tribal leaders will continue to meet and send representatives to Washington, D.C. and we will do what is necessary to make our voices heard and continue the growth our tribes have evidenced in the past century. This is the message we want to send to the Congress and the President of the United States."

The impetus for the dramatic reversal has been attributed to Republican control of both the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives. Leaders of both houses have promised to reduce the federal deficit and balance the budget.

While that is usually considered campaign fodder, congressional leadership seems intent on delivering this promise.

The House and Senate submitted separate budgets with differing amounts for Indians. Though both budgets reflect decreases in spending, the House mark was much kinder than the Senate funding mark. Representatives and senators met in a conference committee to settle differences with the appropriations. Those meetings occurred in early September.

Before the House-Senate conference committee met, attempts to restore Department of the Interior funding were made by Sens. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) and Pete Domenici (D-N.M.) by amendment. It was defeated, leaving tribes little choice but to lobby the conference committee members directly.

Muscogee Nation position on federal funding reductions

Principal Chief presents position paper

OKMULGEE — Proposed legislation from the 104th Congress threatens the unique government-to-government relationship that the United States now enjoys with the Muskogee (Creek) Nation.

Our concerns are:

- accrued savings from the reduction in the Bureau of Indian Affairs work force are not being passed on to tribal governments;
- (Congressional acts are) potential violations of trust and fiduciary responsibilities as required by treaty and statutory obligations; and

Second Chief Crow discusses executive order

by Shelly Crow

Principal Chief Bill Fife rescinded the "role and mission" of the second chief and eliminated my office staff by an executive order issued Sept. 1.

The order was politically motivated — plain and simple. I announced my candidacy for principal chief and Fife issued his executive order.

I believe I have done a good job as your second chief. I have never received a reprimand nor have I ever received a letter telling me I was out-of-step with any provisions or our Constitution.

When I made an issue of the financial problems in our government and the seriousness of the pending federal budget cuts, Chief Fife became alarmed because I know what to do.

Fife did not support me in my bid for second chief in 1991, but I have always tried to work with him and at the same time maintain an honest open line of communication with our people.

I have written hundreds of memos to the chief about my views on the many different problems being experienced by the tribe — budget shortfalls, excessive travel, lack of accountability, employees double dipping into federal and tribal funds and the good ol' boy syndrome that is such a big part of this administration.

One thing I have made perfectly clear to Chief Fife and his cronies during this past year is that if he can not provide the leadership this tribe needs, then it is my sworn duty to step up to that task. I believe this is why he is attacking me.

The chief may not like me and he may even be afraid of me, but putting me out of sight is not going to make any of his problems or me go away.

The Creek voters elected me to office to serve them as their second chief. I believe it is wrong for Chief Fife to deny them access to their second chief.

I will continue to serve my people as best I can under the circumstances. I am not going to give up.

Mvto for your continued support. Together we can make a positive change for the future of our great Indian Nation.

Notice to our readers

Your September edition of The Muscogee Nation News is late this month because of the state of emergency declared by Principal Chief Bill Fife. This action is a result of the pending federal funding cuts. The department's resources were utilized to produce a newsletter about the federal appropriations process. If you did not receive one via the mail, contact the department at (918) 756-8700 to receive one. We regret the delay and will resume normal production schedules for the October election issue.

Citizen praises tribal festival

Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to the ones who were responsible for the Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo this year.

It was good to see Ken Factor, Muscogee Nation Executive Director, doing his share and more to make everyone feel welcome.

On behalf of the Native American Marrow Recruitment Project, I want to thank everyone who came forward to become a possible marrow donor.

May next year be more successful and rewarding for everyone who attends and participates in the Creek Nation Festival and Rodeo.

Citizen cites lack of professionalism

Editor:

At the July 29 Muscogee (Creek) National Council regular session, NCA 95-88 failed by a vote of 15-14 to oust gaming commissioner Rocky McIntosh from his present position.

With respect to why they voted as they did, it is apparent our representatives were confused about the issue.

Considering the facts that commissioner McIntosh was [allegedly] using abusive power for personal reasons, he was called before the National Council. All representatives have copies of letters addressed to individuals from commissioner McIntosh making specific requests that could not possibly be honored. This was the issue, not the domestic problems he has at home.

I am ashamed that Tulsa representatives Larry Bible and Earl King walked out of preagenda and regular sessions stating they wanted no part in this matter. As a constituent I had no vote from three representatives with Edwin Moore being absent also.

I feel very strongly about condoning this type of dictatorial attitude McIntosh has displayed.

A need for effective leadership in the Muscogee (Creek) Nation is critical at this point. An appeal for redress of grievances and community problems has been ignored. Chief Fife's reluctance to admit mistakes and correcting or solving them with appropriate action has been unsatisfactory. If the standards of the Nation are to be enhanced, our gaming commissioner should certainly not be above reproach. My observation indicates the administration and management showed a lack of professionalism in this instance.

The representatives are elected by the people of their districts and they are entrusted to represent the voters by being capable of recognizing matters for law enforcement.

Absentee voters, please remember this in October and vote accordingly.

Okema Randall, Broken Arrow

Editor's note: Randall is a former Tulsa District Rep. to the National Council.

Citizen wants priorities examined

Editor:

Many things in my short life have outraged me. What I recently heard about the treatment of our Muscogee youth that were en route to the North American Indigenous Games in Minnesota upsets me.

They were transported in a school bus for 14 hours with no air conditioning in the heat of the summer.

I ask, do our children not deserve the best? The next time a tribal employee or elected or appointed official decide to take a trip to a conference let them take the bus with no air conditioning. When they get there let them stay at a shelter or YMCA. Tribal revenue is for all citizens, not just agency loafers.

Where are our priorities? As an Indian nation our primary focus should be on the elderly and the youth. What has happened to our once great Nation? It seems our once strong, powerful foundation has turned to saltine crackers. Will all that our ancestors died for go in vain? Where are our great leaders? Who will redesign our government so that it will be a voice of all the people for the people?

It seems our once great Nation has patterned itself so much like mainstream society that our people have become numbers and service workers favorite phrases are 'insufficient funds' and 'you do not qualify.' Instead of looking for ways to help they hunt for loopholes that keep them from the aid people need.

The future of the Muscogee Nation should not rest

Muscogee Election '95

Harjo announces principal chief bid

OKMULGEE — Allen Harjo of Tulsa is a candidate for Muscogee Nation Principal Chief.

Harjo, a longtime political activist, is the current administrator of Thlopthlocco Tribal Town.

"I am prepared to provide the [Muscogee] tribe with new leadership with quality and experience," Harjo said in a prepared statement. "I am a full blood, speak the Creek language, and have the communication skills to better represent the Creeks within the tribe and within the state or on a national level."

Harjo, an accountant and former director of the Creek Nation Community Hospital, said the tribal Constitution provides for the principal chief to be responsible for the budget matters, but the tribe's present financial matters continue to be questionable.

"I am prepared to design a computerized accounting system that will provide the tribe with better management over its budget matters.

"Our present principal chief has been deficient in providing good, strong leadership in tribal administration, health administration, and our housing administration," Harjo said. "Our health administration [has been] diverted into a brother-in-law operation and became wasteful and unresponsive to the Creek needs. The quality of the health care needs improvement."

Harjo also cited other areas of concern.

"Our housing administration is so warped that the neediest remain unassisted while the favorites are assisted first," Harjo said. "Our principal chief has delegated authority to some wrong individuals and [has] failed to take corrective action.

"This diminishes the motivation with staff members resulting in program weakness. Our tribal support staff and employees do not receive the respect they deserve.

"Instead, just days be-

Childers joins second chief race

OKMULGEE — Long-time political activist Ken Childers has announced his candidacy for Muscogee Nation Second Chief.

Childers is chair of the Creek Nation Housing Authority Board of Commissioners.

"There is a need for experienced and diplomatic leadership to guide tribal government through what promises to be an uncertain and difficult next four years," Childers said. "The uncertainty lies in the direction the federal government is taking by eliminating programs and reducing funding to many others. It will become increasingly difficult to expand our programs and services in these times."

Childers said his priorities are to:

- improve the relationship between the tribal administration and the National Council;
- increase efforts for economic development in order to provide jobs;
- strive for greater tribal self-sufficiency and independence from the federal government;

• increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the delivery of services;

• maintain and strengthen the management system to ensure that all programs benefit as many citizens as possible; and

• emphasize education and job training so that tribe members can become more competitive in the job market.

"The office of second chief can have a tremendous impact on the quality of governmental operations," Childers said. "I vow to serve as the connecting force between the tribal administration and the National Council as well as communicate the needs of the citizenry directly to both branches of government.

Gray enters race for chief

OKMULGEE — Muscogee citizen Ralph Gray of Tulsa, has announced his candidacy for principal chief.

"My candidacy is based on the philosophy of providing responsible and strong leadership," Gray said. "I want to provide more citizens with the opportunity to a higher education and promote preservation of the Mvskoke culture."

Gray said he is of the Deer Clan and Tulsa Little River Tribal Town and an adopted member of Arbeka. He is the son of Robert Gray and Allene Criner and the grandson of the late Netche and Bertha Gray, formerly of Holdenville.

LaSarge announces candidacy for Muscogee Nation second chief OKMULGEE — Okmulgee resident Charley LaSarge has announced his candidacy for Muscogee Nation Second Chief.

LaSarge is the former manager of the tribe's commodity food distribution program. He resigned his position in August after 10 years.

During his tenure, LaSarge said he accomplished many of his short and long range planned goals and objectives and has been instrumental in addressing the nutritional concerns in behalf of the nation at the local and national levels.

LaSarge cited the design, development, and relocation of the food distribution program to a new facility on the tribal complex grounds as one of the highlights of his tenure.

"The program inventory records and such were all done manually when I began as a warehouse supervisor," LaSarge said. "Today, the program is fully automated and computerized to provide efficient, accurate record keeping and improved delivery of services to our citizens."

LaSarge also noted the development and implementation of a nutrition education program for participants that stressed a healthy and creative diet with a variety of foods distributed by the program.

"These kinds of programs are very beneficial to our participants," LaSarge said. "It is an example of how education can be used to improve the quality of life for people."

Professionally, LaSarge has served eight consecutive one-year terms as president of the Oklahoma-New Mexico Food Action Committee for Tribes, which includes membership from 19 tribal organizations. As president, LaSarge was instrumental in the development of policy, regulations, and design changes in the relationship between the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food and Consumer Service and tribal organizations.

Some of those changes are the new office of Native American Programs for the Southwest Region (to deal directly with the tribes), changing the definition of Indian households to provide for those that have minor Indian children, automated communication link up to the regional offices, and presented plan for a more efficient distribution agency for food delivery.

"I will continue to advocate for the redefinition of excluded service availability to urban populated areas."

LaSarge has also served as vice president of the National Association of Food Distribution Programs on Indian Reservations, which represents 106 tribal sponsored programs and presented oral and written testimony on behalf of Indian people to the federal government and was one of 15 selected to serve on the national advisory council that deals with programs like the Women's, Infants and Children (WIC), school lunch program, and eldfore Christmas (1994), they received political threats of termination simply because the administration does not have the resourcefulness to accomplish budget approval."

Other issues cited by Harjo include:

- communication problems between the three branches of government. Harjo said this breakdown has resulted in disrespect for the effectiveness and responsibility of each of the areas.

"As proof, a Council member, the second chief, and an assistant attorney general are all running for a [higher office]," Harjo said. "These same persons were elected and-or appointed to serve the Creek tribe. During this campaign, they cannot objectively address the duties of their [respective] positions. Meanwhile, we should be curious of their accomplishments.";

- poor representation and lack of a definitive position regarding the reorganization and downsizing of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"Voting tribal members and nonvoting tribal members alike, as well as future generations of Creeks, will be affected by the restructuring of the BIA," Harjo said. "The tribal organization will be affected by the programs, but the individual Creeks are being affected by the trust relations with the [federal] government."; and

- lack of leadership. "The principal chief needs to demonstrate leadership in the best interest of all Creeks as individuals in their communities, tribal activities, and to be more responsive to tribal youth and the elder. I am prepared to demonstrate leadership that I believe will be an honorable example."

Harjo has long had an interest in tribal affairs.

In 1976, Harjo sued the secretary of the interior. The case, known as Harjo vs. Kleppe, became the impetus for the tribal referendum on the constitution as well as elected direct representation to the National Council. Harjo opposed the 1979 Constitution. He first ran for principal chief in 1979.

cuts to Indian tribes and we knew these cuts were coming, however we have not taken advantage of existing financial resources to insure a sound financial future for this tribe," Gray said. "I want to initiate an economic development program that will increase our capital base and bring about new employment opportunities for our citizens."

Gray said he is also concerned that elderly citizens are being neglected and treated like second class citizens by their own tribal government.

"I will make sure our elderly citizens are provided with the services they need and deserve. The Creek elderly are the backbone of our tribe. They deserve respect and we need to take advantage of their guidance. We need a change. It is time for a change," Gray said. "Our people deserve better and I want our citizens to be proud of the Muscogee Nation. We have been experiencing conflict and a disappointment in our current leadership, both in the executive and the legislative branches of government." He is a former employee of the tribe's children and family services administration.

Childers

We must build bridges between the branches of government and the citizens so that we may all work together to confront the many tough issues that we as a people must face.

"I have the political experience and the broad knowledge of government that will allow me to work equally well with both the principal chief and the National Council. I am also able to deal effectively with, federal, state, and local governments on issues that impact our tribe."

Childers is a graduate of Coweta High School, Allied Institute of Chicago, and has attended the University of Oklahoma, Norman. He is a U.S. Navy veteran. Childers is employed with Coweta Public Schools as the Indian education program coordinator. The program received national recognition in 1989.

He served five terms as a National Council representative and four terms as speaker — most recently in 1990-91. Childers spent two years as co-chair of the gaming operations authority board and the last four years as housing authority chair.

Childers said bingo employees fringe benefits were increased and Muscogee citizens were named managers at the tribe's bingo halls. At the housing authority, Childers said more than $13 million in new housing erly nutrition.

"I have consistently advocated the need of food assistance programs and nutritional education," LaSarge said. "When I read the Republicans' Contract with America, I saw it would have a devastating impact on American Indians."

LaSarge said he coordinated area, regional, and national coalitions to address welfare reform in written position papers.

"Those papers are now being utilized by tribal governments across the nation," LaSarge said. "I delivered papers to all of the Oklahoma and New Mexico congressional delegations, the members of the House appropriations committee, and the Senate committee on Indian affairs."

LaSarge said he continues to advocate for the programs and that the experience has been beneficial.

"The experience I've gained will be beneficial to the Muscogee Nation," LaSarge said. "I have demonstrated that I am a candidate who is dependable, trustworthy, and proven effective leadership."

"Only through strong leadership and dedication can we begin to make a difference in the lives of our people. Economic development must be continually sought and sound proposals developed to provide a resource for employment and support for our people. Our people have a right to work and it's my belief that tribal government should be about creating jobs for those who need to work."

"In the coming months, federal and other subsidized programs will become increasingly dependent on tribal funding if they are continued at all. Now is the time to plan for future needs."

LaSarge is from Okmulgee where he resides with his wife Della. He has four children. He is the son of Lucy McIntosh LaSarge and the grandson of the late Newman McIntosh.

ing development money was awarded to the tribe as well as more than $25 million to modernize older homes.

He ran for second chief in 1983 and finished third in the 1991 principal chief race.

Childers is the son of Mose and Violet Williams Freeman Childers. He is a member of the Potato Clan and Locapoka Tribal Town.

Gratitude

I would like to thank Harley Little and the Muscogee Nation Social Services Department, Tulsa District Representatives Larry Bible and Irene Cleghorn for their support after the loss of my son, Harold Clark. Rep. Bible has always been there for all of his people. He is a very special person to all of us. I also appreciate the Creek Nation Housing Authority and Sharon Childers, who is a very special lady.

Pat Clark

The family of Henry Tarpalechee would like to thank the many people who brought food, sent flowers, called, said prayers and words of encouragement during the loss of our father, grandfather, and brother. A special thank you to Revs. George Miller and Jimmy Alexander and the members of Concharty and Big Cussetah United Methodist churches.

Henry Tarpalechee Family

A special thank you for everyone who donated food, money and those who sent cards and flowers. A special thank you goes to Revs. George Doyle, Bill Alexander, and Jimmy Alexander also. Also, thanks to Jeanetta Harjo Pickering. Words could never express all the love and support we received from our family and friends. Most of all, we appreciate the understanding of our sorrow of losing a most beloved husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, brother, and friend. Mvto.

in the hands of a few incompetent people, but all should have a say in all tribal affairs. If you are not working for the people then get out of the way. Maybe it is time for some energetic people who will stand their ground and fight for the people, our treaty rights, our elderly, and our youth.

The Muscogee people are noted for being great warriors, orators, statesmen, diplomats, and business-minded, aggressive supporters of the people. We seem to have gone away from that, but it is time to go back.

I am proud to be a member of the Muscogee Nation; it is my elders and ancestors before them that make me proud. It's the beautiful songs and dances of our people. It is the spiritual insight that makes us who we are. It is our love of life and our remarkable resiliency also.

I know there are some who are working hard for change and want to see something good happen for the people. I commend your efforts.

Community members rebut letter

Editor:

This is in response to the letter published in the August issue of The Muscogee Nation News — a malicious effort to attack the character of Helen Chupco.

A majority of the Muscogee (Creek) Indian Community support the efforts of Chupco. Some of us have come to know her on a personal basis and we respect her for her openness and we know she cares about the people whom she represents. She has a vast knowledge of the tribal constitution and also the community charter and abides by both.

Sure she is outspoken, but we want this kind of person representing us when a very serious issue is to be pondered and voted on during Council meetings. Wouldn't you want your Council person to vote according to their conscience because this is going to affect a lot of people? We do.

As community members we want it known that Chupco isn't being disruptive and creating problems at Muscogee Indian community. At meetings she gives her report on the National Council then offers advice or information on subjects that she feels the community needs to know before decisions are made pertaining to the community's future.

We are not going to get into a mud slinging match with other community members. All we mean to do is let readers know that we do not agree with what was written previously about Chupco and hope you do not believe what you have read.

Cletus Wilson, Muskogee

Editor's note: This letter was signed by 36 other community members.

Citizen thanks officials for help

Editor:

On behalf of my family and myself I want to acknowledge and thank the following elected officials for their compassion and support during a recent troublesome situation my family in Eufaula was experiencing.

They are: Second Chief Shelly Crow; and McIntosh District Representatives Wilbur Gouge, Yahola Townsend, Tommy Pickering, Sandy McIntosh, and Thomas McIntosh.

I am very proud and appreciative of the way these individuals took the time to come together to stand up for the rights of our citizens involved in this matter. Unity, as such, should be extended throughout the Muscogee Nation.

Council representative apologizes

Other tribal leaders attending included: National Council Speaker Thomas Yahola; Tulsa District representative Perry Beaver; Creek District rep. Earl Wheeler; tribal attorney general Marcella Giles; and others.

Sen. Slade Gorton (R-Wash.) chairs the subcommittee on Interior appropriations. Gorton has long worked to reduce and restrict the rights of tribes — a taste he acquired as Washington state attorney general. He has lost earlier battles with the Lummi and Pullayup tribes regarding fishing and water rights and now finds himself as chair of the interior appropriations committee with an opportunity for settling old scores.

Gorton wrote in the The Washington Post the ability of tribes to govern themselves is not determined by the amount of money they are given.

"Of all the criticism lobbed against this bill, the one that troubles me the most is the argument that reductions in spending will undercut the tribes' right of self-sufficiency and self-governance. To the contrary, some would argue that self-governance and self-determination ought to involve a degree of self-sufficiency and self-reliance."

ciency and self-reliance."

Giles said tribal leaders demonstrated the impact the cuts would have to all who would listen in Washington D.C.

"I want our people to realize how serious this issue is," Giles said. "The facts do not support Gorton's claim that tribes are cut only eight percent in total Indian funding. Other Indian programs outside the BIA would need to be increased by 37 percent. Instead, most have been cut dramatically."

Unknown is the impact cuts in other areas will have on the tribe. The Muscogee Nation receives federal funding from a variety of sources — the department of labor, housing and urban development, education, department of agriculture, and department of health and human services.

"Historically and presently, the federal government has a responsibility to uphold the trust relationship it has with each tribe, specifically the provision of funds to provide quality services to Indian peoples," Fife said.

"Tribes will continue sending representatives to Washington, D.C. to educate our Congress on Indian issues, to guard against termination, and to fight for restoration of budgets. We will do what is necessary to make our voices heard by those in a position to help us continue our governmental functions."

Tribe takes another shot; positions against move to tax gaming operations

WASHINGTON D.C. — The U.S. House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee has approved legislation that imposes a tax on tribal gaming operations.

The Muscogee Nation's position is as follows:

The Muscogee (Creek) Nation vehemently opposes the taxation of revenues raised by our tribal enterprises which includes our class two gaming operations. These revenues are fully utilized by the Muscogee Nation to provide governmental services and are fully business-related. It has been publicly stated in many forums that an overwhelming majority of the committee members oppose any new taxes. To single out Indian nations as the only entity for federal taxation is a disparate treatment and unconstitutional. We view this action as racist and a blatant first step towards ethnic genocide.

Congress has asserted that tribes can afford to take devastating budget cuts because we have gaming revenues. Yet income derived from gaming is being attacked by the House ways and means committee tax bill. The proposed tax violates the stated principal goal of federal Indian policy which is to promote tribal economic development, tribal self-sufficiency, and strong tribal governments. The proposed tax violates the trust responsibility of the U.S. government as it appears to place the trustee in the position of taxing the beneficiary. Anti-Indian factions in Congress cannot have it both ways.

Attempting to tax Indian tribes would be unprecedented in the history of this country. The authority of a tribe to tax and regulate its own activities is a right guaranteed under the Constitution. This is a double attack against tribal sovereignty as it goes directly to the heart of our efforts to create tribal economic self-sufficiency in every tribe of the country. The tax bill is the unconscionable. Sovereigns do not tax sovereigns. This proposed tax is contrary to 225 years of federal Indian policy. It is an unreasonable and radical departure from the norm.

We strongly urge the Senate finance committee to reconsider House actions.

Tribal position paper presented to Congress

• (proposed reductions will yield) disproportionate budget reductions to Indian programs.

A moratorium on reorganization by the BIA has been declared but continues under a budget-driven reduction of full-time employees. The reorganization of the BIA was announced by Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt and Vice President Al Gore. The savings accrued through reorganization was to be passed on to the tribes.

The paper also notes that U.S. President Bill Clinton issued an executive memorandum — mandating tribal consultation — that was ignored.

Trust responsibility has been declared by Congress to include the protection of the sovereignty of each tribal government. The Muscogee Nation has entered into eight specific treaties with the U.S. The tribe has also identified statutes, executive orders, federal acts, and U.S. Supreme Court decisions that affirm the Nation's sovereignty and establishes the federal government's fiduciary responsibility for the tribe.

The proposed legislation disproportionately applies budget reductions to Indian programs. This is most evident in the reduction in the tribal priority allocations (TPA) which will result in a 37 percent cut to tribal governments. Despite assurances of treaty-based funding, reduction in TPA will result negatively.

The Muscogee Nation stands to lose millions of dollars that provide for programs that address social and economic needs. Programs will be discontinued, unemployment will increase, states will see fewer dollars invested in their communities, and individual citizens will no longer have access to needed services. Further, cuts to education programs such as summer youth employment and the Job Training Partnership Act will deny opportunities to thousands of tribal youth.

Since 1819, Congress has upheld the original treaty contracts to "provide against the further decline and extinction of Indian tribes."

Welfare reform legislation infringes on tribal sovereignty by disallowing direct funding to Indian tribes for social welfare programs. The flexibility afforded to states to develop welfare programs is not afforded to tribal governments. The Muscogee Nation advocates direct funding to Indian tribes in any welfare reform legislation.

The way the Muscogee Nation conducts its affairs is about to change dramatically. As a result of federal budget cuts — both real and proposed — tribal program managers have been told to reduce program spending by 37 percent. The tribal communications department, including The Muscogee Nation News, is funded through self-governance and the indirect cost pool. Both will be affected by budget cuts. Should the 37 percent be realized, the tribal monthly will be affected. Other programs will also be affected. Make your voice heard regarding the prioritizing of tribal programs and services. Contact the office of the principal chief at (918) 756-8700, ext. 200, and the National Council at (918) 758-1416.

Muscogee Election '95 Muscogee voters take to polls

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation voters will take to the polls Oct. 28 to begin shaping the tribe's future for the next four years when ballots are cast in the primary election.

Seven candidates are challenging Principal Chief Bill Fife in his bid for reelection. Five candidates are seeking the second chief position which is being vacated by Second Chief Shelly Crow, who is a candidate for chief.

Sixty-four others are seeking 26 seats on the National Council. The Council had its membership reduced from 36 as a result of the referendum passed earlier this year.

Candidates for chief are: Fife of Weleetka; Crow of Berryhill; Perry Beaver, Jenks; Clarence Cloud, Bristow; Sherryl Gonseth, Preston; Ralph Gray, Tulsa; Allen Harjo, Tulsa; and Thomas Yahola, Wetumka.

Candidates for second chief are: George Almerigi, Wilson; Perry Anderson, Eufaula; Kenneth Childers, Bixby; K. T. Fields, Weleetka; and Charley LaSarge, Okmulgee.

Complete profiles of the candidates for elected tribal offices begins on page four.

The following question will also be decided by voters:

Shall the proposed amendment be approved? Article VI, section 2(b) of the Constitution of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation be amended to read: "Each representative shall be a legal resident of his-her district for one full calendar year, prior to filing for office and shall be required to be an actual full-time resident within that district for the term of office. When the representative ceases to be an actual resident of the district they disqualify themselves as a representative of that district."

Council Oak Ceremony scheduled Spirit of ceremony rekindled

TULSA — A commemorative ceremony in honor of the Locvpoka people will begin at 11 a.m., Oct. 29 at Council Oak Park, 18th Street and South Cheyenne Avenue.

The ceremony commemorates the area first settled by the Loca Apokv, a branch of the Tulsa tribal group, after their removal from Alabama.

The event, last held in 1992, is being coordinated by Tulsa Mvskokvlke Community (formerly Tulsa Creek Indian Community).

Activities following the ceremony — a dinner of traditional foods, stomp dancing, and stickball games will be held at Veterans Park, 21st Street and Boulder Avenue, until 4 p.m.

Those attending are encouraged to wear traditional dress as well as bring lawn chairs — seating is limited

Citizen concerned about The MNN

Editor:

The "Notice to readers" block in the August '95 issue did not go unnoticed. Your "understaffed and lack funding" explanation should be of much concern to thousands of satisfied readers who think your newspaper expertise is second to none.

Hopefully, the National Council and Principal Chief Bill Fife will remedy this lack of funding and allow you to maintain your high quality publication.

We satisfied readers and supporters are appreciative of how you can have so much good information in such a few sheets. Maybe this letter to the editor will alert enough of our Creek citizens that we can somehow get some financial relief for you before it is too late. I happen to know that we can't afford to lose such a talented staff.

We continue to say — keep up the good work. Your readers appreciate you.

Citizen appreciates Okmulgee Clinic

Editor:

This letter is to let you know how I feel about the Okmulgee Clinic that opened recently — my thanks to the ones responsible for the clinic.

I had been going to the Sapulpa Clinic and decided to transfer because of having to drive in bad weather in the winter. Thank the Lord for leading me to this decision. Dr. David Rico saved my life by finding that I have congestive heart failure.

I can never find enough words to describe how indebted I am to Dr. Rico and the little blond nurse [Public Health Nurse Terri McElyea] who is kind and gentle to old-timers like me.

I highly commend them for any award or thanks due them for such good, faithful service.

Thank you.

Council rep dislikes delay

Editor:

My fellow Creek citizens and tribal officials: we have many problems and I would like to address one in particular. This problem concerns and affects us all. Corruption, greed, dishonesty, and fraud exists and is alive in many parts of our nation.

The National Council is a body of law makers with no power to enforce. Enforcement is delegated to other tribal agencies. As we write and pass laws that affect and protect our people, regardless of how good they are, they are useless if they are not enforced. We continue to fund communities after money, records, and merchandise is funneled to benefit a few illegally. Records disappear, community property such as cigarettes, bookkeeping records, and anything of value is not accounted for. Since 1992, several hundred thousand dollars has disappeared and no one has been prosecuted for community crimes.

The attorney general's office has been notified along with lighthouse and the principal chief's office many times of this abuse but we are still waiting for action.

This month a community was given $38,000 to reopen their center because everything had disappeared including records. They contacted the above offices and received no help. I personally authored a bill that was passed in 1992 to cover these situations and demanded prosecution within the full extent of the law. Another law that has not been enforced. All this money could and should be used for our programs to benefit all people. What do we have to do as a tribe to punish those who disobey our laws?

I urge all concerned citizens to rise up and demand accountability. These people who are lawbreakers are not the young people. They are moms and dads, aunts, uncles, and grandparents. Have we come so far in the last few generations to lose the honor, respect, and credibility that our forefathers and our ancestors possessed? The examples being set are having a profound effect on tomorrow's leaders — our children. I urge you to call or write your elected officials and state your opinion of today's situation. Let's bring honesty and true values back to our once proud Muscogee people.

I realize that I may get repercussions from many places for this open letter, but I work closely with the average citizens and they want someone to assure them that their voices are heard and not forgotten.

This does not reflect on all communities because some are doing an excellent job providing economic development and people oriented programs. To them, a pat on the back.

A.D. Ellis, Twin Hills

Editor's note: Ellis will begin his third term as an Okmulgee District representative. He was unopposed in this year's election.

Muscogee Nation Attorney General Marcella Giles responds.

The department of justice has had only one inquiry that related to IRS income withholding tax questions. Neither the department nor lighthouse administration has received reports on crimes to be investigated.

The department does not have a backlog of cases or issues to be handled. Some of the cases may be in court but the majority of the cases are issues to be handled administratively. Our hope is to increase staff positions (now restrained by budget concerns) to accommodate legal services now expected by the nation.

Chief candidates

Name: Robert Perry Beaver
Age: 56
Residence: Jenks
Family: spouse, Mariam; four children
Parents: the late John and Della Fox Beaver; paternal grandparents, Harry and Miley Alexander; maternal grandparents, Willie and Cora Alexander Fox
Clan: Deer

Church: Big Cussetah United Methodist Church

Tribal town: Weogufkee

Political, professional experience:

bachelor's degree, University of Central Oklahoma; master's degree, Northeastern State University; six yrs., Muscogee Nation Second Chief; two terms, National Council representative; current chair, Council business and governmental operations committee; Oklahoma Coaches Hall of Fame; three time winner, Coach of the Year; retired educator; former director, Indian education, Jenks

Reason for seeking office: The Creek Nation must take a positive approach in preparing for the 21st century. I believe, all branches of the Creek Nation government must unite so maximum benefits can be brought to the Creek people. Areas of concern that I'll be concentrating on are: education; health; sovereignty; preservation of traditions and culture; and economic development.

Education is the key in preparing for the 21st century. I will expand the education services, therefore making education opportunities readily accessible for our Creek citizens. We must continue forging the tools of our tribal members to use in attaining an education or a marketable skill. The fight for sovereignty must continue in an organized and united effort from all branches of Creek government.

Name: Clarence Cloud
Age: 75
Residence: Bristow
Political, professional experience: former Muscogee Nation Supreme Court justice; former tribal housing authority board member; former Speaker, National Council; former National Council district representative; chair, Muskogee Indian Credit Association; chair, Creek Nation 4-H Club; vice chair, Creek Nation Rodeo Club; retired electrician; past president and executive board member, IBEW Local 584

Reason for seeking office: Experience can and will make the difference. I'm young enough to do the job and old enough to know how.

Muscogee Election '95 ✓Name: Shelly Stubbs CrowAge: 47Residence: BerryhillFamily: husband, John; daughter, Leslie; son, the late John Crow IVParents: Doretha Beaver Stubbs Vincent and the late Everett Stubbs; maternal grandparents, the late Joe and Gretchen BeaverClan: RaccoonChurch: BaptistTribal town: TukvptcePolitical, professional experience: current Second Chief, Muscogee Nation; former chair, tribal health systems board; nursing instructor, Tulsa University; twenty-plus years registered nurse; member, Indian Health Service Oklahoma Area Health Board and the Claremore Service Unit Health Advisory Board; bachelor's degree, Northeastern State University; master's degree, University of Oklahoma, both in nursingReason for seeking office: My strong belief in the importance of a shared vision, a common purpose, and the need to restore leadership to the Nation. I feel it is important for our culture and traditions to serve as the foundation for all of our tribal programs. My goal as your principal chief is to restore unity and provide effective, culturally-sensitive leadership to our tribal government and programs.

I will see to it that care and compassion are returned to the Creek Nation Health Care System as well as other tribal programs. I also see the need for nursing homes in our various communities to care for our elderly. I plan to establish a department of aging to specifically to assess and meet the needs of this precious resource.

Educational and vocational training programs must be refocused to recognize the real needs in the workplace. Preparing people for jobs that do not exist with skills that are not needed is not progress but a formula for failure.

Our communities must be given the opportunity to take the lead in economic development. The tribe's record in business ventures is dismal and has proven to be a poor strategy. The health system is again in poor condition. Early in Fife's administration, responsibility for the system was returned to the Chief at his request. This did not work and the National Council then placed responsibility with Ed Mouss, Fife's brother-in-law. Unfortunately, Mouss had no previous experience in the financial and operational management of a health care system and the health system has suffered as a result.

As Principal Chief, I will propose to the Council that oversight of the health system be returned to an independent board that is community-oriented and in-tune with people's needs. The key to having a successful health system is to isolate the system from tribal politics. Personal greed and the desire for political gain have no place in tribal government or in the operation of a caring and compassionate health care system.

Name: Bill S. FifeAge: 53Residence: WeleetkaFamily: wife, Mary; son, Jeff; daughter, Cinda Reeves; one grandsonParents: the late James and Carmen Griffin FifeClan: RaccoonChurch: Thlewarle Baptist ChurchTribal Town: TukvptcePolitical, professional experience: four yrs., Principal Chief, Muscogee Nation; U.S. Army Vietnam veteran; 10 yrs., tribal management; three yrs., National Council representative; Presidential Task Force to reorganize BIA; vice-chair, United Indian Nations of Oklahoma, Kansas, and Texas; chair, Bacone Board of Trustees; vice-president, Five Tribes Intertribal CouncilReason for seeking office: I want to implement new economic development programs relating to new technology, expand health services, decentralize services to all eight districts, and preserve and promote Creek culture. In addition, I will continue to defend our tribal sovereignty and protect human rights. I intend to advocate national policy that affects Creek citizens. I will also upgrade facilities and expand our land base. I will also promote youth leadership and more services for the elderly. As Principal Chief I want to offer you a continuum of progress for the next four years.

This administration has significantly accomplished an expansion of services in all areas of housing, education, health, and community development.

Among my accomplishments:

- the tribe has received housing grants in excess of $20 million for the rehabilitation of mutual help homes;
- assisted more than 1,000 Muscogee students with financial assistance for higher education through tribal scholarships and another 10,000 students in public schools as well as individuals participating in the adult education programs for general equivalency diploma services or vocational training.

- the health administration opened a new facility. The tribe also operates an elderly nutrition program, a community health service representative program and a new women, infants, and children (WIC) program.

- the tribe completed construction of the center for human development and was successful in getting funds for a community service center and four local community centers.

A large number of supporters want me to continue the public agenda proposed in my first campaign. This means involvement of Creek citizens in tribal government, new economic opportunities, better customer driven services, and building a national reputation as a progressive Indian nation.

Name: Sherryl Hardin GonsethAge:*Residence: PrestonFamily: husband, Clarence; daughter, Carla Grammer; son, Eric.Parents: Gerald and Carmelita Hardin;grandmother, MaryDeer Hardin*Clan: WindTribal Town:*Nuyaka*Experience: Creek Nation Head Start program director; president, Oklahoma Indian Head Start Director's Association; president, Preston JOM Parent Committee; associate's degree in child development; serves on federal monitoring team for administrative audits

Reason for seeking office: As Head Start director for nine years, I have seen and worked under two administrations and, being committed to serve our families, I have made some adversaries. I have always and will continue to stand up for the rights of our families.

We must stop fighting over power and authority and take responsibility for our actions. We must remember power has always belonged to the people.

I want to develop networking within the communities to provide for: client centered programs; home health care for the elderly; youth individual and group and family counseling services; and educational programs that fit people's needs.

Through networking, we will have community development, rather than ill-advised decision making. The current method of decision making has resulted in ineffective use of resources and failure to take advantages of opportunities by not having the input of our people. We must use our resources and gear ourselves toward the identified needs and remember resources don't develop themselves, they must have a purpose for existing. We can stop the confusion and inability to make decisions. We must have better internal control and accountability. We must streamline the administration and stop the endless paper trail. We can bring viable leadership to the tribe.

I believe that a goal without a deadline is only a wish. You now have a chance to vote for affirmative action, a chance to restore integrity to our leadership, and a chance to improve the future of our children and their children.

Muscogee Election '95 ✓Name: Ralph GrayAge: 42Residence: TulsaFamily: single parent; five childrenParents: Robert Gray and Allene CrinerClan: DeerChurch: Opportunity Heights Baptist ChurchTribal Town: Tulsa Little River, adopted member, ArbekaPolitical, professional experience: lead supervisor, Dover Corp.; lead supervisor, Upco Inc.; child care warrantor, Muscogee NationReason for seeking office: I decided to seek office to offer the citizens of the tribe a different leadership style and to explore business opportunities that might bring new revenue into the Muscogee Nation. Additionally, I want to develop programs for the youth, encourage more tribal citizens to pursue higher education opportunities, and look for ways to generate educational programs for Creek communities. Also, I want to promote the preservation of the Creek culture and promote pride in our tribe. I also want to bring a common sense approach to managing the resources of the tribe. We need to make people the priority and budget resources according to their needs. The purpose of tribal government is to serve the people and we need to make sure that all government entities of the tribe are responsive to the needs of our citizens.Name: Allen HarjoAge: 60Residence: TulsaPolitical, professional experience: accountant; former administrator, Creek Nation Community Hospital; current administrator, Thlopthlocco Tribal Town; fluent Mvskoke speakerReason for seeking office: I am prepared to provide the tribe with new leadership with quality and experience. I am prepared to design a computerized accounting system that will provide the tribe with a better management over its budget matters. The present chief has been deficient in providing good, strong leadership in tribal administration, health administration, and our housing.

The health administration has been diverted into a brother-in-law operation and is wasteful and unresponsive to Creek needs.

Our housing administration is so warped that the neediest remain unassisted while the favorites are assisted first. The chief delegated the authority to some wrong individuals and has failed to take corrective action. Our tribal support staff and employees do not receive the respect they deserve.

There has been poor representation and lack of a definitive position regarding the reorganization and downsizing of the BIA. Tribal members as well as future generations of Creeks will be affected by the restructuring of the BIA. The individual Creeks are being affected by the trust relations with the federal government.

The Principal Chief needs to demonstrate leadership in the best interest of all Creeks as individuals in their communities, tribal activities, and to be more responsive to tribal youth and the elder. I am prepared to demonstrate leadership that I believe will be an honorable example.

Name: Thomas YaholaAge: 56Residence: WetumkaFamily: Phyllis; eight childrenParents: the late Lyman and Bertha YaholaClan: DeerChurch: Montesoma Baptist ChurchTribal Town: TallahasseePolitical, professional experience: Speaker, National Council; two term, National Council representative; former chair, tribal citizenship board; 1994 Army Corps of Engineers employee of the year; commander's award, civil service; U.S. Army veteran; bachelor's degree retired civil service; fluent in CreekReason for seeking office: My desire is to serve you and our nation with integrity and with positive endeavors. I will work closely with others to promote self-efficiency and restore pride through a commitment of service and hard work.

I will return to accountability in my administration. My work as Chief will be an open book for all to read. I will treat all citizens — even those who disagree with me — with respect as the citizens of this tribe are the very reason the government exists.

I also want to develop and accomplish the following: acquire more land and expand our base; promote high tech training opportunities for veterans and the unskilled; establish a home for our elders to spend their remaining years among us and without fear; evaluate all programs — improve some and eliminate others; include tribal employees when forming policies and salary ranges; and develop programs for youth and elders.

With my business experience, education, and leadership abilities all ingrained with traditional Mvskoke values — compassion, honesty, wisdom — and with the help of our Creator, we can take this nation into the 21st century with renewed pride and spirit.

Muscogee Election '95

Second Chief candidates

Name: George Almerigi
Age: 61
Residence: Wilson
Political, professional experience: attorney, Muscogee Nation; three-time National Council representative; past president, Wilson Indian Community; payroll supervisor; manager, programmer analyst and MIS; Korean War veteran; U.S. Air Force veteran; current assistant attorney general, Muscogee Nation Reason for seeking office: I am the best qualified candidate based on my experience in tribal government and private industry as well as my education and training as a lawyer. I believe my age, experience, and concern for the Muscogee people and my desire to shape a better government for the nation, make me the best qualified candidate. I will assist the principal chief by promoting unity, carrying out special projects as requested; serving as a liaison to the Council and other organizations, and provide advice and counsel on operations of the administration and policy formation

Name: Perry Anderson
Age: 62
Residence: Eufaula
Family: wife Ina; daughter Sheril; sons, Greg and Bruce; four grandchildren
Parents: Mr. and Mrs. Perry D. Anderson
Clan: Raccoon
Church: Baptist
Tribal town: Thlopthlocco
Political, professional experience: none
Reason for seeking office: I would work with the entire Muscogee (Creek) Nation and be in communication with all communities, churches, and ceremonial grounds. I would work to bring a unified government by promoting cooperation with all three branches of government. I would provide leadership, be accountable to all citizens and listen to problems and concerns and respond by assisting or directing them to the offices of responsibility. I feel confident I can be of great service to all tribal citizens and if elected I will carry out the duties in accordance with the Muscogee Nation constitution.

Name: Kenneth Childers
Age: 55
Residence: Bixby
Family: wife, Billie; children
Parents: Mose Childers and Violet Williams Freeman Childers
Clan: Sweet potato
Tribal town: Locvpoka
Political, professional experience: veteran, U.S. Navy; Indian education director, Coweta Public Schools; current chair, Creek Nation Housing Authority Board; former five-term National Council representative; former four-term Speaker; former cochair, gaming operations authority board
Reason for seeking office: I am seeking election to the office based on my extensive experience in tribal affairs and my sincere concern for the nation and people. I know that I can make a valuable contribution if elected to this office. I served ten years on the Council — eight as Speaker and two as Second Speaker. During that time I missed only one regular Council meeting. I served two and one-half years as cochair of the gaming board and four years as chair of the housing authority board. I am a Vietnam veteran and have been employed with Coweta Public Schools for 19 years. I believe turbulent times lie ahead and the tribe will need experienced and dedicated leaders to guide our nation. I have always believed in equality and opportunity for all Creek citizens. I offer strong, positive leadership that will bring unity to our government and our people.

Name: K.T. "Hutke" Fields
Age: 43
Residence: Weleetka
Clan: Bird
Tribal Town: Arbeka
Political, professional experience: master's degree, social work and planning, University of Oklahoma; provided training and technical assistance to Indian tribes regarding social work; offer training to 228 tribal elderly nutrition programs; Three Feathers Associates; chair, Oklahoma Inter-agency Child Abuse Prevention Task Force; member, advisory board, National Resource Center on Child Sexual Abuse; former manager, children and family services
Reason for seeking office: I want to speak, work with, and serve the citizens of the Muscogee Nation in all areas of well known concern. I will meet with anyone who wished to voice concern or whom-ever has workable ideas for the next administration. I am the best qualified candidate and will keep working directly with the people throughout my tenure in office.

Name: Charley LaSarge
Age: 42
Residence: Okmulgee
Family: wife, Della; four children;
Parents: Burban Jerome and Lucy Marie McIntosh LaSarge
Church: Okmulgee Indian Baptist Church
Tribal town: Tulsa Canadian Political, professional experience: 10 yrs., manager, food distribution program; president, Oklahoma-New Mexico Food Action Committee for tribes; member, Office of Native American Programs Regional Advisory Council; national advisory council for Indian food distribution; first vice-president, National Association of Food Distribution Programs on Indian Reservations Reason for seeking office: I have enjoyed working for and with the Creek Nation the past 10 years. I have a concern for the direction the nation will need to pursue in the future. I feel confident that I possess the experience, knowledge, and ability to benefit the nation. Health, youth involvement, elderly programs, education, and economic development are areas I have targeted for enhancement and tribal driven strategies. I will maintain and strive for good working relationships with all branches of our tribal government, staff, ceremonial grounds, churches, community centers, and citizens. I will very much appreciate your support.

Muscogee Election '95

Creek District Seat A
Name: Soloman Hill
Age: 35
Residence: Bristow
Family: wife, Sharon; children, Beverly, Sabrina, Sarah, Tamara, Jessica, Melinda, Heidi, and Cody Parents: Jo Ann Hill
Clan: Beaver
Church: Gypsy Baptist Church
Tribal Town: New Tulsa

Experience: Indian education committee; vice chair, JOM, Title V-C; former chairman, JOM and Title V-C Reason for seeking office: To serve the Muscogee Indians and communities of the Creek District. I will support any proposed bill concerning the health and welfare of our citizens. Our youth and elderly Indians are my top priority. If elected I will do my very best.

Creek District Seat B
Name: Duke Harjo
Age: 53
Residence: Sapulpa
Family: wife, Sue Moore Harjo; son, Jim B. of Glenpool; daughter, Laura Harjo of Lawrence, Kan.; five granddaughters Parents: the late Jim Busey Harjo Sr. and the late Lena Wind Harjo
Clan: Bear

Church: High Spring Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Alabama-Quarsarte
Experience: chair, five yrs., Alabama-Quarsarte Tribal Town Governing Committee; three and one-half yrs., tribal town chief; two-year Creek District representative; six yrs., chief of law enforcement and security (lighthorse administration); committee member, National Council business and governmental operations, land acquisition, tobacco warehouse, facilities acquisition, and economic development task force Reason for seeking office: I am seeking reelection so I may continue being a productive Creek District representative. During my first term as representative I sponsored the bill that appropriated funds to build a community center for Sapulpa and three other communities. With the experience I've acquired since being elected representative and, with your support, I can be even more productive during the next two years. This experience will prove beneficial when facing funding cuts for tribal programs and services. I bring experience and dedication at your service.

McIntosh District Seat A
Name: Tommy Pickering
Age: 39
Residence: Eufaula
Family: wife, Judith; sons, Sheridan and Judd
Parents: James A. and Edna R. Burgess Pickering
Clan: Sweet Potato
Church: West Eufaula Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Hitchita

Experience: two-term McIntosh District representative

Reason for seeking office: Being involved in the affairs of Creek people for many years, I've been asked by many citizens to run again for Council representative. I have travelled to each chartered community to inform and listen to their concerns. I have received letters and phone calls from citizens outside the tribal boundaries. I've written and introduced bills in the Council concerning the most important items in McIntosh District including: getting qualified doctors for our clinics and medications; economic development for communities; help for our growing; and a bill to acquire Hillabee ceremonial ground for our people. Your vote is appreciated.

Creek District Seat A
Name: Earl Wheeler
Age: 41
Residence: Bristow
Family: daughter, Kimberly; sons, Kevin, Jeremiah, Madison
Parents: Alice and Roy Wheeler; grandparents, Wysena Madison Bucktrot, Daye Sah Co Conthany Annie Brown Bucktrot
Clan: Deer
Church: Mutteloke United Methodist

Tribal Town, Ground: Sand Creek, Iron Post
Experience: Bristow community chair, six yrs.; JOM, Title V-C committees; lay speaker, House of Warriors; lobbying; tribal affairs, human development, and community services committees; owned and operated businesses Reason for seeking office: My eight years experience on the National Council will be vital to your interests when working for funding levels to meet the needs of you and your family. I began working for the Creek and Euchee families at age 25. A great deal has been accomplished since that time, but I would like to see even more improvements for our families and tribe. With your vote and support, I'll continue to work for a better future.

Creek District Seat B
Name: George Tiger
Age: 45
Residence: Sapulpa
Family: wife, Theresa; children, Chebon, Mike, Gina, Greg, Robert, and Chris Parents: the late Rev. Coody and Lela McNac Tiger
Clan: Wind
Church: Yardeka Indian Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Hickory Ground

Experience: former National Council representative (1991-92); past vice chair, United Indian Nations of Okla.; past president, Haskell Indian Nations Univ. Board of Regents; former host, Native America Calling radio program; current host and producer, Inside Native America; public relations coordinator, 1994 Clinton-tribal leaders summit; consultant, various tribes and organizations Reason for seeking office: I feel the Council is the heart of the Muscogee Nation government and should aggressively pursue economic development that will provide jobs and income to the Muscogee people. The day of receiving federal funds is nearing the end. Bingo income is being targeted for an end as well by Congress. Smokeshops are sharing their income with Oklahoma. Tribal revenues are dwindling and we must do something to continue our quest in providing services as a tribal government. Current services need to be improved. Petty politics must be set aside and work in unity to improve the situation at hand. I pledge to work hard in representing tribal members in the Creek District and ask for your support.

McIntosh District Seat A
Name: Carrie Williams
Age: 50
Residence: Stidham
Family: husband, Danny Williams; daughters, Dana, Cara, and Lindsey Parents: the late Rev. Adam Jones Sr. and Hattie Morrison Jones
Clan: Bear
Church: Little Coweta Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Coweta

Experience: bachelor of science, education, East Central University; educator for 25 years
Reason for seeking office: I am deeply concerned about our tribal government and the direction that it will be forced to take in the future. This is a time when our tribal leaders and Creek people need to work together to preserve the programs that we have enjoyed the past 20 years. These programs were not always here and they are being threatened by Congress. As an educator, I'm going to be working to keep Indian education programs intact for our Indian children. I would also like to help our Indian people keep the programs they are utilizing at this time. As your representative I will work with the same diligence to serve the people in McIntosh District by promoting accurate information, introducing legislation, and casting my vote for the betterment of the tribe.

Muscogee Election '95

McIntosh District Seat B

Name: Barbara Kaler
Fogle

Age: 45

Residence: Hanna

Family: Rance and Robyn; married to the late Robert Fogle

Parents: Claude W. and Nancy Albert Kaler

Clan: Wind

Church: Arbeka Baptist Church

Tribal Town:
Tukvptce

Experience: Hanna school board; past chair, Hanna
Indian Community

Reason for seeking office: My platform is: increased funding for education for our children; economic development projects that increase job opportunities for Muscogee citizens; increased health care for Muscogee citizens; implementation of a nursing care system for our elderly tribal citizens including the construction of nursing care homes for our elderly citizens; increased funding from tribal funds for school clothing and improvements to tribal member's homes; creation of a tribally-operated business development center to assist Muscogee citizen-owned businesses in acquiring governmental loans and contracts at local, tribal, state, and federal levels. I ask for your support in reaching these objectives.

McIntosh District Seat C

Name: Thomas McIntosh

Age: 72

Residence: Stidham

Family: wife, Neoma; three sons; two daughters; 16 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren

Parents: the late Rev.
Thomas and Susan
McIntosh

Clan: Bear

Church: Big Arbor Baptist

Tribal Town: Coweta

Experience: National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: To serve my people.
Since the McIntosh District National Council representatives were reduced, I filed for my brother's seat (Sandy McIntosh) which is open. I now serve on the tribal affairs committee, Creek Nation Housing Authority Board of Commissioners, and the fact finding committee. I will appreciate your vote and support.

Muscogee District Seat A

Name: Helen Chupco

Age: 76

Residence:
Muscogee

Family: husband,
Rev. Lee Chupco; son, James Chupco; daughter, Waukomis
Lewis

Parents: the late Rev.
Billie and Bessie
Palmer

Clan: Sweet Potato

Church: Methodist church

Tribal Town: Tukvptce

Experience: eight-term district representative;
Council business and governmental operations committee; chair six yrs., community services committee; nine yrs., tribal town representative (appointed Council); 28 yrs., tribal representative; Claremore IHS advisory board; 14 yrs., secretary; board of directors, Eastern Oklahoma Development District; experience in federal and state program funding and community development; member, economic development task force

Reason for seeking office: To continue assisting-working for Creek citizens in which I am presently doing practically 24 hours a day. To help maintain and strengthen our tribal sovereignty. To help further economic development program plans. To have a better working relationship between legislative and executive branch.

McIntosh District Seat B

Name: Wilbur Chebon
Gouge

Age: 44

Residence: Eufaula

Family: wife, Cheryl; son, Rayburn

Parents: the late Albert
A. and Sallie Spainard

Gouge

Clan: Eco

Church:

Tribal Town:

Weogufkee

Experience: two-year McIntosh District representative

Reason for seeking office: My past experience on the Council has taught me that you cannot target one area of the government to solve the current problems of our Nation today. I would like to have the opportunity to be part of a Council that is decisive and involved in long range planning so that future generations of Muscogee Creek citizens can and will and enjoy more of the same freedoms and privileges that are afforded to us today, in areas of health, education, housing, welfare, and economic development.

McIntosh District Seat C

Name: Yahola
Townsend

Age: 71

Residence: Checotah

Family: wife, Betty; sons, Terry and Kelly;
daughters, Vicki McIntosh and Becki

Parents: Marshall and Jeanetta McIntosh

Townsend

Clan: Bear

Church: Baptist

Tribal Town: Tuskegee

Experience: one-term National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: I would like to stress my commitment to this position and the Muscogee Nation. It is my sincere desire to make a meaningful contribution to the continued growth and development of the Muscogee Nation as I serve as your representative to the National Council. Most of you across the county know me to be honest, sincere, and always willing to listen and help where I can. I seek this position for a second term to serve you as we face the new year with the most significant cut ever in federal dollars for Indian tribes.

Muscogee District Seat A

Name: Joseph
Coachman

Age: 40

Residence:
Muscogee

Family: daughters,
Cheron Shoemake
and Shannon

Parents: the late Rev.
Ward and Sallie

Coachman

Clan: Bear

Church: Sand Springs Baptist Church, Braggs

Tribal Town: Kialege

Experience: more than seven yrs., business development, 15 yrs., data processing

Reason for seeking office: To represent the Muscogee District in such a way as to get involvement from the young people as well as the elderly.
I want to assist the tribe in reaching self-sufficiency by exercising our sovereign rights and to diversify our economic interests so the Muscogee Nation is not reliant on so much federal dollars. I feel if we have a united National Council, the Muscogee Nation can accomplish great things. I feel I could work with our representatives to reach common goals.
Only with a timely solution to these problems will be able to extend services to our qualified citizens who are in dire need. With my past experience and I hope, with your support, to be able to accomplish these goals.

Muscogee District Seat B

Name: Leonard Gouge
Age: 34
Residence: Muskogee
Family: wife, Johnna Deer Gouge
Parents: Felix and Minnie Gouge
Clan: Deer
Tribal Town: New Tulsa

Experience: Cherokee Nation paralegal for tribal Indian Child Welfare; Creek Nation Indian Child Welfare; Creek Nation special needs adoption; Seminole Nation paralegal; Oklahoma Indian Legal Services; U.S. Army; Army reserves drill sergeant; Oklahoma Indian Bar Association; Oklahoma City Mayor's Indian Task Force Committee; past member, Oklahoma City Muskogee Creek Association; past member, Muskogee Koweta Indian Community; Oklahoma Jr. College graduate Reason for seeking office: Having been an absentee voter, I know the feeling of not having your voice heard or considered. I think the same is felt here in the Muskogee District. I believe a Council representative should be exactly that — a representative of your interests, concerns, your voice in the National Council. In my past experience, I've always had to make hard decisions and stand accountable for my words and actions before employers, families, tribal, and state courts. As your representative, I can do the same with the issues that come before the National Council for the Muskogee citizens and Muskogee District.

Name: Frances Pease
Age: 66
Residence: Muskogee
Family: husband, Jody; son, Ronald; grandsons, Jody and John Parents: deceased
Clan: Raccoon
Church: First Baptist Church, Muskogee; Grave Creek Baptist Church

Tribal Town: Thlopthlocco
Experience: master's degree, education; 31 yrs., teaching; Muskogee Education Assoc.; Okla. Education Assoc.; political action group; OEA delegate; precinct delegate, Democratic party; education lobbyist; calling committee for state offices; tutored Indian students; JOM summer teacher, chair, vice chair, and member Indian education parent committee; chair and vice chair, Muskogee Indian Community Reason for seeking office: I feel that I have more knowledge and experience in tribal government and with this knowledge and experience I will be more prepared to assist Creek citizens, if they will inform me of their needs, no matter what the need might be. I feel I have the qualifications for being a part of Creek Nation and supporting the issues facing our Nation as a whole. I want to be part of the Muskogee Indian Community and present legislation to the members and get their input on all issues so their voice will be heard and they will be involved with their government. As a representative, I can be the bridge from community to the Creek Nation.

Okfuskee District Seat A

Name: Gary Mitchell
Age: 53
Residence: Okemah
Family: married
Parents: Mabel Walker Simmons and the late Martin Mitchell Sr.
Clan: Nokose
Church: Trenton Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Pukkon Tallahassee

Experience: degree in cable installation technician; inventory clerk specialist; sergeant-at-arms, Tribal Town Center; self-employed; speak and understand Creek language; veteran Reason for seeking office: I'm seeking this office because we need a new trend and action for our Indian children. We need to put our children first because they are our future. I want them to be able to get a good education. I want for our elderly to be helped and for the shut-ins without transportation to be assisted. I have been inspired by Toney Hill and other tribal town leaders with the things they say. I would like your support and vote. Mvto.

Muscogee District Seat B

Name: Harley Gene Little
Age: 65
Residence: Muskogee
Family: wife, Gerri; daughter, Jeanette Askins; sons, Gene and Kendall Parents: the late Buster Little and the late Nora Blackie Douglas
Clan: Wind

Church: First Baptist Church, Muskogee
Tribal Town: Nuyaka
Experience: retired, BIA director and superintendent; former college professor; Korean War veteran; former Council representative; director of community services, Muskogee Nation Reason for seeking office: My main reason for seeking the Council seat is to use my experience as a former government employee, council member, and tribal employee to retain the recognition and sovereignty of the Muskogee (Creek) Nation. This is a trying time for the Creek Nation with the U.S. Congress attempting to cut our assistance programs and our own internal prob

Okfuskee District Seat A

Name: Hepsie Mae Jackson
Age: 59
Residence: Okemah
Family: husband, Bobby; son, Phillip; and four grandchildren
Parents: Phillip and Annie Monday Tiger
Clan: Bear
Church: Protestant, attend High Spring Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Fish Pond

Experience: 20 yrs. in federal-state social and economic programs; lobbying and advocacy for Indian rights and programs; sensitive and knowledgeable of tribal citizens' needs with four yrs. service on Muskogee (Creek) National Council Reason for seeking office: Along with the rest of the general population we, the citizens of the Muskogee Nation, will soon be experiencing additional social and economic hardships due to cutbacks our federal government is proposing and already passed in some cases. We, as a tribe, need to shift gears — trimming our own budget in order to maintain accessible services to our citizens. I know the needs of our people and have experience personally and professionally in budgeting. To keep services on a high priority list with involvement from citizens, to increase unity and maintain our sovereignty is a goal we should all strive for. Mvto.

Name: Nancy West Watson
Age: 41
Residence: Okemah
Family: daughters, Angie and Alison
Parents: Calvin C. and the late Agnes Fixico West
Clan: Eco
Church: Prairie Springs Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Okfuskee

Reason for seeking office: Two years ago, I made the decision to serve the people of my tribe as a member of the National Council. I was ready then and I am ready now to work for and with all citizens of the Creek Nation. My goal is to contribute to the progressive future of the Creek Nation and ensure the heritage of our ancestors.

Muscogee Election '95

Okfuskee District

Seat A

Name: Billy Ray Williams

Age: 56

Residence: Weleetka

Family: two children; four grandchildren

Parents: Irvin and Alice Williams

Clan: Raccoon

Church: Christ Community Church of Weleetka

Tribal Town:

Experience:

Reason for seeking office: I would like to serve as a National Council Representative for the Muscogee Nation for the purpose of establishing laws that uphold the Constitution of the Muscogee Nation. I feel it is time the legislative branch of our tribal government began to focus on enacting sound tribal laws that establish how the other branches of government operate. The duties and responsibilities of the legislative branch are already established. The day-to-day operation of running federally funded programs should not involve the time of our government's legislative branch. The present Council has attended numerous meetings and accomplished little or nothing to change or improve the Creek people's way of life. I would like to be involved in enacting laws that will do more for the Creek citizen's way of life than just attending meetings, receiving payment for mileage reimbursements, becoming involved in petty personal grievances, or other activities that deal with the special interests of individuals presently serving on the Council.

Okfuskee District

Seat B

Name: Wynema Roberts

Age: 44

Residence: Nuyaka Community

Family: sister, Patsy Pigeon; brothers, Carney, Roy, and Cainey Roberts Jr.

Parents: Stella and the late Cainey Roberts Sr.

Clan: Alligator

Church: Nuyaka Indian Baptist

Tribal Town: Nuyaka

Experience: 11 yrs., tribal employee; four yrs., National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: I have served as a spokesperson for the Okfuskee District for the past four yrs. and I have served on the tribal affairs committee. I have helped with properties and housing. This has enabled me to seek out citizens who were in need of homes. I have also served on the community services committee. This made me knowledgeable to our critical health needs. I was also on the fact finding committee. I have voiced concerns about our citizens' needs in all areas, I also have fought for equal rights for all citizens in all areas and all ages. My priority is our Creek tribal citizens.

Okmulgee District

Seat A

Name: Betty Ruth Gray

Age: 50

Residence: Okmulgee

Family: husband, Richard; son, Nathan

Parents: the late Wiley S. and Jennie Knight

Church: Bowen Baptist Church

Experience: manager, Okmulgee Indian Community smokeshop

Reason for seeking office: I want to become an effective voice in the decision making at the National Council level on issues that affect the molding of the future, for the Muscogee (Creek) people. Problems exist in housing with homes and renovations being given out on a preferential basis to selected friends and families with large numbers of votes. HUD regulations state homes should be granted to families according to the priority list depending on the need situation. Another area of concern is fair hiring practices which currently don't exist due to rampant nepotism. With your vote and support, I will serve you honorably. Mvto.

Okfuskee District Seat B

Name: Bruce Smith

Age: 39

Residence: Weleetka

Family: wife, Vicky; children, Cheryl and Jason

Parents: the late Willis and Sarah Riley Smith

Clan: Raccoon

Church: Hvcecappv

Tribal Town:

Experience:

employed by Creek Nation, 1978-86; one term Okfuskee District representative; Council human development committee; chair, Graham School JOM

Reason for seeking office: Having completed my first term as a member of the National Council, I have gained the knowledge and experience of how the governing body works. I feel confident, if elected for another term, that this experience and knowledge will make me a better representative. My priorities are education, health care, economic development, jobs, housing, and more services for the elderly citizens. As an Okfuskee District representative, I will continue to work for the best interests of the Okfuskee District and all Creek citizens. I ask for your vote. Mvto.

Okfuskee District Seat C

Name: Simmer Hicks

Age: 36

Residence: Okemah

Okfuskee District Seat C

Name: Clyde Johnson

Age: 72

Okmulgee District Seat A

Name: Dave Lewis

Age: 61

Residence: Henryetta

Family: wife, Lillie; sons, Ronnie and Richard; daughters, Diane and Sharon

Parents: the late Rev. David and Sally Jacobs Lewis

Clan: Bird

Tribal Town: Hickory Ground

Experience: tribal main medicine man; two yrs., National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: As your Council representative, I have been an active participant. I continue to maintain contact with my constituents, other Council representatives, and the tribal administration. I research and study agenda items before voting because I know the power of my vote, which the people of this Nation have given me. I know that my vote can affect the young and old alike and it is a responsibility I do not take lightly.

There have been times when I have made unpopular decisions. However, this great Nation is only as strong as its leaders. I will not be a weak link in that chain and I will continue to be a leader, not a follower.

I again ask for your support in my campaign for reelection. There are still many areas we need to pursue to ensure the future of our Nation remains intact. Mvto.

Experience: two yrs., National Council
Reason for seeking office: I am seeking reelection so I can continue to better serve my people with the understanding of the difficult time to come due to the BIA budget cuts. We will not have as much money to work with for our federally funded programs. We need to be aware of what our top priority will be. I have sponsored several bills and have also been supportive of other bills that were beneficial to both citizens and the nation. Mvto.

Council representative

Reason for seeking office: As your National Council representative, I have attended all regular Council meetings. I study the legislation before the Council and vote the issues that will benefit the majority of the people. I feel the people still need help to receive the benefits they are entitled to. As a mediator for the people I have tried to make a better way of life for all of the Creek citizens. I will continue to be a working representative. If you feel I have been a fair and impartial representative, I ask for your vote Oct. 28.

Experience: retired, U.S. Navy; administrative office at various operational commands and staffs; database management; supervisor; recruiter; chaired numerous committees and school related activities; parent representative, San Diego County School Board

Reason for seeking office: I want to assist in ensuring the most efficient application of our tribal assets for continued financial growth and establishment of a fiscal base to ensure the ability to provide the services needed for our tribal members in today's hostile environment that exists in the federal Congress. I want to ensure that efficiency, farsightedness, and adequate and proper planning is the rule on all aspects of the tribal government. This can be only be accomplished through a team effort guided and overseen by the National Council and I deeply wish to be part of this process.

Reason for seeking office: I seek reelection because I feel my concern for the tribal citizens and the future of our tribal government are two issues that must always be addressed. Our tribal programs have declined and have also been denied to Muscogee tribal citizens when funds were still available. I have worked in a positive manner to ensure the continuation and improve the programs that affect the lives of every tribal citizen. I will continue to strive for a better government in order to better serve the needs of the people. Let's create jobs through economic develop-

America Watch Inc.

Reason for seeking office: There is a marked uneasiness in every part of the government for we are very close to trauma status. We must not lend our energies to add to the hardships but initiate a plan of survival for this is where we stand at this present time. With six years experience, I have had 99 percent success on numerous items of legislation of every aspect that I have authored or introduced. With renewed vision I will work for all Mvskoke (Creek) people and will inform all communities in my district.
I am asking for your vote Oct. 28. Mvto.

Experience:
bachelor's degree in education, Cameron
Univ.; 11 yrs., tribal employee, human development director; teacher, summer youth program; 16 yrs., residential life department, OSU-Okmulgee (current) Reason for seeking office: I'm concerned about the direction of the tribe in the areas of programs and services. Congressional budget cuts will undermine the tribe as we move into the 21st century. The obligation of a Council representative is to represent our community, communicate with our constituents, and focus on the passage of tribal legislation. New avenues must be explored to stimulate the tribal economy, promote citizens' welfare, provide educational opportunities for citizens and employees for better service provision. Unity between governmental branches should be the norm not the exception. We must learn to work together for the betterment of our people and continued growth of the tribe.

Workers; social worker, Seminole Nation Indian Child Welfare

Reason for seeking office: The citizens of this district deserve an assertive voice, a progressive mind, an educated and truly qualified advocate as their representative on the tribal Council. They also deserve a representative that can relate to their way of thinking.
I feel that I can offer these things. I have a bachelor's degree in social work which provides me with the very knowledge and skills required to be an effective representative. That includes the resident as well as absentee citizen.

Muscogee Election '95

Tukvptce District Seat B

Name: L.C. Charlie Franks
Age: 53

Residence: Holdenville

Family: wife, Susanna Lowe Franks; four children; three grandchildren

Parents: Emma Att Franks and the late Taylor Franks

Clan: Bird

Church: Yeager United Methodist Church

Tribal Town: New Tulsa

Experience: eight yrs., military service; associate's degree, business administration; two yrs., National Council representative; DAV vice commander; 20 yrs., civil service employment; lay pastor

Reason for seeking office: As a Council representative, I will strive to expand tribal resources to promote better services for Creek citizens. As we all know, the federal government is proposing cutbacks which will greatly affect the tribe. The future of Creek Nation depends on resolutions and legislation that promote growth and stability. These acts should consist of establishing greater economic development opportunities or make every effort to seek any alternatives needed for progress. We should not allow our tribal citizens to suffer at the hands of the federal government. Your vote will be appreciated.

Tukvptce District Seat C

Name: Darrell Coachman, incumbent
Age: 46

Residence: Wetumka

Family: spouse, Sherry; daughter, Amy; two grandchildren

Parents: Albert and the late Abbie Coachman

Clan: Sweet Potato

Church: Wetumka Indian Baptist

Tribal Town: Tukvptce

Experience: two-term Council representative; charter member, Wetumka Indian Community

Reason for seeking office: This Nation has been through some trying times and survived, but none so inspiring and threatening as what Congress proposes today. This Nation must remain united. We can only be as strong as our leaders. We need devoted leaders to help with our problems today. What Congress does today or in the future remains to be seen. We need creative leaders who can deal with our situations at the tribal level. We must continue to provide the highest levels of services to our tribal citizens. The challenges are there and must be confronted. Thank you for your continued support. Mvto.

Tulsa District Seat A

Name: Larry Bible, incumbent

Age: 44

Residence: Glenpool

Family: wife, Michele; three sons; one daughter

Parents: the late Andy and Joann Bible

Clan: Bird

Tribal Town: Locvpoka

Experience: six-term National Council representative; former second speaker; and chair of various standing committees

Reason for seeking office: I would like the opportunity to continue to be in on the decision-making process of our tribal government and to explore avenues of economic development other than public gaming. I feel that I have adequately represented my constituents during my tenure and I will continue to make the decisions that are in the best interests of our people and I will not allow special interest groups or cliques within the tribal government to taint my judgement. I ask for your continued support in my endeavor to make our tribal government more receptive to the needs of our people. Mvto.

Name: Timmie Fife
Age: 43

Residence: Dustin

Parents: the late Jimmie and Carmen Fife

Clan: Raccoon

Church: Thlewarle Baptist Church

Tribal Town: Tukvptce

Experience: two yr. district representative;

associate's degree, OSU-Okmulgee; certified automotive technician; one-term chair, Dustin Indian Community; rodeo committee; tribal affairs committee

Reason for seeking office: I am seeking a second term as district representative. I want to: bring business and industry to the district; work with Indian students to get FFA and 4-H projects; encourage participation in community and tribal government activities; create local Indian fire dept. or firefighters association; ensure all high school juniors and seniors within the district have been counseled for college or vo-tech education; work JOM and other Indian education programs to get a health clinic in Tukvptce District; and to get a transportation program for the elderly.

Family: wife, Connie; two sons; and three daughters

Parents: Nathan and Alice McCosar Buck

Clan: Bird

Church: Harvest Time

Tabernacle

Tribal Town: Eufaula

Experience: three terms, National Council; parliamentarian, Holdenville Indian Community

Reason for seeking office: The job market is expanding substantially for our tribal citizens in Dustin, Holdenville, and Wetumka, as well as economic development opportunity for the Holdenville community because of the new prison facility to be complete in 1996. We need to aggressively seek economic development related to the increase in population or prison services to employ more Creek citizens. I served three terms on the Council with many positive accomplishments. I have business experience as well as working with tribal, city, and state officials. I will get the job done with your help and support.

Bemo

Clan: Bird

Church: Spring Town

United Methodist Church

Tribal Town: Broken Arrow

Experience: U.S. Navy; chair, vice-chair, Tulsa Creek Indian Community; associate's degree, Tulsa Jr. College; Tulsa County Democratic Party

Reason for seeking office: To uphold Creek Nation status as a sovereign Nation; pursue increased economic development and diversification for the benefit of our Nation and our people; to see the objectives of the Council are continually focusing on the Nation as a whole and not from a single community stand point nor from an individual perspective; to be an advocate for the people of Tulsa District, it does not matter where they reside within the district; to speak for them as a whole; to listen their needs; and to be available to them at all times; to promote legislation that will put the Creek Nation in the position as a leader of all tribes. That is to enact legislation that will make the laws within the Nation consistent and binding.

McHenry

Age: 60

Residence: Tulsa

Family: wife, Lyda Frank McHenry; eight children; nine grandchildren

Parents: Lewis T. and Gladys Bland McHenry

Clan: Beaver

Church: Haikey Chapel United Methodist Church

Tribal Town: Locvpoka

Experience: past treasurer, Tulsa Creek Indian Community; sergeant-at-arms, Tulsa Creek Indian Community

Reason for seeking office: I feel I can better represent the Creek citizens of Tulsa County and Creek Nation by being more sensitive to the needs and concerns of the people. I also will make myself more available to committee and public meetings. My primary concerns as a representative will be accountability, education, employment, and health issues. I feel a change is needed and ask for an opportunity to represent the people. Mvto.

Tulsa District Seat B

Name: Earl King, incumbent

Age: 55

Residence: Tulsa

Family: daughter, Melanie; son, David Mekko; three grandchildren

Parents: the Rev. David and Annie King

Clan: Deer

Church: Montesoma Baptist Church

Tribal Town: Nuyaka

Experience: two yrs., National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: I have represented the Tulsa District with distinction and honor supporting legislation to maintain our culture, traditions, and build our communities. I have a unique grasp of problems citizens face and supported legislation for communities, families, and individuals in need. I spoke against attempts to reduce federal funding to the tribe and supported the executive branch in their fight against cuts and I showed respect for tribal elders by voting for legislation that benefits senior citizens. Some of my goals for the district are: health and dental clinic; housing assistance program; summer youth employment; construction of a community center; economic development; legislation to protect sovereignty; and community activities for the elderly. With your support and my commitment we can achieve these goals.

Reason for seeking office: To better serve the tribe, the Tulsa District and the Tulsa community. I serve no special interest group other than the tribe itself and to bring better representation and services to the tribe and Tulsa.

Tulsa District Seat B

Name: Irene Cleghom

Age: 80

Residence: Tulsa

Clan:

Church:

Tribal Town:

Experience: eight-term National Council representative; attended Oklahoma State University

Reason for seeking office: Education is my priority. I am interested in education and all phases of vocational and academic advantages offered by higher education and training. I speak Creek fluently. I consider the opportunity to run again for the office of Tulsa District representative and to represent the Creek tribal members who reside here as a proud adventure. I'll always consider this meaningful and a rewarding service for the people. I have represented the Creek people with honesty, unselfishness, caring, and integrity. Thanks for your support. Vote Oct. 28.

Age: 45

Residence: Tulsa

Family: single

Parents: Irene Jacobs and James Cleghom

Clan: Sweet Potato

Church: First Baptist Church, Tulsa

Tribal Town: New Tulsa

Experience: have coordinated seven campaigns in Tulsa District

Reason for seeking office: I truly believe that the Muscogee Nation has to move in the direction of competent management and accountability of its programs due to projected federal budget cuts. Priority should be placed on the programs that benefit the elderly and the youth. Controversy has swirled around health care and housing. My general feeling is that the federal grant monies are being eaten in administrative costs and not enough services are being provided to Muscogee citizens. Another concern is tribal money should engage in equipment purchases and contracts with Indian owned businesses. I would appreciate your vote. Mvto.

Parents: Ed and Sallie Moore

Clan: Bear

Church: Big Cussetah

Tribal Town: Cussetah

Experience: two yrs., National Council representative

Reason for seeking office: In order to lobby for restoration of current funding levels to the tribe as well as to seek additional funding sources for tribal programs. The experience I've gained from my first term of office will enable me to work toward the Muscogee Nation becoming an even more progressive tribal operation. To accomplish this goal, I plan on working with the employees of the Creek Nation and the community.

Name: Carol Asbury Morris
Age: 55
Residence: Tulsa
Family: one son; and one granddaughter
Parents: Joe and Lillie Lewis Asbury
Clan: Bear
Church: Baptist affiliation
Tribal Town: Arbeka, Kialege

Experience: three yrs., board of directors, Tulsa Creek Indian Community; Okla. Code Enforcement Assoc. Board; community strategic planning committee; organizing Council Oak ceremony; employed with City of Tulsa Urban Development Dept.
Reason for seeking office: Our community subsists on revenues that our smokeshop produces so it is vital that I help keep the business in operation as the revenue provides social programs and jobs for our community members. Producing revenue is a difficult task and the tribe must produce revenue on a grander scale. Today's health care is unaffordable for our citizens and health care is changing across the U.S. Business technology is improving and our citizens need re-training in order to survive in today's workplace. Education plays a big role in our jobs. We need our people to continue with their education in order to compete with other nationalities for jobs. As your Council representative, I would work hard to keep our social service programs and jobs continuing. I am asking for your vote in order to do this. I want the opportunity to help make changes to improve our lives.

Tulsa District Seat D
Name: Bim Stephen Bruner
Age: 46
Residence: Broken Arrow
Clan: Bear
Tribal Town: Locvpoka
Experience: former speaker, National Council Reason for seeking office: I have been honored to have been elected speaker of the National Council. It has been an honor to serve as chair of the fact-finding committee. I am seeking another term as representative to continue to serve in a leadership role, to search for the truth, and be able to inform citizens what is really occurring within the Creek Nation. All tribal officials must be accountable for actions involving the tribe's limited resources. The federal budget cuts are real and not just a threat. We must be accountable for every single dollar of our tribal monies. This election, more than any other in the history of the Muscogee Nation, will determine the direction the Muscogee Nation travels as we face our greatest challenges ever.

Tulsa District Seat D
Name: Jerry Wilson
Age: 43
Residence: Tulsa
Family: married; one child
Parents: Alfred and Ruth Wilson
Clan: Deer
Church: Opportunity Heights Baptist Church
Tribal Town: Tulsa Little River

Experience: three term National Council representative; former second speaker, National Council; former member, Intertribal Council; four yrs., communications manager, ESA, human development, and executive director, Creek Nation; six yrs., small business ownership; department head, technical college, OSU-Okmulgee; served on organizational committees for Tulsa and Glenpool Creek Indian communities; bachelors degree in business; master's in education Reason for seeking office: The reason I am seeking a seat on the Council is simple: Congress is opposing our treaty rights by making budget cuts, taxing our enterprises, and shifting authority to the state. Our district needs someone who will look after our interest. These Congressional actions are outrageous because it will hit our people who can least afford it the hardest. Jobs will be lost, services discontinued, and our people will suffer. We need leadership that is experienced in advocating compliance to our treaties and agreements. Clearly, my experience and ability makes me the best candidate to serve the Tulsa District.

Parents: the late Mitchel and Eloise Boudinot
Clan: Deer
Church: Broken Arrow Indian Church
Tribal Town: Koweta

Experience: 11 yrs., executive secretary, American Airlines; former Council representative; former chair, Council human development committee
Reason for seeking office: I see a need for an education advocate in the Council and enforcement of our tribal laws. Community involvement should be addressed and enforced. A job description should be in place for our representatives. There are no written responsibilities or guidelines for representatives at the present time.

Parents: Clarence Bunny, Emily Rose King
Clan: Alligator
Church: Thlewarle
Tribal Town: Arbeka
Experience: CASA volunteer

Reason for seeking office: I will bring forth to our Council honesty, integrity, and accountability to all Creeks of this Nation. We need a strong and decisive government as we move toward the next century. I will be receptive to the ideas and needs of you, as Council representative to the Tulsa District. The future is ours to build as we fight through the budget cuts, fight through the issues of tribal sovereignty, and fight for the rights of the people of this tribe. We are Indians and always will be, we must work together for the benefit of all.

Tribal Town: Locvpoka

Experience: two yrs., National Council representative; U.S. Marine Corps; past president, Broken Arrow Indian Club; chair, member, tribal election board; 15 yrs., retail bakery manager Reason for seeking office: I seek reelection as Tulsa District representative because I would like to continue being a voice for the Muscogee (Creek) citizens of the Tulsa District to the National Council. There are some very important issues we are being faced with and I will certainly continue to speak in behalf of and vote for the best interests of our Muscogee people. It is very important for me to continue advocating for more funding for our clothing program for our children along with the funding for the expansion of Tulsa bingo facility. I believe in the checks and balances of tribal government. It can only benefit us all. As a Tulsa representative, I will continue to bring honesty, integrity, and fairness to all Muscogee citizens.

Tribal Town: attend Arbeka Ceremonial Ground

Experience: two terms, Tulsa Creek Indian Community Board of Directors; community enterprise board

Reason for seeking office: I have been active in the Tulsa Creek Indian Community having served two terms on the board of directors and currently on the enterprise board. I have the knowledge and ability to best represent the Tulsa Creeks. Legislation is needed in the following areas: commercial code to regulate business and increase tribal revenues; increase land base to attract established industries; technical assistance and capital made available to tribal members including absentees, to encourage enterprise; and enact codes regarding domestic, probate, etc., to exercise inherent sovereignty.

Parents: Mose Childers and Violet Childers Freeman

Clan: Sweet Potato

Church: First Baptist Church, Coweta

Tribal Town: Locvpoka

Experience: two yrs., National Council representative; past president, vice president, treasurer

Reason for seeking office: The experience I have received as a Council member the past two years has prepared me for the problems facing our Creek citizens. With budget cuts from the federal level, strong positive efforts must be addressed to promote economic development to create revenue and jobs in all districts. We must continue to seek funding for education, job training, medical care and other services for citizens of all ages. By referendum vote the people voted to reduce the Council from 36 to 26 members. Experience, dedication and leadership are necessary to preserve the continuity within the National Council.

Age: 51

Residence: Coweta

Family: wife, Wilma Miller

Parents: the late Sam Berryhill and Viola McIntosh

Parents: the late Lewis and Martha Tiger Miller

Clan: Tiger

Church: Bemo Baptist

Tribal Town: Koweta

Experience: four yrs., task force; secretary, Koweta Indian Community; church treasurer

Reason for seeking office: My reason for seeking this position is, after observing the feelings among our people, we have some who are not aware of the opportunities and or services they are entitled to. We need to let everyone know of the existing programs and services. As a candidate for Council representative, if elected, I would try to help improve the senior citizen program, education, and health programs. Also, I would like to see a program for young adults starting out in life, such as a work program. I promise to do all I can for Creek Nation in bringing unity among the people.

For the quarter ending June 30, 1995 (third quarter, fiscal year 1995)

The Muscogee (Creek) Nation Controller's Office produces a series of monthly budgetary and general ledger reports on all activities and programs of the Nation as one of its major functions.

These reports are made available to appropriate tribal management personnel and other interested parties.

The controller's office maintains an accounting system in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

It meets the standards and reporting requirements of the Government Finance Officers Association and the reporting requirements of the A-128 Single Audit Act.

Reports prepared under these standards tend to be technical and complex by nature. It may require a more indepth understanding of both accounting principles and funding accounting than those of other entities.

A summary is submitted quarterly in order to keep tribal members aware of the financial status is the Muscogee (Creek) Nation and in compliance with NCA 88-70

Fife, Beaver in run-off

Fife takes 31 percent of vote in October primary; Beaver finishes second in race for principal chief OKMULGEE — Principal Chief Bill Fife topped the list of candidates vying to lead the Muscogee Nation as a result of the Oct. 28 primary election.

Fife bested the pack with 1,434 votes (30.97 percent) followed by National Council Tulsa District Representative Perry Beaver's 1,112 votes (24 percent). The two now face a Dec. 2 general election.

More than 4,600 votes were divided among eight candidates. Finishing third was Second Chief Shelly Crow with 764 votes (16.5 percent).

Muscogee pastor recalls the end of World War II

COWETA — George Doyle was an 18-year-old Okemah High School Student when his country requested his services in 1943.

The United States had declared war in December 1941 after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. The Allies' war effort was the largest in history and Doyle was soon to be engaged in battle against the Japanese — one of the most fearsome war machines ever.

For Doyle, and other Muscogee citizens, the issue of racism and past wrongs were not an issue when they asked to die for the country that had once been an enemy of Indians.

"I was scared, but I had a job to do," Doyle said. "I felt [service] was more of my duty as an American citizen."

The ordained pastor said his service in the U.S. Navy was also a "defense of the gospel and my country."

Others were concerned however.

Nora Wind, then his fiance, recalls "Elders were very concerned about young men leaving for war. All [Indian] churches around Okemah had all night singings and [offered the] hand of fellowship.

"Some churches put photos of the boys on the walls of the churches. We really respected the boys."

Doyle was a seaman first class and was sent to the central Pacific on an armed cargo ship. From there, he and his shipmates joined a convoy of battle ships, cruisers, destroyers, and aircraft carriers.

For an Indian from landlocked Oklahoma, life on the sea was much different. Doyle recalls the sea sickness and the lengthy monsoon season.

The weather soon became a secondary issue as Doyle encountered combat for the first time at Palau Islands in the Philippine Sea.

There, a fierce battle for the islands led to thousands of casualties before the U.S. took control from the Japanese.

Doyle, a gunner on the USS Saratoga, recalls the fighting was severe and many were afraid for their lives. For Doyle, his faith and his awareness of the support back home sustained him.

Doyle also saw combat at Guam, Mindanao (the largest island of the Philippines), Mariana Islands, and was part of a contingency force at Iwo Jima.

Doyle recalls the intense shelling of Guam in that pivotal July 1944 battle. As the Americans inched closer toward occupation, the Japanese killed all of the natives, and others as well, to prevent them from talking with U.S. Navy Intelligence.

"The Japanese left many bodies when they left the hills," Doyle said. "They were killed to keep from talking to the U.S."

Guam and nearby Tinian were to pay important roles in the Pacific Theater. Guam eventually became the advance headquarters for U.S. Navy Admiral

The upcoming Thanksgiving holiday is a very special time to share with our families and friends. It is a time to be thankful for our achievements and successes in our own life and as a member of the Muscogee Nation. I encourage everyone to strengthen their personal relationships during family gatherings. It is through such a family building process that the Muscogee (Creek) Nation shall continue to grow and succeed in its endeavors. I would like to express a special thank you to the citizens of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation for all of your support and wish you happiness during this Thanksgiving holiday.

Principal Chief Bill S. Fife

Letters to the editor

Tulsa representative thanks constituents

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank my constituents in the Tulsa District for having enough confidence in me by reelecting me to the National Council.

A special thanks goes to Pat Clark, Becky Bonner, and Billie Childers for their untiring efforts in my reelection campaign.

I will continue to look out for the best interests of all Creek citizens and will promote unity between all branches of the tribal government. Economic development will also be a priority.

I would also encourage my constituents, or any Creek citizen for that matter, to personally contact me if you have any concerns pertaining to Creek Nation legislative matters or client services. You may contact me at: (918) 322-8110, day; (918) 366-3464, night; or (918) 643-1694, pager.

Larry Bible, Glenpool

Glenpool community thanked for efforts

Editor:

I am writing this letter to thank Glenpool Indian Community officers for all that they have done and accomplished.

The future of this community is moving forward. If we, as Indians, were to work together as this community does — it would show that people who care can and will accomplish any task set before them.

It has been my honor and privilege to have known all of them as my friends. There is much to look forward to in knowing my friends will continue to serve this community with such outstanding dedication.

Faren Bunny, Glenpool

Second chief candidate commends voters

Editor:

Just as we, as a Nation, are at a critical point in our history, we are now at a critical point in the election process. To all of you that have supported my candidacy — I thank you for your confidence and recent vote. To those who cast their vote for one of the other candidates, I commend you for upholding your civic responsibility.

I would also like to encourage all of you to join me in a strengthened effort to bring cooperation and unity to our government and Nation. It is my objective to build bridges across those issues that now divide us so that we may be prepared for the challenges that we will face in our near future. I welcome everyone who shares my vision of unification and will listen to all those who want to share their ideas with me.

Kenneth L. Childers, Bixby

Editor's note: Childers will face George Almerigi in a Dec. 2 runoff for second chief.

Council member thanks voters for support

Editor:

I would like to thank the voters of the Muskogee District for voting me into another term of office.

I will do my best to serve the people as I have done in the past. I am available at all hours.

Helen Chupco, Muskogee

Veterans endeavor to establish agenda

Editor:

Thanks to you and your staff for your assistance in the efforts of Phillip Coon, Charlie Coker, and myself to compile data on our Creek veterans.

The information received to date shows clearly that Creek citizens responded very well to our country's call to serve. We do, however, need to hear from the female veterans and we ask that family members register their deceased veterans.

I intend to complete the survey sheet on: my father, Samuel Anderson, who was in World War I; my sister, Elaine, a Korean War veteran; and my brother, Samuel Anderson Jr., a World War II veteran.

It has become apparent to me in the reading of data received that we, as Creeks, can be exceedingly proud of and grateful to those of our tribe who served so well and with distinction. That is why I urge that every effort be made to name all our warrior since none should be omitted or overlooked.

When a sufficient number of replies have been received, a committee will be established. They will be asked to develop a viable agenda and/or project which promotes and preserves the history and deeds of Creek veterans for posterity. We need to bring to the attention of everybody just what our Creeks contributed to the welfare and defense of our country during its time of need.

Jorene Coker, Preston

Citizens prompted to cast votes intelligently

Editor:

We are facing difficult times ahead with little preparation for confronting the issues before us.

Economy-wise, we have depended on bingo revenue; investments for our livelihood have had little effect on our achievements. Outside funds and grants have helped us tremendously, but we haven't helped ourselves that much. There is a lesson to be learned from the way Nobel Prize winners are chosen. They are selected through their personal achievements and their contributions to mankind.

We are in the process of electing our tribal leaders. A Chinese proverb says a journey of a thousand miles starts with the first step. This is another opportunity to correct our past mistakes and chart a new start. Our elected leaders must keep our tribal members focused on the ideals of our tribe and the simple purpose that each elected official is held to as they take the oath of office. Our mission, as the Muscogee tribe, is not fulfilled until all of our members, their widowed spouses, and their dependent children have been adequately cared for. It is a simple concept and it is the source of our strength.

When voting, let us be honest with ourselves and vote intelligently. We are not only looking at ourselves in the present day and time, but are peering into the future.

The time has come where we must lay aside our petty grievances; lay aside the candidates who may be our kinfolks or close friends and vote for the one

National Council gives $700,000 to smokeshops

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee (Creek) National Council voted to override a veto and postponed action on the fiscal year 1996 budget at October session at the tribal capitol complex.

The 36-member tribal legislature, through its 27-8 override vote, will return more than $700,000 to licensed tribal retail tobacco outlets. The payments are based on consumer taxes that were collected by smokeshop owners for the Nation's lobby and litigation fund.

Principal Chief Bill Fife vetoed the original legislation. In his veto message, Fife wrote the tax was assessed to fund actions in response to state and federal hostility toward Indian programs and treaty obligations. Fife said the current legislation did not prove that such hostility no longer exists.

Fife said the account was created for the protection of tribal sovereignty against state and federal sources and tobacco is not the only issue that requires protection against state and federal litigation.

Also, Fife said the tax is placed on the consumer of tobacco products. The shops only collect the tax from the consumer for the tribe.

Voting by districts for the veto override were:

The Council was not as generous with FY 96 funds. With a 23-11 vote, the Council postponed action on FY 1996 appropriations until an Oct. 30 emergency session. The Council had appropriated one month's funding of the 1996 budget and was considering a continuing resolution for programs and services operations. The bill was approved unanimously at the emergency session.

In other business, the Council:

- postponed the authorization and appropriation of funds for the development and construction of tribal travel plazas in Okmulgee, Muskogee, and other strategic locations. Yahola cast the tie-breaking vote.

- approved unanimously an appropriation to purchase property for Hillabee Ceremonial Ground, near Hanna, and place the land in trust for continued use by the ground members. Hillabee is one of 14 active Muscogee ceremonial grounds;

- approved unanimously an appropriation of $1,500 for compensation for the employee protection commission recording secretary;

- approved unanimously a 50-50 percent profit sharing agreement between the tribe and the Bristow Indian Community smokeshop. The original split was 60-40 percent with the lesser going to the community. No figures regarding revenue flows were presented;

- approved unanimously to appropriate funds from the tribe's Indian Country U.S.A lawsuit monies to fund the tribe's higher education scholarship program for fiscal year 1996;

- approved unanimously amendments to the Eufaula Dormitory School Board Act. The changes will allow the board chair to call special meetings as needed and will stagger the terms of the five-member board;

- approved unanimously a resolution allowing lands purchased by Kialegee Tribal Town to be placed in trust. The town is a federally recognized tribal entity with origins in the 1936 Oklahoma Indian Welfare Act. Since Kialegee is within the political jurisdiction of the Muscogee Nation, the tribe must give its consent before another entity may have land placed in trust;

- gave unanimous confirmation to the reappointment of Muscogee citizen Wilbert Lowe to the tribe's farm authority board. Lowe resides in Weleetka;

- gave unanimous confirmation to the reappointment of Muscogee citizen Darrell Howell to the farm authority board. Howell resides in Checotah;

- approved unanimously to accept property for the purpose of processing it from fee to trust status. The property is being utilized by the Tribal Towns Center Organization in Okemah and was donated to the group by a non-Indian; and

- authorized, with a 33-1 vote, the chief to execute a contract for the Johnson O'Malley Indian education programs and include funds for early childhood development. The tribe contracts the program from the Bureau of Indian Affairs and administers the program with more than 10,000 participants in 44 schools throughout the tribe's political distribution.

Voting no was S. McIntosh.

All ordinances and tribal resolutions will be forwarded to Fife for his consideration. He has 10 working days to approve or veto the actions. He may also choose to do nothing in which case the acts will be considered valid after the 10 days.

The November regular session will be Nov. 18 because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Citizens to organize veterans group

OKMULGEE — Muscogee citizens are surveying readers in a preliminary assessment of tribal members who are U.S. military veterans. Veterans may have served in peace time or have combat duty.

The following information is being requested:

- name;
- address;
- branch of service;
- rate-rank at time of discharge;
- degree of Creek blood;
- special awards, honors, citations, medals, or other significant facts; and
- membership in veterans' organizations.

After a sufficient number of replies have been received, a committee will be established. They will be asked to develop a viable agenda and-or project which will promote and preserve the history and deeds of Creek veterans for posterity, said Jorene Coker, a U.S. Navy WAVES veteran and organizer. "We need to bring to the attention of everybody just what our Creeks contributed to the welfare of our country..."

Other organizers are Phillip Coon, U.S. Army, and Charlie Coker, U.S. Air Force.

Submit information to Mrs. Coker at: P.O. Box 157, Preston, OK 74456.

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation community health representatives have been recognized for their work with the tribe recently.

Muscogee citizen Collene Jones received the CHR program award for health representative of the year for 1995.

"The award was based on her dedication and commitment to our people," said Kim Jenkins program manager. "She is a strong advocate for the people she serves and can be found wherever she is needed."

Jones represented the program at the state conference in Tulsa. She has been with the program since 1992.

Jones, and her husband, James, reside near Dustin.

Mary Ann Kane and Christine Roberts were also recognized by Jenkins for their work with the CHR eyeglass program for the period including August, September, and October.

Jenkins said more than 158 eyeglass vouchers were processed through the program that provides corrective lenses for those eligible children and elderly applicants.

Muscogee Nation to receive two planning grants

OKMULGEE — The Muscogee Nation is the recipient of planning grants for drug court planning and stopping violence against Indian women for the 1995-96 fiscal years.

The goal of the drug court planning grant is to facilitate strategic planning to develop, implement, and analyze a tribal-wide needs assessment to identify alternatives to incarceration for nonviolent substance abuse offenders and to establish a judicially supervised tracking system for program participants. The grant will also allow for the development of a treatment alternative to incarceration. These activities will aid the Nation in decreasing the rate of substance abuse by Muscogee citizens and provide treatment programs to reduce recidivism rates.

The drug court planning grant is worth $35,000.

The violence against Indian women grant will be used to facilitate the training of law enforcement officers and prosecutors to more effectively identify and respond to violent crimes against women. The grant will also be used to develop and implement a data collection system linking various agencies within the tribal justice and community services departments. The data collection system will be designed to track arrests, protection orders, prosecutions, and convictions for violent crimes against women including domestic violence and sexual assault. Grant activities will also include a review of the existing comprehensive criminal code for the Muscogee Nation and the enhancement of policies and protocols pertaining to the identification, prevention, and response to violent crimes against women.

The grant will provide funding for a lighthouse officer to respond to violent crimes against women only. Grant funds will also provide funding to train law enforcement and department of justice personnel on issues of violent crimes against women.

The tribe will continue its support of the Okmulgee Safehouse-Creek Nation Court Appointed Special Advocates program by establishing a partnership with the facility.

Violent crimes against women is an issue of concern that has just recently achieved national prominence. The grant award is for $75,000.

The two grant awards were prepared by Scott Johnson, the tribe's social planner. Other grant awards prepared by Johnson and received by the tribe are:

- Title IV-B Child Welfare Services — 1993, 1994, 1995;
- Indian Child Welfare Grant — 1993, 1994, 1995;
- Family Violence and Services Grant — 1993, 1994, 1995;
- Adoption Opportunities Grant — 1994;
- Family Preservation Planning Grant — 1994;
- Child Abuse Initiative Grant — 1993, 1994;
- Drug Court Planning Grant — 1995;
- STOP Violence Against Indian Women Grant — 1995; and
- Title- IV-B Child Welfare Services and Family Preservation and Support Five Year Plan Grant — 1996.

Grant awards from his work total $4.8 million.

Citizen's metalwork to be on special exhibit at museum

ANADARKO — The metalwork of tribal citizen Timothy Tiger will be exhibited from Nov. 12 through Jan. 16 at the Southern Plains Indian Museum.

An exhibit preview will be held from 1 to 4:30 p.m., Nov. 12 in which Tiger will be present to discuss his work.

Tiger's artistic inspiration derives from history, current events, and family history. His mixed media metalwork pieces are assembled from copper, steel, brass, bronze, aluminum, wood, and found objects. His techniques include lost wax casting, enameling, electroforming, anodizing, stretching copper, and etching. He finalizes his pieces by oxidizing or by copper electroplating.

As Tiger explains, "my current body of work 'Stereotypes and Attitudes,' explores [topics from] the disaster of the Spiro Mounds in the 1930s to current affairs involving stereotypes and bigotry. My work is an ongoing expression of attitude and means. I blend my feelings with historical events and-or political comment on the state of being Indian today."

Tiger's recent awards include first place in the 1993 Oklaoma State University Studio Art Show and a Society of North American Goldsmiths' Minority Student Fellowship in 1994.

Among the most powerful pieces in the exhibit is "Stereotypes and Attitudes X" which refers to the looting and destruction of the prehistoric Spiro Mound site in the 1930s. Other mixed media metalwork assemblages explore the complex path of an American Indian artist in the late 20th century.

Tiger

Tiger received a bachelor of fine arts degree in studio art in 1991 and a certificate in Native American studies in 1994 from OSU. Currently, he is working on a bachelor of arts degree in art history at OSU.

Sparks is a sociology major. He also possesses an aviation license.

He is the son of Helen Marks and Rolen Sparks.

Citizen enrolls at Saint Louis University

ST. LOUIS — Muscogee citizen Isaac T. Warren is enrolled in his first semester at Saint Louis University. He is enrolled in the pre-law scholars program.

Saint Louis University is a private, Jesuit university and the first university established west of the Mississippi River. The liberal arts university enrolls approximately 11,000 students on its four campuses, including one in Madrid, Spain.

Warren is the son of John and Susan Warren of Prague.

Dr. Minoka Hill Scholarships available

BOULDER, Colo. — The Dr. Rosa Minoka Hill Fund announces its fall 1995 season for scholarship applications.

The fund endeavors to arrange scholarships for high school age American Indian students to attend some of the nation's outstanding private college preparatory schools.

The fund is named to honor the memory and lifelong humanitarian service of Lillie Rosa Minoka Hill, a Mohawk woman who became a doctor of medicine at the end of the 19th century.

To receive an application write: 1630 30th St.,

Suite 309, Boulder, CO 80301-1000; or call (303) 492-3108.

Primary consideration will be given to those whose applications are received by Dec. 31.

Foundation creates first endowed chair

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Plans for an endowed chair of American Indian studies at Haskell Indian Nations University will be a reality soon.

Dr. Dee Ann DeRoin, president of the board of trustees foundation, has established the Archie and Mollie Hawkins Endowment for the Distinguished Chair in American Indian Studies. The endowment honors the work of the Hawkinses, who are alumni and long-time supporters of the university. Mr. Hawkins is a charter member of the Haskell Foundation Board of Trustees.

University president Bob Martin said the endowed chair will provide Haskell the opportunity to hire a faculty member who is a recognized expert in American Indian studies.

DeRoin said that the foundation would need approximately one-half to three quarters of a million dollars for the endowment.

The foundation is a non-profit organization created in 1984 to receive grants and gifts on behalf of HINU.

Persons interested in contributing to the endowment effort should contact the Haskell foundation at (913) 749-8417.

Gratitude

Our greatest appreciation is extended to all who aided us during our loss.

The flowers, cards, and food were all wonderful, but we especially want to thank everyone for their prayers and thoughts. They were the greatest gift that could have been offered.

We would like to say thank you to Bunny Hill who has been so much help to us — before and after our loss. We know that he was doing his job, but he went beyond that and was really appreciated. Again, thanks to everyone and please keep our family in your prayers.

Henry Chester Foshee Family

Our family wishes to thank Newtown United Methodist Church members for the lunch, flowers, and support. We would like to thank Vann's Lake Community for their love, food, and flowers also.

Ocie Lee Miller Family

We would like to thank everyone who provided the family with food and sent flowers during the passing of our loved one.

OKMULGEE — Muscogee Nation District Court Judge Pat Moore dismissed five petitions alleging fraud and irregularities in the Oct. 28 primary election.

Candidates Earl King, Mae Jackson, Wynema Roberts, Betty Gray, and Duke Harjo filed petitions with the election board.

Four of the five are incumbents (Gray is the exception) and only Roberts is in the Dec. 2 run-off.

The quintet alleged irregularities ranging from voting accommodations, spoiled ballots, and the posting times for absentee ballots among others.

Moore decided the election board "substantially complied with [the] Nation's election laws when conducting the Oct. 28 primary elections."

The primary results will stand.

As The MNN went to press Nov. 11, no appeals had been filed.

Second Chief Shelly Crow message

I want to thank all of you who supported me in my attempt for Principal Chief and especially for the faith you placed in me these past four years. I appreciate the prayers and all of the hard work. I will never forget that God allowed me the opportunity to serve my people as second chief.

I can honestly say I promised no one any position of authority nor favors during my campaign. I have strived to serve you to my best ability. God bless the Creek Nation's future and pray for our new leaders.

Pastor recalls war

Chester Nimitz, Supreme Commander of the Pacific Fleet.

Doyle spent much of the remainder of his tour at Guam. It was there he saw the first new superfortress bomber, the B-29. He also witnessed the departure of the most famous B-29, the Enola Gay, on its mission to drop the first atomic bomb in August 1945.

Doyle dismisses the controversy that has developed about the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Unless one was there fighting, one could not understand Doyle said. The bombing saved several thousand lives and brought an end to the war.

"It was welcomed by all of us."

Doyle returned to the states later that summer. He married Nora in 1950 and was ordained as a Baptist minister in 1957. Today he is pastor of Snake Creek Baptist Church. He and his wife reside in Coweta.

who will not forget us. Let us examine their records and accomplishments. Almost all of the candidates contend they are aware of the communication problem [between tribal government and citizens] and have promised to correct it. A great majority of elected officers have forgotten their promises.

I feel real excited about this election year and I am remembering the excitement in the people's faces as they know in their hearts that they are making a big difference as a voter this time around.

Rev. John Lowe, Oklahoma City

Citizen makes allegations

Editor:

The letter [The MNN, August 1995] with Gloria Lowe's signature on it confirms my suspicion that the Tulsa Creek Indian Community Board of Directors needs to be educated on the terminology I used [The MNN, July 1995].

Nepotism: [TCIC Chair] Loretta Wilson Kelly's husband, Earl, was a board member that hired her sister as smokeshop manager. He is on the enterprise board that hired her to work for TCIC. Hiring a sister-in-law and stepson is nepotism. Chief Fife appointed his brother-in-law Ed Mouss. How good are our laws without enforcement?

Conflict of interest: Kelly appointed Earl King, a Tulsa District representative, to the enterprise board that is in charge of the smokeshop. She also appointed Carol Morris, TCIC Women's Auxiliary secretary, Miss TCIC Committee, gift shop personnel manager, enterprise board, and Council Oak Ceremony Committee chair.

When Tulsa Rep. Irene Cleghorn questioned why she appointed the same people, Loretta replied — "No one would volunteer." I was recognized by the chair and volunteered. She replied, "I'll consider it," and that was months ago.

Irresponsible spending: a well-known Indian-owned business had put a bid in for a computer. The community bought from a non-Indian. The computer was purchased one year ago. Mr. Kelly stated at a meeting that it was outdated and that they wanted to purchase a new one. A copier was purchased for $9,000. The community was unaware it was a used unit until it broke down.

The enterprise board spent an undisclosed amount of money for a second smokeshop that was built on property they leased for $3,000 per month. Three months rent was paid. Unfortunately, they didn't apply for a tobacco license first and were denied. More expense was incurred to remove the building and reconstruct it. Lowe should have receipts and invoices available to account for these expenses. However, numerous requests for a total amount spent for this fiasco have gone unanswered. When the treasurer [Lowe] was asked for a report, the reply was — "The records are in the hands of the accounting firm." When asked what her job is if the accounting firm is in charge of processing the accounts,

Business practices: I know of no other government entity that makes loans with no interest, no security or collateral, and no background or credit checks. Evidently the only requirement for a loan is a signature. There have been no reports released indicating the number and amount of loans that have been made.

Does Chief Fife really want to know why Muscogee (Creek) citizens are unhappy and skeptical of our government? It appears that the benefit of a privileged few is more important than the good of the people and the good of communities. Our Indian people are feeling hopelessly betrayed. Elected officials should be held responsible for their actions. The Creek Nation citizens will not forget that the administration has been pleading Congress for more money. What will they do if they become completely sovereign?
